4-VILLAGE SEWER SYSTEM STUDIED

Village attorneys and engineers from Roselle, Bloomingdale, Addison and Glendale Heights will meet to decide legal, financial and engineering feasibility of a "quad-village authority" for a sanitary system to service the four municipalities.

Village presidents, administrators, trustees, engineers, and lawyers met Wednesday night in Addison's Municipal Building to kick-off the formation of a sanitary district or authority.

IT WAS AGREED that village attorneys and engineers would report back to the steering committee of village presidents on March 20 at 8 p.m. in the Roselle Village Hall.

Attorneys will research legal aspects and restrictions of a sanitary district or authority and how the project can be financed.

Engineers will estimate the type of work and capacity needed and come up with a "ballpark" cost figure. The figure would probably be a minimum-maximum estimate.

minimum-maximum estimate

The four villages sought delay of the county's plans to hold a countywide sewer referendum in April. The state legislature put a crimp in the plan.

The vote cannot be taken until at least mid-summer.

THE FOUR villages want to keep the power of sanitary service in their combined areas as a lever of annexation.

A sanitary district under law would have to service anyone within the district.

The county plan also would take away the lever.

The alternative is to form a sanitary authority as the villages want. This would limit service to selected persons and developers to encourage their annexation into a village.

Village presidents and engineers agreed the county plan was a good one, but not compatible with expansion needs.

However at a later date the sanitary authority and facilities created by it could join a countywide plan, the representatives agreed.

"WE JOINED in the effort even though we have present expansion room for 2,000 more in our sewer plant," Roselle Village Pres. Robert Frantz said.

"We would ultimately benefit from this venture."

Bloomingdale Village Pres. Stanley Haverkamp and Glendale Heights Village Pres. William Keating said their villages were in need of treatment facilities.

"We are the most needy of the four villages here," Haverkamp said.

Keating said his village is proceeding with plans to double its one-million-gallon plant and is not waiting for the four village system.

The system would run from Roselle to Glendale Heights where a treatment plant would be built.

DURING DISCUSSION of a group name, Roselle Trustee Betty Lou Mann suggested "GRAB," representing the first letters of the four villages.

Frantz joked perhaps it should be "BRAG."

"You can't brag about our sewers," Mrs. Mann retorted.

The steering committee is subject to approval by all the village boards.

Addison Village Pres. Harry Warthen was named chairman of the committee.

More Juvenile 'Rights' Coming

"The time is coming when juveniles will have more legal rights than adults," Thomas Benda, DuPage County public defender's office, said Wednesday.

"They will get the same rights to jury trial and police questioning only in the presence of their attorney soon," he said. "They deserve as much and more legal rights to protect them in the legal process of arrest and courts as adults."

Benda is a public defender assigned to juvenile court cases in DuPage County. He spoke to the Illinois Welfare Association Dist. 2 meeting, at St. Andrew's Country Club, near West Chicago.

COURT DECISIONS in 1966 set up the procedure for having a public defender for juveniles, he said.

This was not done previously, he added.

"The probation departments, police and courts will have to stop and think more in the future on what is the proper way to handle a juvenile case," he said.

"It will be harder to get at a kid and take him away from his home," he said, "to place him in a better situation, even though it would benefit the child."

There will have to be a combined push on state legislatures to get more money and more foster and detention homes, he said.

The effort to help the repeating offender with state aid must be made, he added.

"WE IN THE public defender's office try not to win the case and lose the child," he said. "In other words, get a kid off on a technicality when some court control may do him more good."

"We protect the rights of the child, but also try to help him find his way back into society."

Benda referred to county detention homes as a place for helping youths in trouble.

The DuPage County Board of Supervisors is expected to review plans for a county detention home in the next two weeks.

Tentative groundbreaking for the home is set at Sept. 1 this year.

"There is no such thing as no detention home experience, either it's bad or good, not neutral," Marian Tevis, superintendent of the Kane County youth home, said at the meeting.

"TIME SPENT in the detention home, no matter if three days or three months, will either hinder or help the youthful offender."

"Illinois municipalities must hang their heads in shame for the lack of juvenile facilities in this state," he said. "There are nine communities which have homes for juveniles, he said, and fewer than that have recognized programs of rehabilitation."

Last year, 400,000 juveniles were confined by authorities, he said.

Of this, 90,000 stayed in jails of which only 20 per cent were considered adequately equipped or kept, he added.

The average cost to taxpayers for each 45-year-old man involved in a life of crime is $125,000, he said.

"It is cheaper to help and

Teacher Pay About Same in Diocese

Elementary and secondary lay teachers in the Joliet Diocese will continue on much the same salary schedule next year as they had during the current school year.

Beginning teachers with a bachelor's degree will start at $6,000 as they had last year, while beginners with a master's degree will start with $6,600 — a $100 raise over last year's base.

The revised salary schedule, effective next September, was announced after a recent special meeting of the board of education.

LAY TEACHERS in the Chicago diocese will start with the same beginning salary schedule, but are guaranteed at least a 7 per cent increase beginning in September, 1970.

According to a release from the Joliet Catholic Schools Office, the newly adopted schedule is built on an index-ratio basis to provide incentive to the teachers for undertaking advanced study.

While the difference between the beginning for bachelor's and master's degrees is a "relatively modest" 10 per cent, the size of the differential increases each year, the release said.

By the tenth year, when the teacher with a bachelor's degree is making 138 per cent of the base salary, the teacher with the master's degree is making 160 per cent and the teacher with a master's degree plus 30 hours is making 183 per cent.

THE HIGHEST salary permissible on the schedule is $10,900 for a teacher with a master's degree plus 30 hours on the tenth step.

The schedule will be reviewed again next year.

"We would love to be able to raise the base at that time," Supt. Fr. Nales Gillen said, "and, hopefully, some form of outside aid will enable us to do just that."

Tree Planting Plan Pondered

Itasca property owners may be asked for comments by village officials concerning a tree planting program on a 50-50 sharing basis.

Such a proposal was offered by Trustee Roy Johnson this week during the regular meeting of the village board.

Itasca has lost some 250 diseased trees the past few years and an additional 38 trees are being cut down in the village at the present time, according to Johnson.

JOHNSON presented his plan to sound out board members, explaining that such a replacement program could offset the loss of trees in the village.

"If the people would be receptive to sharing the cost of replanting the new trees, it might be well for the board to consider implementing such a program," he said.

Itasca has a master tree-planting plan prepared by John DeKamp, village forester.

The plan throughout the village suggests 25 different tree varieties which could assist property owners in the type of program suggested by Johnson.

Average $827 Pay Hike for Teachers

Lake Park High School teachers will receive an average $827 raise in their salaries next year, according to a plan approved by the board of education in a closed executive session Wednesday night.

Since the action was taken in closed session, it was in direct violation of the Illinois Open Meetings Law.

The salary raises will mean an additional $53,375 adjustment in the education fund budget for 1969-70. Along with other salary and cost adjustments, the additional expenses of the fund will total $154,075.

The plan also included increases in hourly wages for behind-the-wheel driver education from $4.50 to $5, an increase in summer school wages from $6 to $6.75, and increases in extra duty contracts.

Under the district's innovative responsibility-salary program, teachers are placed in one of five groups ranging in responsibility from being a member of a teaching team to a high position of curriculum planning and direction.

SALARIES IN group one, those teachers of highest responsibility, go up to a maximum base salary of $12,000 with a maximum differentiated responsibility increment of $3,000.

Group two salaries could go up to a maximum of $11,500 with a maximum differentiated responsibility increment of $2,000 while group three salaries could go up to a maximum of $11,000 with a maximum differentiated responsibility increment of $1,000.

Group four salaries could go up to a maximum of $10,000 and group five up to a maximum of $9,000. There are no maximum differentiated responsibility increments for these two lowest responsibility groups.

These, however, are maximum salaries a teacher could receive for the responsibility he carries. They do not indicate the lowest a teacher could earn in the district.

SUPT. CARL Forrester said he hoped the 15 to 20 new teacher replacements for next year could be hired for $6,900 to $7,000.

Predicting the competitive salaries ranging from $7,000 to $7,500, Forrester said, "We'll have to sell them (prospective teachers) on everything about Lake Park but money."

Lake Park teachers receiving a differentiated responsibility increment as well as the base pay will be hired under two contracts rather than the conventional single contract.

Seventy-five per cent of any increase in pay will be written in under a differentiated contract with 25 per cent under the regular base salary contract.

This is done to protect the district against the teacher who cannot live up to the increased responsibility.

Under law the base salary cannot be reduced, but the differentiated salary written under a separate contract could be rescinded if the promotion does not work out.

ASKED HOW the program in its first year is shaping up, Forrester said the "best evidence is the enthusiasm of the faculty for the system."

Teacher evaluation begins with the "number threes," typically team teachers, is processed through "number twos" under the leadership of teachers in group one.

The evaluations are given to administrative assistants Dr. Eugene Swierczewski and Stanley Wheeler who add their evaluations and turn the whole package over to Forrester who serves as moderator or arbiter if necessary.

He will then make a decision on final recommendations to the board and "plug these people into a dollar amount according to criteria," Forrester said.

Soden in Capital For VFW Meeting

Ray R. Soden of Bensenville was in Washington this week for the annual midwinter conference of national and state leaders of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

Soden is chairman of the VFW National Voice of Democracy Committee and a member of Bensenville Toga VFW Post 2149.

On Saturday and Sunday he attended meetings on the various programs of the VFW and also attended closed briefings by government and civilian officials on national and international affairs.

A GENERAL VFW meeting was scheduled for Monday.

On Tuesday Soden appeared before the House Committee on Veterans Affairs with VFW Commander-in-Chief Richard W. Homan who outlined in detail the organization's legislative proposals for 1968.

The conference concluded Tuesday with the annual VFW Congressional Banquet held to honor members of Congress who served in the armed forces.

Talk of the Town

Saturday evening Lawrence and Jennie Voyles of Washington had dinner at Corrado's and then went on to a show, in celebration of Jennie's birthday.

Although 6 feet tall and a junior at Conant, Arnold, son of the Bernard Millers of Washington Boulevard, only had 4 1/4 candles on his birthday cake this year. He was born Feb. 29 and really was 17 Saturday night. He celebrated the evening with his parents at Randolph Cinema and then having pizza.

Recently moving into the new apartments on Evanston were Tom Lenhart of Des Plaines and his bride, the former Connie Harper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harper of Lafayette.

Karen Daly, daughter of the John Dalys of Willow, is busy shopping for a trousseau, April 19 she will become the bride of PO 3c Mike Karom of Great Lakes.

Another bride-to-be, Sharon Metrick of Skokie, and her fiancé, Al Feinberg of Chicago, were entertained Saturday night by her cousin, Barbara Isaac, of N. Olive, and her husband, Chuck, at a party in their home.

KEITH, SON OF Larry and Barbara Excell of Ashland, celebrated his 13th birthday Saturday with Dave Damlich and Joey Weiss by seeing "Dave Major and the Minors" at the Sheraton O'Hare.

This year Mary Ellen, daughter of Eloise and Charles Young of Baxter, gave up having a party for her 11th birthday, Feb. 11, and instead spent the day lunching and shopping with her mother at Golf Mill.

Friday night Ellen, daughter of Walter and Ina Hines, was guest of honor at a surprise party hosted by Cris Atcher of Schaumburg. Ellen and her mother left Sunday for their new home in California.

Danny, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Casarella of Glendale, had to postpone celebrating his 12th birthday, Feb. 24, due to a strep throat infection.

Visiting Margie Richter of Baxter Friday was Jo Lebbin, former Washington Boulevard resident.

Billie, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Baillie of Flagstaff, celebrated his 12th birthday Feb. 25 with his family.

DOWN THE BLOCK, Kathy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Helmer, celebrated her birthday Feb. 24 with her family and fiancé, James Lohf of Maywood Lane.

Sheryl LeVine, daughter of Bernie and Cookie of Alcoa, had to cancel her birthday party because of illness. Sunday she and her family drove to Chicago to visit her grandparents. While there, she had a birthday cake in honor of her seventh birthday.

Wally and Edna Paukstis of Washington Boulevard had a busy weekend. The water pipes leading to their house collapsed. To replace them, the yard, driveway and the street had to be dug up. After no water for two days, the household is slowly returning to normal.

Delbert and Maxine Gilbert of N. Morton and their daughter Pam drove to Lafayette, Ind., for the weekend, to visit Mrs. Gilbert's uncle who is hospitalized.

Jeffrey Peters, son of Joseph and Gerri Peters of Washington, celebrated his eighth birthday

Monday with an after school party for Larry Voyles, David Cecile, Tom and David Warhack, Tim Berkley, Edward Ness, Jim Radous, George Theros and Casey Moore.

Also celebrating her birthday this week was Wendy Woynich, daughter of Alex and Delores of Washington. Afternoon party guests were Sheryl and Jill Davis, Diane Schmidt, Kevin, Michelle and Kathy Brown and Mary McNally. Sunday her cousin, Tom Rossow, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rossow of Mohave, celebrated his birthday. His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Rossow of Chicago, came for the day.

ON MONDAY, Julie Groh, daughter of Jim and Mickey of Decatur, celebrated her third birthday with Ileen McCormack, Paula McVey, Karen Fortney and Jim and Pamela Xaverais. While the children played, their mothers had their own Kaffee Klatsch.

Eddie, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Mejia of Douglas, is home from Northwest Community Hospital.

Bob and Barbara Humphreys of Decatur had as house guests over the weekend, Bob's brother and family, the Arthur Humphreys of Cincinnati.

Monday evening Ron and Kay Xaverais of Decatur had as dinner guests, in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Sills, Kay's mother of the same address, Kay's sisters and brothers and their families.

Karen Callopy, daughter of Tom and CeCe, celebrated her birthday in their Alcoa home last week, when guests were Sheryl LeVine, Robin Rice, Lisa Donatelli, girlfriend, Laura Roberta Hubner, Susie Wymouler and Sheryl Conley of Hanover Park.

Last Saturday Tom and CeCe Callopy celebrated her natal day by driving to Chicago to see the play "Plaza Suite" and meeting the Joseph Conleys for a late supper at Around the Corner in Niles.

Last week Roesia Gerstein, Carol Robinson and Daniel Stein participated in taping a TV quiz show, which will be presented on TV Tuesday, March 18, at 10 p.m.

Schmidt Is Assigned

DID YOU KNOW THAT ENTHUSIASM and YOUR YOUNGSTER ARE THE GREATEST PALS GOING?

In getting youngsters enthusiastic about music lessons, the main thing is to show them what they can accomplish in a hurry. That's why we stress the teaching method that actually has them playing simple tunes right away, instead of starting with boring drills and exercises.

Instead of long, non-productive practice sessions where your child sees no obvious accomplishment, this teaching method, with every lesson, puts the youngsters' newly-acquired knowledge to practical, thrilling use — playing real music.

This new teaching method is so simple, so practical, so loaded with immediate results, your child will be wide-eyed with pleasure.

Remember, if a child wants to play, he can play! Why not come in and find out all about it?

Bank, Village in Embezzlement Debate

A mud-slinging legalistic debate has erupted between Bensenville and a Chicago bank in the village's efforts to recover funds embezzled by former village treasurer Harold Keeling.

Accusations of "incompetence" have been hurled by both sides in the civil suit which grows more complicated each time it hits the courtroom.

The suit, filed in November 1966, now has been taken off the March jury trial calendar by Circuit Judge Bert Rathje and is rescheduled tentatively for May.

Additional delays, however, are expected as Bensenville attempts to recover the full amount of $68,094.70 it alleges was taken by Keeling between 1961 and 1965.

KEELING, now 61, of 316 McLean St., Bensenville, was convicted in October, 1966, of embezzling $31,741.55 in village funds in 1964-65.

He served two years of a one-to-five year sentence at Illinois State Penitentiary in Joliet.

He was paroled last Nov. 24 and currently is reported to be working at an auto agency in LaGrange Park.

Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, from whom Bensenville is seeking to recover the $31,741.55 which Keeling pleaded guilty to embezzling, is attempting to prove in court that "incompetency" in the Bensenville Village Hall enabled Keeling "to carry out his fraud and forgery."

This charge was made last Nov. 13 in answer to a Nov. 12 charge by Bensenville's attorneys that Harris Bank was guilty of "shocking abandonment of elementary care in the preservation of public funds."

Harris is represented by the Chicago law firm of Chapman and Cutler.

BENSENVILLE'S attorneys also charged that Harris Bank "was guilty of willful and wanton misconduct in paying any of the three checks in question."

The three checks in question were state sales tax receipts that Keeling, as village treasurer, deposited in a Waterworks and Sewerage System Bond Construction Fund at Harris.

Using checks from the rear of the village checkbook, Keeling then withdrew similar amounts from Harris and deposited the checks in his personal or business accounts at the First National Bank of Elgin.

The transactions for which Bensenville is attempting to hold Harris Bank liable took place on the following dates: —ON MAY 1, 1964, Keeling deposited a check for $7,832.84 at Harris and on May 21, 1964, withdrew the same amount from Harris and deposited it in Elgin.

—On April 30, 1965, Keeling deposited a check for $12,855.76 at Harris and on May 6, 1965, withdrew the same amount from Harris and deposited it in Elgin.

—On Aug. 15, 1965, Keeling deposited a check for $11,252.95 at Harris and on Aug. 24, 1965, withdrew the same amount from Harris and deposited it in Elgin.

In the Nov. 12 brief filed by Bensenville's attorneys in the case, Francis Riley of the Chicago firm of Adamowski, Newey and Riley, and William Redmond, village attorney, Bensenville "denies that it did not at all times exercise due care" in the handling of village finances.

Riley and Redmond charged, instead, that Harris should never have made the construction bond fund, "a limited and special account," available to Keeling as village treasurer.

THE BANK retorted that the village never gave Harris notice of any limitations or special conditions with respect to the account. It was a general checking account, the bank said.

Bensenville attorneys then asserted that Harris Bank had been "alerted to the fact that one check was a blatant (alleged) forgery and yet was paid."

The bank replied that when Harris officials asked Village Clerk Herbert Dierking whether he had signed check number 395, Dierking said he would have Keeling call Harris to tell the bank whether the check should be paid.

"The Village of Bensenville," the bank accused, "acting through its agent and village clerk Herbert Dierking, thus misled the Harris Bank into believing that the signature of Herbert Dierking on check number 395 was authorized and made it possible for Harold F. Keeling to carry out his fraud and (alleged) forgery."

BENSENVILLE further charged that Harris asked "the very person who committed the (alleged) forgery to confirm the signatures on the check by a form which invited a repeated (alleged) forgery."

To this Harris replied curtly that a letter sent to the village requesting Dierking to confirm his signature on the check was delivered by village employees not to Dierking but to Keeling, who allegedly forged Dierking's signature of confirmation.

Harris virtually ignored a final accusation by Bensenville that the bank paid a check without a sufficient number of signatures on it. The check was signed by Keeling, who allegedly forged Dierking's signature.

WHEN KEELING, represented by Alfred Woodward of Wheaton, pleaded guilty in September, 1966, to three counts each of grand theft and official misconduct, six counts of forgery were dropped by prosecutor.

cutting attorney Mrs. Helen Kinney in DuPage County Circuit Court.

Keeling, village treasurer in Bensenville for 18 years and Fenton (Bensenville) High School board member for 17 years, of which six were served as president, was arrested Feb. 12, 1966, by local authorities after village officials discovered the then apparent embezzlement.

Code Bans Use Of Chemicals

An ordinance prohibiting the spraying in the application of chemicals on village property was approved Tuesday by the Itasca Village Board.

Restrictions set forth in the code are directed principally to persons or firms where they have sprayed or applied chemicals to and on village owned streets, shrubs, and vegetation, without prior authority from the village.

According to the provisions of the ordinance, the preventive measures called for prohibiting "double spraying," to offset possible injury to trees and shrubs, including wildlife.

HOWEVER, permission may be requested of the village for spraying and application of chemicals by individuals or firms on village property. The board of trustees may then act on the request for possible approval.

Requests to the village board must contain statements concerning the area and place, the chemical to be used and in what proportion.

Other information to be provided would explain the type and manner of application or spraying, who will conduct the operation, and the proposed date of the operation.

Violators of the ordinance are subject to a fine of not less than $25 or more than $100.

Juvenile Detention Probed

Teachers in north Elmhurst recently voted to investigate what the DuPage County board has done toward building and administering a juvenile detention home.

DuPage County has no facilities for juveniles and is forced to use the facilities of other counties or the DuPage County jail.

Val Beck, a teacher, told members of Churchville Elementary School Dist. 3's education association that many children in legal trouble are held in the county jail at Wheaton until time of their court hearings, possibly several weeks.

TEACHERS expressed objections to having young teenagers confined in the same area with adult inmates for long periods of time. They called it a "deplorable situation."

The DuPage County board recently indicated that juvenile detention facilities will be constructed near Wheaton. Groundbreaking is tentatively scheduled for Sept. 1.

Suspended Again

Wood Dale Patrolman Robert Sample, 27, was suspended from the force for five days beginning Saturday by Police Chief Jack McGann.

McGann said Sgt. Edward Windle allegedly found Sample sleeping Feb. 27 at 5:30 a.m. while in a squad car on Irving Park Road near Wood Dale Road.

McGann said Sample denies the charge.

Last fall Sample was suspended 30 days for allegedly sleeping on duty.

18 Protest R-4 Zoning

Bensenville Eighteen residents on Diana Court in Bensenville are protesting R-4 (multiple-family) zoning and annexation of 4.9 acres to the village.

The homeowners are objecting to apartment buildings located near their single-family dwellings north of Diana Court and near Addison creek.

Bensenville builder Ralph Cantrell has sought zoning and annexation of the unincorporated tract south of George Street.

A PUBLIC hearing was held Jan. 24 before the zoning board of appeals. As yet no recommendation has been made to the village board.

The zoning board is allowed 90 days to make a decision. A letter of protest to Eugene Sullivan, chairman of the zoning board, states:

"Not being aware that public hearings were being held on this matter, we therefore wish to go on record at this time that we are opposed to any zoning other than single-family dwellings in our neighborhood."

"One of the motivating factors in our decision to build our homes in this area was the 'single-family' pattern that existed."

"Any multiple dwelling construction would certainly substantially alter the residential nature of our neighborhood. We further feel a corresponding reduction in our property values would occur."

Several of the residents met last Saturday with village officials to discuss sewer problems, land filling operations in Brentwood East (being constructed by Cantrell) and the section north of Diana Court, south of George Street.

Wood Dale Beat

Safety Facts On Sidewalks

by SYD JAMIESON

The Wood Dale Council recently was criticized by irate residents for proposing a sidewalk tax program geared to combating hazardous walking conditions on main arterial streets.

The council proposed that sidewalks be put in sections off Addison Road, Wood Dale Road, Irving Park Road, and Commercial Street.

Criticism was not against the intent behind the proposed project, but against the fact that only certain streets were designated for sidewalks.

The council was advised to shelve the widening project for Wood Dale and Irving Park roads in favor of sidewalk construction throughout the entire village.

IN ALL FAIRNESS to the council, the sidewalk tax program was a step to alleviate past criticism for the lack of sidewalks and the dangers school children have by walking along roadways.

When talking about sidewalks, safety statistics should be used in making any judgments.

Jack McGann, police chief, reported that in 1965 there were 138 traffic accidents in Wood Dale. Out of this total, one 16-year-old was injured at 157 N. Addison Road.

In 1966, out of 176 accidents, there were seven children injured, and a 64-year-old pedestrian. Of the seven injured children, two were riding bicycles. One ran against a traffic light at Wood Dale and Irving Park and another 5-year-old riding a bike was hit at Wood Dale and Montrose Avenue.

A 14-year-old student was also hit that same year while riding a bicycle on Addison Road south of Gilbert Drive; a 13-year-old was injured by a hit and run driver on Commercial and Oak streets, and in the 300 block of Hemlock Avenue another teenager ran into the path of a motor vehicle.

POLICE RECORDS show there were three injured children, all 10 years of age, who were riding bicycles in 1967.

Again in 1968 three more children were added to the list of traffic accidents by Wood Dale police. These included a 6-year-old crossing Irving Park at Catalpa Ave. who was catching a school bus.

In Roy Oaks subdivision, which does not have sidewalks, a girl was struck by a passing motorist. That same year a 13-year-old girl was hit by a passing vehicle on Walnut Ave. and Commercial while walking with her back turned to traffic.

For this four-year-period, out of 711 traffic accidents reported by police, 14 children were injured. Fortunately none were fatalities.

As for the first two months of 1969, police records reveal 43 accidents to date with one being listed for a 10-year-old girl. She was injured by a motorist while crossing Wood Dale and Division Street.

The proposed sidewalk tax program offered by the village council at least is a start to alleviate a pressing problem. Undoubtedly the council has hopes in the future for a complete sidewalk program.

AT THE SAME TIME it is bugged continually for help in stemming the perennial traffic bottleneck for motorists at the intersection of Wood Dale and Irving Park.

You can't do everything in a day and both the sidewalk and the widening projects are recognized as priority items.

Each in its own way requires a considerable outlay of village funds, recognizing that the widening program will be financed predominantly in the beginning from motor fuel tax funds (MFT).

It is true that Mr. taxpayer will have to foot part of the cost for the sidewalk project — on his own or under a sidewalk tax. The fact that residents indicated they had no objection to a 50-50 share of the cost for a community-wide sidewalk project is in itself commendable.

BUT WHERE do you draw the line?

Like Comr. Dino Janis commented at a recent council meeting when confronted by a packed house of property owners — "The only time we have an audience like this is when something happens that affects the residents. Then it's damned if we do and damned if we don't."

Sometimes you just can't win for trying!

Third Party Files Complaint

Attorneys for Harold Keeling, former village treasurer, have until March 20 to file an answer or otherwise respond to a Third Party Complaint filed Feb. 20 in Bensenville's suit to recover embezzled village funds.

The Third Party Complaint was filed by Amberg and Labar, attorneys for Fidelity and Casualty Co. of New York, bonding company who held an insurance bond on Keeling when he served as village treasurer.

Bensenville filed suit in November 1966 to recover $68,094.70 from Keeling, from village auditors Raymond Blunt and Associates of Chicago for failing to detect errors in village bookkeeping, and from Fidelity as a legitimate insurance claim.

The village also seeks another $15,000 from Fidelity, representing the amount paid by the village to bond Keeling.

HARRIS TRUST and Savings Bank of Chicago is sued in the same action for $31,741.55, the sum Keeling admitted embezzling from the village prior to his October 1966 conviction and prison sentence.

The bank is charged with permitting Keeling to make improper withdrawals from a village checking account.

The Blunt auditing firm, which has served Bensenville since 1947, reportedly was hired originally on the recommendation of then newly-elected Village Clerk Herbert Dierking.

Fidelity claims in its Third Party Complaint that Keeling was "guilty of fraudulent and dishonest acts as the consequences of which (the bonding firm) is liable to the plaintiff (Bensenville)."

Fidelity further alleges that Keeling should be liable for all claims of the plaintiff, and asks that, if Bensenville wins a judgment against Keeling, Fidelity wants to be granted the same judgment.

ALSO PENDING in the Bensenville vs. Keeling case is a contested order granted in September 1967 by Associate Circuit Judge William Guild that Mrs. Helen Keeling be named as an additional party defendant.

Keeling allegedly has liquidated some of his holdings since his conviction, and transferred others to his wife's name.

He had been owner of two gift-stationery stores, one in Bensenville and one in Elgin. He also had owned his home in Bensenville.

A motion to dismiss the complaint against Mrs. Keeling came up for a Feb. 7 hearing, and was rescheduled for Feb. 21 before Circuit Judge Philip Locke.

The court action did not appear in public court records that day, nor is any trace of it available in the DuPage County Courthouse.

IN A FURTHER complication, Locke has ordered that bank records involved in Keeling's financial transactions need not be produced except as they show balances "from time to time on deposits" in each Keeling account.

It had been hoped that personal checking account records would confirm additional transactions by Keeling.

Attorneys for Bensenville particularly want the bank records of the First National Bank of Elgin and Elmhurst National Bank examined.

Harris Bank reportedly complied with the original subpoena for all records pertaining to the case.

The civil suit originally was scheduled to go to trial last November, but Keeling had not yet been released from Illinois State Penitentiary in Joliet.

Chief Judge Bert Rathje moved the trial date to this month, and later advanced it to May.

'Suspicious Auto' Leads to Arrests

Two burglary suspects were arrested early Wednesday morning following an initial complaint of a suspicious auto in Elk Grove Village.

Investigating village police apprehended Tony Garcia, alias

Charge Man With Murder Of His Wife

The operator of the Snack Time Restaurant, 270 N. Illinois St., Elmhurst, was charged by Chicago police Tuesday with the murder of his wife.

John Bitakis, 35, of Chicago, surrendered to police after the body of his 30-year-old wife, Eugenia, was found Tuesday in her father's home in Chicago.

Police reported she died of gunshot wounds in the back.

Corky Ely, and Mario Cichocki, alias Frank Diamond. Both list several Chicago residences.

Initially charged with possession of burglary tools, the investigation by officers Ray Marince, William Kohnke and Jon Scharpenter soon led to the discovery that Garcia was wanted in connection with an October burglary in the village, and Cichocki was identified as his alleged accomplice.

Garcia, under indictment for the Oct. 12 burglary of the Hi-Low Food Store, Elk Grove Village, was sent to Cook County Jail after he was unable to post $20,000 bond.

CICHOCKI could not make bond of $25,000, has been charged with burglary, and is also confined in Cook County Jail.

Investigation of the matter is continuing.

The pair were found parked on Devon Avenue about 200 feet

west of Ridge at 2:30 Wednesday morning, and when police asked what they were doing became evasive, police said.

Further investigation revealed a variety of burglary tools in the car, registered to Frank Diamond, as well as $22.50 in small coins and Armored Express Corp. coin wrappers, police said.

They were arrested, and further investigation led to the discovery that Garcia had jumped bail and was under indictment for burglary by the Cook County Grand Jury, according to police.

LATER, CICHOCKI was identified as the man who escaped when police captured Garcia after the October burglary in Elk Grove.

Both have previous arrest records, and Cichocki had served three years in prison for the attempted murder of a Chicago policeman.

Bids To Be Let in Spring For Widening of York Rd.

Bids are expected to be let this spring for the widening of York Road from Memorial Road south to Interstate 90, a 2.7-mile stretch from Bensenville to north Elmhurst.

Construction is scheduled to begin during the summer months and last for about four months, according to Ronald A. Dold, DuPage County superintendent of highways.

The $1.3-million project represents a joint effort by the village, county, state, and federal government.

THE PROJECT includes widening of the two-lane highway to four 12-foot lanes, a four-foot wide, 10-inch-high rumble strip, curbs, gutters, and storm sewers.

In addition there will be a raised barrier for channel and left turn lanes at York Road and Grand Avenue.

A traffic control signal will be installed at York and Memorial, Dold said, replacing the present

NORTH OF Memorial, York is not scheduled to be widened. However, improvements are under consideration by village officials, if financial help from the county and state can be obtained.

Mrs. Mildred Richter, village trustee, said this is the only way the roadway could be improved this year.

Mrs. Richter said York Road should be improved north of Memorial and that she would like to see it done at the same time it is being widened south of Memorial.

It is a "top priority" item, she said, but the village does not have the funds to finance the project by itself.

Last March 21 the village board approved by a 5-to-1 vote an agreement with the county calling for the widening of York south of Memorial.

The board opposed the widening of York Road north of Memorial because residents objected to having trees and parkways removed with the roadway coming closer to their homes.

COUNTY AND state highway officials insisted that a median strip accompany any widening project. This was necessary if federal and state funds were to be obtained.

The Bensenville board disapproved of the median strip and thus relinquished the prospect of obtaining federal and state aid for widening York.

Now, according to Mrs. Richter, aid may be sought for the improvement of York, but not for its widening.

Great Decisions, 1969

Dismay Over Disarray

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS

FRI., MAR. 7, 1969

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
Sixth in a Series

LONDON (UPI)—An American businessman, arriving in the Belgian capital of Brussels late one evening recently, spent two hours driving from hotel to hotel before finding a bed for the night.

That booming city of nearly 11 million population has become not only the home of the European Common Market and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) but the crossroads of Western Europe.

Every night its hotels are jammed with officials from the six Common Market countries—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Netherlands and Luxembourg—and businessmen from these and every other country of Western Europe.

Out at the Brussels suburb of Evere, half-way to the city's bustling international airport, the flags of the 15 NATO member countries fly in a brave show of Allied unity in front of a bleak, sprawling complex of prefabricated buildings. These have served as the alliance's political headquarters since it was eased out of France in 1967 by President Charles de Gaulle.

In the NATO cafeteria American and Canadian officers stand in line with mini-skirted British secretaries, Danish and Dutch diplomats, Turkish officials and pounchy German colonels.

The impression all this conveys is of unity—a booming, forward-marching Western Europe and a united Western alliance.

Yet, seldom since World War II—as President Nixon knew when he net up his now ended tour of Western Europe—has the dream of a united Europe been farther from realization. Seldom has the Atlantic alliance been in more disarray.

"The problem," London's weekly Economist wrote recently, "lies in the fact that Western Europe has become too strong to put up uncompromisingly with the American-European relationship of the 1950s, which was essentially a relationship of leader and led, but is still too weak—in will, if not in material resources—to sustain any coherent alternative to that relationship."

Yet 10 years ago chances for European unity looked rosy.

The Treaty of Rome, signed March 25, 1957, went into effect Jan. 1, 1958. It created the six-nation European Common Market, a fledgling economic giant with an area of 543,000 square miles and a combined population of more than 180 millions, able to look the United States and the Soviet Union in the eye and trade with them on equal terms.

Already it is the world's largest single trading bloc.

In July, 1968, the Common Market countries climaxed a decade of progressive tariffslashing by abolishing all tariff barriers between them and turning themselves into a customs union.

Yet, impressive though these achievements are, they are only limited. The dream of a united Europe seems to have been halted by insuperable roadblocks.

Britain, reluctant to sever her traditional commonwealth and Atlantic trading ties in order to join Europe, held back and did not sign the treaty of Rome. Instead, in 1960 she formed a rival trading group under her Free Trade Association (EFTA) or "outer seven," consisting of herself, Austria, Denmark, Norway, Portugal, Sweden and Switzerland.

In 1961, in one of the most dramatic policy switches in her long history, Britain applied for Common Market membership. But it was too late.

In January, 1963, DeGaulle shocked Britain, Europe and the United States, too, by abruptly vetoing Britain's entry.

He did so on the ground that Britain was not yet "ready," economically or politically. But his real objection, as it soon became clear, was that Britain, in his eyes, was too closely linked with the United States. And he already was getting set to try to squeeze the United States out of Europe.

In May, 1967, Britain's present labor government headed by Prime Minister Harold Wilson made a new bid for membership. Once again De Gaulle's icy "non" vetoed it.

De Gaulle, sources in London said Feb. 21, has now proposed creation of a new European economic and political arrangement which would include Britain and eliminate the need for the U.S.-led NATO.

The plan, as reported in London, would include a four power directorate composed of France, West Germany, Italy and Britain.

The French accused the British of "sensationalizing" De Gaulle's proposal and claimed it was no different than what he had proposed publicly before.

The Common Market was designed by its founding fathers in the 1950s to be not only an economic but also a political community, with a supranational government and parliament.

That dream, too, died on a roadblock thrown up by De Gaulle.

It was the economic weakness of Western Europe's individual nations that spurred them to create the Common Market and EFTA. They did so in an effort to trade on equal terms with the United States and the Soviet Union.

In the same way, it was their individual military weakness that drove them to unite against the threat of overwhelming Soviet Power. They did so under American leadership in the North Atlantic Treaty in April, 1949.

NATO celebrates its 20th anniversary April 11-12 at a meeting of its foreign ministers in Washington, where the treaty was signed.

British Defense Secretary Denis Healey warned recently that NATO ground and air forces could not hold out more than a few days against all-out Soviet attack. He said they then would be forced either to surrender or to call America's intercontinental nuclear missiles into action.

Probably the most jolting blow NATO has suffered was

Cog Awaits Word On Crime Funds

Amount of a planning grant the Council of Governments of Cook County (COG) will receive to study criminal justice in the region will be determined March 14.

On that date, the state Commission on Law Enforcement will parcel out some $833,050 in federal funds for planning improved law enforcement measures.

COG's application for planning funds under the federal Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 has been approved.

COG could either get less or more than its requested $200,000, Commission Chairman Arthur Bilek has stated in the past. Local government is to get $500,000 of the money allotted the state for planning.

According to COG's application for planning funds, the study will encompass all of Cook County, representing a maximum number of municipalities and coordinating planning with other neighbor countries in the metropolitan area.

when De Gaulle in 1966 pulled France out of the military side of the alliance and ordered Supreme Allied Headquarters (SHAPE) and all U.S. and other Allied troops out of France.

By early last summer there was serious speculation that France might quit the alliance altogether and that Canada, Norway and possibly other member countries might follow her.

The shock of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia ended such talk, for the time being, at least. But NATO's future still remains a question mark.

The United States wants the Europeans to carry a bigger share of the common defense load and costs. The Europeans want a larger say in running the alliance and in deciding its strategy, but balk at picking up more of the tab for it.

Over all looms the uncertainty of France's role.

De Gaulle's consistent aim for the past 10 years has been to make France a separate center of power in Europe, independent of the United States. This has meant balking, challenging and frequently openly opposing U.S. interests.

He has done so militarily in NATO, politically in blocking Britain's Common Market bid and financially by seeking to undermine the dollar and the British pound.

In 1968 De Gaulle suffered — The nationwide French —yet.

strikes and Paris street rioting in the spring humiliated him.

—The invasion of Czechoslovakia in August knocked the props from under his policy of seeking closer ties with Moscow as a means of sapping American influence in Europe.

—The crisis of the French franc last November and the loss of one-third of France's gold stockpile deprived him of his financial club for use against the United States.

But De Gaulle is an obstinate man. Despite these reverses, few see any likelihood he will change his mind on the issues that are really vital to him.

In sum, so long as De Gaulle is determined to maintain his role of challenger of the United States, European leaders see three grievous setbacks to his little hope of creating a workable new relationship between the United States and a resurgent Western Europe.

President Nixon has warned that "the future of the countries of the West can no longer be an exclusively American design," and there must be a "strengthening and revitalizing of the European-American community." It was in this mood that he arranged his nine-day West European tour of Feb. 23-March 3.

But the united Western Europe Nixon believes the United States must deal with as an equal partner is not there

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Friday, March 7, the 66th day of 1969 with 299 to follow.

The moon is between its full and last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1932 about 3,000 men rioted for jobs at the Ford plant in Detroit in the midst of the depression. Four were killed.

In 1936 Adolf Hitler ordered his Nazi troops into the German Rhineland, violating the Versailles Treaty.

In 1945 the United States 1st Army crossed the Rhine at Remagen, south of Cologne, as World War II drew toward an end.

In 1965 police broke up a Negro protest march in Selma, Ala. Forty civil right marchers were injured.

A thought for the day: Robert Ingersoll said, "Few rich men own their own property. The property owns them."

One of the next 50 drivers coming your way is drunk.

But which one?

His inhibitions are lessened.

His confidence is bolstered.

His field of vision is narrowed.

Ordinary objects are dark to him. Dark objects may not be seen at all by him.

His reaction time has slowed by at least 15%. His behavior is erratic and unpredictable. He's 25 times more likely to cause a crash than when he's sober.

He may kill you.

Last year, 55,500 Americans died in automobile crashes. At least half of the deaths involved drinking.

A study reported to the Congress by the U. S. Dept. of Transportation shows that one driver out of 50 is drunk. Not drinking. Drunk.

The situation is almost out of control. But it is still possible to reverse the trend. If.

If you agree that the drunk driver's license should be revoked.

If you'll write your governor and legislators that they have your support in getting the strong drunk-driving laws outlined by the National Highway Safety Act.

If you support your judges, your prosecutors, and your police when they enforce drunk driving laws.

For a free copy of the Allstate Action Booklet "Drunk Drivers and Highway Safety," write to: Safety Director, Dept. ST-3, Allstate Insurance Companies, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. It shows how you can help.

The Way We See It

Adopt An Interim State Tax Formula

Illinois revenue system no longer works

That is a simple and grave truth of this state and a plight that cannot be tolerated if the state is to meet the demands of its growth

State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson, underscoring the revenue agony as the "problem that is central to all our problems" has estimated that Illinois has already run up a $175 million deficit in this biennium

On that kind of money structure, no state can function, and Governor Ogilvie's commendable call for a statewide austerity program may be only a hint of what may be necessary before the crisis can be resolved

Austerity is no long-term solution, and neither is the adding of more tax formula

A profound and revolutionary solution is needed, and it can only be that kind of financing which has been avoided in this state for too long a state income tax

The sales tax, the current core of the revenue system, just doesn't do the job. It is, of course, the most regressive of taxes hitting hardest proportionately those who can least afford it, and it becomes increasingly distasteful when it is pushed ever higher to fill the revenue vacuum

A progressive income tax is the most obvious alternative as the central piece of a streamlined tax program in a state as rich as Illinois. It's the fairest, the most likely to reflect increasing material wealth in tax returns, and — most importantly — able to produce a major block of revenue

More importantly — and this should be a necessity if an income tax is adopted — it could allow a decrease in real estate taxes; a decrease in the sales tax, and elimination of the personal property tax

Unhappily, because the graduated income tax was declared unconstitutional in Illinois in 1932, such a profound reshaping of the state's tax foundation must wait action of the upcoming state constitutional convention, a process that may not be completed for several years

Illinois can't wait that long and is in the position of "what to do until the doctor comes"

To that end, we recommend adoption by the state legislature of the basic recommendations just released by Governor's Revenue Study Committee, appointed by former Gov. Samuel Shapiro.

Particularly we urge, at the July 1 beginning of the new biennium if possible, the adoption of the flat rate income tax, which it is generally agreed would meet current constitutional requirements. It would, of course, also be a regressive tax, but the emergency justifies it, and it could be kept at a low enough rate to be not overly oppressive. A basic 2 per cent levy on individuals and corporations, for example, would yield some $840 million for the biennium

Coupled with it, to get through the crisis, the governor must press on with his austerity effort, and there should be increases in certain special taxes, like those on cigarettes, liquor and hotel and motel rooms

But all of these must be regarded as short-term answers. The final answer — an entirely new tax formula written around a graduated income tax — must come from the constitutional convention

What To Do Till the Doctor Comes

The Political Beat

by CHARLES HUFNAGEL

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie is interested in "block grants" from the federal treasury for Illinois and favors Washington funding the entire cost of welfare in every state in the union. And he may have something here too.

The reason is clear enough, because the astronomical rise in public spending today at all levels of government is bringing a confrontation in this changing society in Illinois which amounts to need for more services versus ability to pay for them. What to do?

A situation which no political party, however conservative, is able to resist and stay in power is forcing the hand of the Republican administration in Illinois.

In washing his hands so to speak for welfare responsibility, the governor is saying that in his opinion no matter how the revenue laws are revised and no matter what new sources of revenue the legislature is able to uncover, the magnitude of the welfare problem is beyond the scope of present-day tax financing by any state and local government. This is true even with the federal government sharing the burden.

THE STATES point out that the federal government pre-empted the tax field and takes the first and biggest slice at the annual tax feast. In terms of the operation of the national tax economy, the rest amounts to leftovers.

But he also cites another reason in contending that under state-federal participation in costs there is a broad inequality in the distribution of welfare in the several states. Thus as many new problems are created as are solved. Like investment capital the flow is in the direction of the highest returns.

New York, California and Illinois provide higher welfare payments which invite recipients from low-paying states whose economies and tax structures keep their welfare payments on a lower level.

This has become a massive problem in New York state and particularly New York City, mainly because the one-year residency law has been invalidated. It poses a threat for all heavily populated, wealthier states which provide much larger welfare payments.

But this is not the whole story by any means. Officials in DuPage County with near a half-million population and exploding welfare costs, say another change in the law in Illinois puts an additional burden on the local taxpayer.

THEY SAY THAT with the weakening of moral responsibility on the part of children and parents for each other's care, there is no longer a legal responsibility. A new law approves this.

Spelled out it says, according to welfare officials, that a parent over 65, however great his financial circumstances, is no longer responsible for any of his children's welfare. But if the parent is less than 65 he is fully responsible financially if his circumstances warrant it.

Also, children are freed from any legal responsibility for their parents, regardless of financial standing, if the parent is past 65.

Thus a parent over 65 with a million dollars in the bank has no legal responsibility for the care of a 40 year old para-

School's Showing: Something 'Yellow'

by CLIFFORD G. ROWE

Asst. Managing Editor

I'm getting it second hand, I admit, but apparently the faculty at one of our local schools is quite upset about pictures run in one of our newspapers of an event recently held in that school.

The event was titled "Light Sighted Disparate." Advance publicity from those in charge of it at the school described it as a "mind-blowing" event — which is quite a popular thing today among those who, not too long ago, were just learning to blow their noses.

The pictures showed 1) shadows of two girls cast against a wall, one holding what could be a ball-point pen, cigarette, soda straw, etc.; 2) a couple embracing on the floor of the room this event was held in; 3) a girl, her body painted a la "Laugh-In" in what, I suppose, is a provocative pose.

The faculty members reportedly are disturbed that a newspaper would print these pictures. At one point it was hinted this was "yellow journalism," which is a handy label to hang on anything we find distasteful in any newspaper.

I FIND A HINT of "yellow" in the whole thing, too, but it's not in the newspaper.

In the first place, this was an event under school sponsorship. As such it could be covered as a legitimate news story.

The photographer was admitted to the scene of the "Light Sighted Disparate." He did not have to sneak through a back door or shoot pictures through a window.

The cry that the pictures were staged rings hollowly of a plaint heard so often today about kids. It is heard most often in police stations and disciplinary hearings. "This couldn't be the way it was. Our kids wouldn't do that."

OUR PHOTOGRAPHERS don't stage pictures. After talking to this particular photographer, it was a credit to him that he showed the taste he did in his selection of picture subjects.

That IS the way it was. It's not just the students at this particular school, either. They just happened to stage something that was of such magnitude it couldn't be missed.

The students are not to be blamed. Neither are those who sponsor and plan and encourage such events so long as they have the courage to back them up when they come off.

PERHAPS WHAT they are encouraging and permitting to take place is distasteful in the public eye and embarrassing when shown to them.

If it is, then they should be questioning their own motivations and not those of the newspaper which portrays such events.

Who Is Responsible for Caring?

Neither does a 40 year old son making $25,000 a year have any legal responsibility for the care of his parents if they are over 65.

These are the reasons why — the elimination of the one-year residency law in Illinois and abolishing legal responsibility — local welfare officials are despairing at the prospects ahead.

The breakdown of moral responsibility and the removal of legal responsibility with abolishment of the one-year residency law for all states places the welfare problem in a new perspective. The governor recognizes this.

SO IT IS NO longer entirely a problem of poverty and the poor that have been as disturbing as Jefferson's fire bell in the night. Something more is forcing welfare costs to astronomical levels. Something has happened to the traditional family honor and ethic

The impersonal atmosphere characteristic of the institutions of the 1960s community has perhaps eroded the time-honored family allegiance which has stood every test through thick and thin.

Personal success measured in terms of money beckons, and like it or not, to a large degree transcends every other consideration including family ties. This is true irrespective of calling or profession. Money is believed by most to be the means to a better life, a status criterion. Therefore it receives the first consideration.

PARAPHRASING John Donne: Ask not for whom the welfare state exists, it exists for all. But does it? Some thoughtful people will wonder how a great society can emerge when parents and children are relieved or relieve themselves of moral and legal responsibility in their family relations.

Critic's Corner

Moms' Ire Wasn't Very Responsible

by GEOFFREY MEHL

Ah, sweet suburbia; it sits there most of the time like a turtle sunning itself on a log, completely safe in its shell of isolation, complacent when nothing raps on its concrete hide.

Of course, it is a bit unfair to contend that suburbia is complacent and apathetic — at least part of the time.

Everything is just fine until someone's pet project is questioned, or when some unusual circumstance creates minor hardship, or when there's not enough social penicillin to go around.

Our turtle has a chameleon-like quality in times of such stress, becoming a dragon breathing the fire of concern and opposition, fear and distrust.

CONSIDER, FOR example, the sterling display of motherhood at a recent School Dist. 59 Board of Education meeting. The problem was one of an elementary school burning down and the classes temporarily squeezed into another school; consequently, children from John Jay School go to classes from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., while kids from the destroyed Juliette Low School are bused in and attend from noon to 4:30 p.m.

So the mothers at Jay are upset the children's sleeping and eating habits are upset, it's a very, long hard day, and there's the problem of the kiddies getting out of school at 1 p.m. instead of the traditional 3:30.

SO THEY'RE FURIOUS with the board of education for forcing the kids to submit to such agony. Perhaps the harried educators would like to have instant classrooms, just add alligator tears.

Then, too, there are the local governmental officials: all is just fine, until one of their favorite programs is subject to the most remote negative comment. Upset, the dragon breathes fire and flame and the phrase "diservice to the community" No one seems exempt from that reaction to criticism.

Kick the right turtle in the right place and he'll swim in whatever direction you want; so it is with the self-proclaimed doctors prescribing all sorts of pills and penicillins for the human animal that just doesn't quite fit into our concepts of civilization. Find the right turtle sometime, and kick it in the proper way — and watch it swim off in the desired direction, transforming itself into the social doctor.

BUT WHEN NO one is kicking the turtle, or criticizing him, or when there haven't been any disasters lately, the sun shines — and the turtle sprawls on the log, completely safe in its isolation, complacent behind its concrete shell.

Good old suburbia, so young in comparison with the immense upheavals, shattering disasters, and shocking conflicts of human history: I wonder what will happen when the turtle upsets itself just a bit too much, and finds itself resting on its back.

The Fence Post: Letters to the Editor

GOP's 4 Points: What of Tax Relief?

The purpose of this letter is to express my disappointment in the Palatine Township Republican Party — more so in their candidates President Moodie and Trustees Jones, Hughes and Leighty.

Their four-point platform, printed in the Feb. 24 edition of your paper captioned "Candidates Promise Four Points," must have surely taken many hours of deep thought and concentration to have arrived at such a progressive and energetic platform.

TRUE, THE four-point program is essential in the growth of the village, but equally essential is the means for reducing the extremely heavy tax load presently levied on the village property owners.

The statement attributed to President Moodie in the Feb. 24 edition in which he stated his unopposed ticket "is either so good no one will run against us, or we have the opposition so confused they don't know what to do" leaves much to be desired in a candidate for village president.

I would like to ask two questions of President Moodie and his slate with the proposed state income tax almost a certainty in 1970, what are your plans for tax relief for Palatine property owners; also, does the village master zoning plan provide for sufficient industrial zoning to offset the high residential rezoning? If so, what has been done to encourage choice industry to develop in the village?

If the round robin circus involving village signs and the sign ordinance is any criteria, then I presume little tax relief is planned for Palatine residents.

BEFORE PLEADING that the state, county and school districts are the political subdivisions responsible for high taxes, it only stands to reason that a good, healthy industrial tax base will reduce present tax rates levied against the home owners.

As a former mayor and councilman from Michigan, my platform always included reduction of taxes and increase in services. I might add this city now enjoys

Teichert: I Will Debate

In response to your article "Needed — A Debate," may I respond as one of the mayoral candidates by accepting your offer to discuss the issues on a face-to-face basis.

The newspapers recognize, perhaps better than most, the necessity for hearing both sides of a story . . . or, as in this case, both sides of an issue. You stated most clearly the need and the importance of confrontation with spontaneous reaction. I am hopeful that others agree with one of the lowest tax rates in Michigan and the services are second to none.

Relations Group Supports Clergy

We would like to make the following public statement to the people of the Hoffman-Schaumburg area. The Hoffman-Schaumburg Committee on Human Relations is in agreement with the views presented by the Clergy Council at the Feb. 13 Hoffman Estates Village Board Meeting and the Feb. 27 Schaumburg Village Board meeting.

We feel that fair housing legislation on a local level would be beneficial to the present residents as well as the future residents of both villages. We have also sent letters to both Village Boards and to the Clergy Council to this effect.

Wednesday and Hellyer made a guest appearance on Friday. In charge of the operation of the store is Mel Douglas of Elmhurst.

Store Opens--Grandly

Grand opening of a new store in Bensenville was held recently.

Douglas' Store at York Road and Green Street officially opened last Wednesday. The store is next to the Green Street Super Mart.

MEL DOUGLAS, president, said the discount store is "a new concept in modern retailing."

The store not only offers low prices but friendly, courteous service in attractive surroundings, he said.

Some of the items offered include school supplies, baby goods, toys, drugs, household goods, cosmetics, watches, cameras, lawn and garden supplies.

Dystrophy Drive Displays Sought

Bensenville volunteer firemen in the next few weeks will be canvassing stores in an effort to pick up used old collection displays for a muscular dystrophy fund raising drive.

The Suburban Veterans Chorus of 35 voices, directed by Richard L. Daniels, will entertain at the DuPage County Democrats' dinner honoring Samuel H. Shapiro on St. Patrick's Eve.

The dinner will be at 7 p.m., March 16, in the Elmhurst Country Club.

William A. Redmond, county Democratic chairman, said a crowd of more than 400 is shaping up to join in the tribute to former Gov. Shapiro.

"THIS IS the first time we have been able to obtain this stirring chorus, founded in 1947 by World War II veterans, for our Democratic dinners," said Redmond.

Yes Man.

Charles Whitlock is a "Yes Man." He is also President of Bensenville State Bank. How come the "Yes Man" reputation? Easy. When the question arose whether the Bank should undertake a $360,000 remodeling program, Charles Whitlock said "Yes." When the Bank reviewed a plan to introduce a 5% Golden Passbook Account, Charles Whitlock said "Yes." And when the subject of a new drive-in facility was raised, Charles Whitlock said "Yes." So Charles Whitlock has been supplying the final "Yes" to all the new programs and facilities being introduced at the Bank. He knows that what's good for the community is often good for the Bank. This means he finds himself saying "Yes" to progress—in facilities or services—that makes banking easier, more sound, more profitable for the community. If you have a banking question that might be answered by Charles Whitlock, come in and see him. One thing's for sure: if you call for an appointment, he won't say "No."

COZY CORNER IN THE living room is furnished with one of the two inexpensive wicker chairs which the Jennings painted a soft green, a small round lawn table covered with a floor-length piece of olive-colored felt and slip-covered chair. The lamp is Bristol blue, and on the table Susan has arranged rocks as an unusual accent. The interesting wall grouping exemplifies the young homemaker's ability to make the most of a variety of items.

(Staff Photos)

A CARVED MARBLE slab mounted on the wall with heavy metal brackets serves as one end table for the celery-hued Lawson sofa, the young couple's one large expenditure. Wall hanging over the couch is really a rug. Lamp in lime green and floral Chinese ash tray are carefully chosen accessories that complement this livingroom setting. Gracing the alcove at the far end is a Chinese Chippendale loveseat with birds and leaves carved in the dark wood back.

How Suburbia Lives Beauty on a Budget

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

Energy, artistic talent, persistence and imagination can pay off in furnishing a first home.

Susan and Daniel Jennings, Arlington Heights young marrieds, have feathered their first nest with abundant charm and "know how" but little cash.

An art major in college, petite Susan, while super-charged with home decorating inspiration, gives equal credit to her husband for the results.

"He's great about helping," she declared, dark eyes sparkling with pride. "and he can do anything from upholstering to refinishing."

DAN, WHO WILL finish a Navy hitch in June, studied architectural engineering and plans to work part-time when he resumes his studies.

The Jennings rent a first floor flat in an older section of Arlington Heights.

"We have lots of space," Susan said, pointing out sun porch, living and dining rooms, kitchen, three bedrooms, bath and full basement. "But the bedrooms are off limits," she laughed as 8-month-old Christopher suddenly demanded his rights from the nursery.

BEDROOMS ARE future projects to be tackled between her part-time job at a furniture store, art classes at Countryside Gallery and home duties.

Susan loves massive paintings, stresses accessories, prefers simple furniture.

The couple's one major expenditure was their sofa, a loose-cushioned Lawson style in celery green. Two wicker, club style occasional chairs, carefully painted soft green by Dan, were bought for $7 each.

"I love them so, I don't plan to change them even when we can afford it," said the young homemaker.

IVORY SHEERS at living room windows blend with ivory textured walls, and an olive green cotton shag rug ties together the color scheme of ivory, greens and blues with a touch of yellow.

Instead of the usual end tables and matching coffee table, Susan combined hard work and imagination to come up with something offbeat. Beside Dan's slip-covered "husband's chair," she placed a small round lawn table covered with floor length olive-colored felt.

On it sit a Bristol blue lamp and an interesting rock collection.

A curved marble slab of gray and ivory, anchored to the wall with heavy metal brackets costing $5, serves as one end table. Dan sandblasted and installed the marble.

AT THE OPPOSITE end stands a six-sided, intricately carved antique table that they stripped of finish and rubbed with white oils. Its charm is enhanced by an electrified, nickel-plated kerosene lamp which the couple purchased on their honeymoon.

"We then owned a lamp, a lawn table and a loveseat," Susan confided.

The settee now sits in an alcove adjoining the living room. Though Susan presently is recovering the Chinese Chippendale loveseat with Bristol blue cotton velveteen, she plans to sell it.

OVERHEAD HANGS a tulip-shaped Tiffany shade of ivory, leaded black, with long brass chain, "a real buy for $20," says Susan. To complete the setting she filled an oversized rattan basket with greens.

Mrs. Jennings' forte is wall decoration. Her own work is displayed near the front entrance. Unable to afford canvas, the petite artist is creating an abstract floral print in yellow and green on a white window shade.

"It's really a potato print," she explained. "I'm using an overlay technique that will produce several different visual effects."

FOR THE WALL behind the couch Susan has hung a Belgian "tapestry" in blues and ivory.

"It's really a rug," she confessed, "but it is much too pretty to walk on, and I love wall hangings."

A third wall grouping in the living room includes a signed Kimaro print and a framed mounted collection of antique keys.

In her dining area Susan planned the color scheme around one of her first paintings, a contemporary abstract floral in black, kelly green, white, yellow and blue that hangs over a white enameled decorative fireplace. It blends harmoniously with the green and blue grass cloth rug . . . cost $30.

ROUND METAL patio table and Brentwood chairs, at $7 each, comprise the dining set.

The light fixture? A pull-down that has been transformed by an inverted bamboo basket.

"I wouldn't trade it for a crystal chandelier," Susan declared.

Antiques in this room include a French lady's desk, painted celery green outside and bright blue inside. Behind the desk is a Victorian, hand-carved framed mirror. Their Victorian sideboard of solid cherry is Dan and Susan's current project. They are stripping away its dark varnish to uncover the natural wood, and they plan a rubbed wax finish for this lovely piece with its serving shelf of lustrous brown marble and decorative carved edging.

FOR CONVENIENCE those who love older homes often remodel bath and kitchen, but the Jennings have proved it's possible to make these rooms comfortable and attractive without spending a lot of money.

"I just love our kitchen!" Susan declared proudly, and with good reason.

Rough-hewn cedar paneling on two walls combines with deep blue walls and white enameled woodwork and cupboards. Privacy curtains are a blue and white print, and white

COOKING UTENSILS hang on hooks along with assorted antique-framed pictures and other decorative items. One of Susan's favorite kitchen accessories is a hanging shelf made by her brother. Painted blue, it's utilitarian as well as decorative. Another prize, the 75-year-old Victorian highchair used by young Chris.

Black and white are used ingeniously in the small bath with its outdated fixtures: White fur rug, black and white checked towels, white shower curtain and the piece de resistance, Dan's huge framed mirror mounted on a large framed square background, both frames enameled white.

IT WAS HUSBAND DAN'S idea to panel two walls of the Jennings' kitchen in rough-hewn cedar. On the wall over her kitchen the young homemaker has an interesting combination of utensils, antique-framed pictures, baskets and an antique combcase filled with blue strawflowers.

Seven Maids Awaiting That Day of Days

Jacqueline Miller

In a Valentine Day announcement to family and close friends, Mr. and Mrs. John O. Miller, 1221 W. Clarendon Road, Arlington Heights, told of the engagement of their daughter, Jacqueline, to Kenneth Sanderson, son of the Howard Sandersons of East Dundee, Ill. The couple is planning a May 3 wedding.

Miss Miller, a graduate of Arlington High School, attended Western Illinois University and Colorado State University. She is now employed by Motorola, Inc., Schaumburg. Her fiancé, a graduate of Elgin High School, Elgin, is with Phillips Product Company, Inc., Streamwood.

Michele Giardini

Forest View High School graduate Michele Giardini and her fiancé, Terry J. Wagner of Montgomery, Ill., will be married Aug. 2. The couple's engagement and approaching marriage is announced by Miss Giardini's parents, the Angelo Giardinis of Des Plaines.

Miss Giardini and her fiancé, both seniors at Northern Illinois University, will graduate in June. The bride-to-be is majoring in elementary education and is now doing her student teaching in Des Plaines. Mr. Wagner, a marketing major, is a member of the American Marketing Association.

Suzanne Zingraf

A June wedding is planned by Miss Suzanne Ellen Zingraf and her fiancé, Loren C. Kerley, son of Mrs. Bessie Kerley of Simpson, Ill. The couple's engagement and approaching marriage is announced by Miss Zingraf's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford I. Zingraf of Bensenville.

The bride-to-be is a '63 graduate of Fenton High School, Bensenville. She studied at Wisconsin State University at Platteville, majoring in history and library science and received her bachelor's degree in June, 1967. She received her master's degree in library science at the University of Illinois at Champaign and is now employed as a cataloger-instructor at the Morris Library of Southern Illinois University,

Joanne Hudson

A May wedding is planned by Miss Joanne Hudson of Arlington Heights and Tom Van Deren of Grand Rapids, Mich. Their engagement and approaching marriage are announced by Miss Hudson's parents, the Jack Hudsons of 2410 Brandenburg Court.

The bride-to-be works for United Air Lines, and her fiancé is associated with Bell and Howell Co.

Carbondale.

Mr. Kerley received his B. A. degree from the University of Illinois and is teaching at his alma mater, Harrisburg High School in Harrisburg, Ill., while working on his master's degree in education at Southern Illinois University.

Carole Komorowski

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Komorowski, 9 Debbie Drive, Mount Prospect, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carole Jean, to Patrick Joseph Luchsinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Luchsinger of Chicago.

Miss Komorowski, a '66 graduate of Wheeling High School, attends the University of Illinois at the Medical Center College of Nursing. Mr. Luchsinger is a senior in the University of Illinois' College of Pharmacy and is affiliated with Phi Delta Chi Fraternity.

An August wedding is planned by the engaged couple.

Glenna Cotter

Brewster, Minn., residents, the Vincent Cotters, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Glenna Marie of Bensenville, to Dale Steven Walker, son of the Harold Walkers of Lakefield, Minn. A May 10 wedding date has been set.

Miss Cotter is a '66 graduate of Brewster High School and is now employed at the Bensenville Post Office. Mr. Walker, a graduate of Lakefield High School, plans on attending DeVry Institute of Technology in Chicago. He is serving in the Marine Corps and has just returned from Viet Nam. He will now be stationed in Quantico, Va.

Karen Specht

An area couple have become engaged, according to an announcement by Mr. and Mrs. Leo E. Specht, 109 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights. Their daughter, Karen Martha, and Paul Allen Weber, son of the Lorenz Webers of 552 Bruno Drive, Palatine, are making plans to marry.

Miss Specht works for City Products in Des Plaines, and her fiancé is a senior at Missouri State Teachers College.

AN INDOOR OUTING

by MARILYN HALLMAN

Explore the woods this spring — indoors! You can see an Illinois woodland in spring (diorama) and learn about local plants and trees this month at Chicago's Field Museum of Natural History. This new "spring journey," planned for boys and girls who can read and write, will continue through May. The self-guided tour takes about one hour. Be sure to bring a pencil!

Each year the museum presents four different journeys. Children completing 4, 8, 12, 16 and 17 different journeys are presented awards each spring. This year's awards will be given at 10:30 a.m., April 12, in the museum's James Simpson Theatre. The free program also will include a color film.

Doors open daily at 9 a.m. at the Field Museum, located in Grant Park at Roosevelt Road and Lake Shore Drive. Children are always admitted free. Adult admission is free on Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays; 25 cents other days.

Reserve Bus Seats Now For World Flower Show

Several area garden clubs are chartering buses for transportation to and from the Chicago World Flower and Garden Show being held March 22-30 at the International Amphitheatre. Seats may be reserved by non-members of the clubs which are also offering show tickets at reduced prices.

On Saturday, the first day of the show, Arlington Heights Garden Club has chartered two buses, both leaving at 9:30 a.m. from Pioneer Park. The club is also sponsoring two buses on Monday, March 24, also leaving from Pioneer Park at 9:30 a.m.

The buses will leave the Amphitheatre for the return trip at 3:30 p.m., arriving back at Pioneer at 4:15 p.m. Mrs. William Fricke, 253-6930, and Mrs. Dennis Dickson, 259-2218, are taking the reservations.

ALSO ON MONDAY, Inverness Garden Club is chartering a bus. Mrs. Robert Gocke, 358-1370, may be contacted for further information.

Mount Prospect Woman's Club has chartered a bus for Tuesday, March 25. This bus will leave at 9:30 a.m. from St. Mark Lutheran Church, according to Mrs. Roy L. Duda, 255-1140, who is taking the reservations.

Both the Bloomingdale Garden Club and the Garden Club of Bensenville have chartered buses for Wednesday, March 26. The Bloomingdale bus will leave at 9:15 a.m. from the corner of Lake Street and Bloomingdale Road. Taking reservations is Mrs. Larry Malek, LA 9-7201. The Bensenville bus will be leaving at 9:30 a.m. from Peace Church. Mrs. Robert Giles is taking the reservations.

AMONG THE AREA exhibitors is the Charles Klehm & Son Nursery of Arlington Heights. The nursery has designed a formal garden with a 12-foot high blue spruce and four 8-foot red-flowered jade weeping crabs. Hedges of yews will create a border for the walks that will divide the garden into four sections.

Topiary yews, crimson pygmy barberry, dwarf hedge shrubs, marigolds, azaleas, rhododendrons and geraniums will also be featured in the Klehm garden.

Over-all designer of the Chicago World Flower and Garden Show is Harold O. Klopp of Plum Grove Estates, Palatine.

Refresher Course Set For Nurses

A refresher course for registered nurses who have been inactive in their profession will be offered at Memorial Hospital, Elmhurst, beginning Monday, April 14, according to Mrs. Florence Dyer, director of the hospital's In Service Education Department.

The course lasts for six weeks, with classes from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily, Monday through Friday. At least half of the training is clinical experience, supplemented by lectures, films and demonstrations.

THERE HAVE been 61 nurses who have completed the course which has been held semi-annually at the hospital since October, 1966.

Women interested in the course are urged by Mrs. Dyer to register before March 22 since applications must be processed by the Chicago Council of Community Nursing, and each registrant must have a personal interview with the Memorial In Service staff.

Detailed information may be obtained by calling 833-1400, Ext. 580.

Bargain Mart

3-Day Antique Show Set For Mt. Prospect

An antique rocker, a cut glass bowl that sparkles in the sun's rays and a collection of dolls are among the hundreds of items that will be on sale next week at the fifth annual Antique Fair and Sale sponsored by Mount Prospect Woman's Club.

Set for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, March 12, 13 and 14, the annual sale will be held in the Mount Prospect Community Center. Luncheon will be available and tickets will be for sale at the door.

HIGHLIGHT ON Friday will be a "Show and Learn" session conducted by experts in the field who will look over antiques brought by guests to determine their values. Lectures on antique jewelry and Victorian silver will be other highlights of the 3-day Fair.

Twenty-five registered dealers will be exhibiting and selling between 11 a.m. and 9:30 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday and from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday. All proceeds will go to club philanthropies.

Mrs. Lee Becker, 259-9788, is chairman of the Fair and may be called for further information.

ROLLING MEADOWS

A rummage sale sponsored by St. Colette Catholic Woman's Club of Rolling Meadows has been set for Saturday and Sunday, March 15 and 16. Hours will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days.

Club members invite all in the area to "browse and perhaps make one of the biggest bargains in your life."

BARRINGTON HILLS

Countryside School mothers are knee-deep in plans for their annual "Miss Fitz" rummage sale, set for Saturday, March 8, at the school on West County Line and Brinker Roads. Hours will be 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

BATAVIA

In addition to those on their mailing list of several thousand antique seekers, members of Batavia Unit of Community Hospital Auxiliary invite all area women to their 12th annual antique show and sale. The sale will be held at the Kane County Fairgrounds Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, March 26, 27 and 28. Mrs. Corinne Meyer of Barrington, show producer, has limited exhibitors to 30.

Luncheon and refreshments will be available at the show which is being held in the Industrial Exhibition Hall. The fairgrounds are located on Randall Road between Highway 64 and Alternate 30, Geneva-St. Charles.

LAKE ZURICH

A 2-day rummage sale will be held at Quentins School, Plum Grove Road, Friday and Saturday, March 14-15, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The school can be reached by taking Route 12 (Rand Road) to Plum Grove Road.

Sponsored by the Parent Teacher Club, the sale will feature antiques, clothing, appliances and toys. Proceeds will help purchase the school's physical education equipment.

Ward's Seeks Teen Princess

March is application month for area teens who wish to enter the fourth Annual International Teen Princess Pageant competition. To qualify girls must be between 14 and 18 years of age, a citizen of the United States, have character, charm, poise, good personality, appearance and intellect; it is not a beauty pageant.

January 25 Newlyweds Met as First Graders

Carol Ann Sesterhenn and Donald Verne Jernberg have known each other since first grade, but it wasn't until their senior year at Prospect High School that they had their first date. That was four years ago, and now as senior students in college, they are Mr. and Mrs.

After graduation from Prospect, Carol went on to study at Northern Illinois University and Don to Vanderbilt University in Nashville. After two years at Northern, Carol transferred to Peabody College and the newlyweds are now living in Nashville completing their senior year. This June, Carol will graduate with a B.S. in elementary education and Don will graduate with a B.A. in liberal science. He then plans to go on to law school.

CAROL, DAUGHTER of the Edward J. Sesterhenns, 418 N. Elm St., Mount Prospect, and Don, son of the Albert E. Jernbergs, 105 N. Eastwood, Mount Prospect, were married Jan. 25 in St. Mark Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect. Pastor David J. Quill performed the 5:30 p.m. double ring service. White flowers decorated the altar and bows marked the pews.

Mr. Sesterhenn gave his daughter in marriage during the candlelight service.

The bride's choice in wedding gown was an off-white peau de soie A-line with cowl neckline and long lantern sleeves of ribbon lace. The ribbon lace also trimmed the bodice and the back was detailed with a row of tiny loop buttons. Her cathedral veil was of off-white illusion and was held in place with a ribbon lace cap.

Her flowers were a cascade of white roses, stephanotis and lily of the valley.

MISS HELEN Wlochall of

FRI., MAR. 7, 1969

Lombard, a friend from Northern Illinois University, served the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Raasch, a cousin from Arlington Heights, two childhood friends, Miss Catherine Whitcomb and Miss Donna Kurhajec of Mount Prospect, and Miss Carole White of New London, Ohio, a Peabody College sorority sister of the bride. Miss Kurhajec was the roommate of the bride at Northern.

Their gowns were of moss green velvet fashioned with long sleeves, empire waists trimmed with pale green satin ribbon and with pale green satin stand-up collars. They carried French bouquets of carnations, roses, mums, lilies of the valley and greens.

Six-year-old Jeannie Mueller, a cousin from Barrington, served as flower girl wearing a gown matching the bridesmaids' gowns. She carried a white basket with yellow carnations and roses.

Ring bearer was the groom's cousin, 5-year-old Jimmy Blomquist of Des Plaines.

GARY JERNBERG of Mount Prospect served his brother as best man, and ushers were Steve Herod of Maitland, Fla. and Kurt Strasser of Oak Ridge, Tenn., fraternity brothers of the groom, Dick Fiedler, a cousin from Lake Geneva, and the bride's brothers, Jim and John Sesterhenn of Mount Prospect.

The service was followed by a dinner for 175 at the Park Ridge Inn. Mrs. Sesterhenn wore a moss green chiffon empire floor-length gown with ivory crepe skirt and a corsage of white cymbidiums. Mrs. Jernberg chose a floor-length gold empire gown and also a corsage of white cymbidiums.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Chicago for four days and are now living in the Garrison Apartments at Peabody College.

THEY'RE LINED UP to model clothes their mothers have made for them which will be featured at the "Junior Miss and Master Fashion Show" Saturday at St. Peter's School, 500 N. Cherry, Itasca.

Sponsored by St. Peter Council of Catholic Women, the show begins at 1 p.m. The "line-up" from left includes Anne Sylvester, Kathy Hnilo, Joanne Quat-raro, Frank Hnilo, Robert and James Vitale and Rosemary Daley. An added attraction will be a showing of spring fashion from Geri's Children's Wear of Bensenville.

Sorority Activities

Service Sorority Opens Two Suburban Chapters

EPSILON SIGMA ALPHA

The newest chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha in the Bartlett, Hanover Park, Streamwood, Keeneyville area has been named Gamma Tau. Next meeting of Gamma Tau will be at the home of Mrs. James Sotern, 923 Cuyogoga Drive, Bartlett, on Monday, March 10 at 8 p.m. Mrs. Thomas Muldoon and Mrs. Morris Spangler will report on possible philanthropic activities available in this area.

Those attending the second organizational meeting chose the second and fourth Mondays for meeting nights. A tentative date of Monday, March 24, has been selected for the candlelight pledge ceremonies. It is expected that 22 women will become members. The charter will remain open until this ceremony.

GAMMA TAU will be the 43rd chapter in the state of Illinois and the third chapter located in the northwest suburbs. The other chapters are Gamma Theta in Hoffman Estates and a new chapter in Arlington Heights.

Upon chartering, this chapter will have the privilege of attending the International Convention in Los Angeles in July, participate in leadership conferences and educational workshops, select individuals for outstanding pledge, outstanding girl, honor a man who makes an outstanding contribution to his community with the Zeus Award and recognize an outstanding youth in the sixth, seventh or eighth grades.

THE SECOND meeting of a new chapter forming in Arlington Heights was held Thursday evening in Mrs. Edward Getting's home. Mrs. Arnold Koska and Mrs. Milan Miller, members of Gamma Theta chapter in Hoffman Estates, were present. The two will become members of the new chapter when it is initiated.

This chapter will have a limit of 25 members so that meetings can be held in the members' homes.

Area women interested in either chapter may call Mrs. Allan Schoeld, field director, at 529-9666, for details.

BETA SIGMA PHI

Three area women, Mrs. Richard Allinger of Buffalo Grove, Mrs. Fay Daniel of Hoffman Estates and Mrs. Terry Kohl of Arlington Heights, were welcomed into Xi Eta Epsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi at the Feb. 26 meeting.

Area Beta Sigma Phi's interested in affiliating with a chapter may contact Mrs. Andrew Voykin, 1301 W. Cottonwood Lane, Mount Prospect. Next meeting of Xi Eta Epsilon will be held Wednesday, March 12, in the Arlington Heights home of Mrs. Forrest Sward.

DELTA KAPPA GAMMA

Members of Gamma Eta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, an international organization for women educators, will meet Monday, March 10, at 6:30 p.m. in McAuley School, Roosevelt Road, West Chicago. Mrs. Marshall Stone, teacher, principal and superintendent of McAuley School, will present the program. Her topic for presentation is "Values — Reaction to Challenge."

A planned potluck will precede the meeting. Mrs. LaVerne Volbrecht of Itasca will be one of the hostesses.

ALPHA OMICRON PI

When Mrs. James Stephens entertains Alpha Omicron Pi's Northwest Suburban Alumnae Chapter at 8 p.m. Wednesday, March 12, her home's decor is sure to receive closer-than-usual attention, because "Furniture and Decoration," as interpreted by Schneller Furniture Company of Arlington Heights, is the program.

Schneller representatives will concentrate on living room decor, including floor covering, lighting, color, room layout and furniture.

PI's will be encouraged to ask questions about decorating problems in other areas of the home, also.

KEY TOPIC of the business meeting before the program will be the chapter's by-laws, which have been under revision since last August.

Mrs. Stephens' home is at 924 Wilkinson Pkwy., Park Ridge. She will be assisted by Mrs. David Weidner of Des Plaines and Mrs. Robert Corbett. Mrs. William Tubbs and Mrs. Martin Volse, all of Arlington Heights.

Transportation can be arranged with Mrs. Tubbs, 392-1039, Mrs. Robert Scott, Mount Prospect, 392-265, 1000 S. LaSalle, Palatine, 358-6168.

ALPHA XI DELTA

Several area women have been elected to posts in the North Area Alumnae chapter of Alpha Xi Delta. Mrs. James Lambert of Mount Prospect will be serving as the group's recording secretary and Mrs. Donald Van Dragt of Arlington Heights will be the Journal correspondent.

Magazine Agency chairman

Proper Put-on For Eyelashes

One good way to judge placement of false eyelashes comes from Ron Buchardt, makeup designer for Charles of the Ritz.

Start the inner corner of the lash one finger depth from the nose, he says. In other words, leave about one-half inch from the inner corners without the falsies, rather extending them toward the outer lids.

Buchardt offers another makeup tip to the woman wanting to make her hands longer and slimmer. Use very pale polish instead of the deep tones.

Cherry Sauce

Pork loin roast or fresh ham is more delightful than ever with a hot cherry sauce, easily made: combine one can (16 ounces) cherry pie filling with one-fourth cup of orange juice, one teaspoon grated lemon rind and one-fourth teaspoon allspice. Cook, stirring constantly, until heated through. Yield: two and one-third cups.

MARCH SPECIAL

During the entire month of March with each permanent hair coloring or frosting you will receive a nationally advertised bottle of nail polish or tube of lipstick. This is a $2 value FREE with each of the above services done expertly and with care by experienced hairdressers. Open Mon. thru Sat., Thurs. and Fri. evenings.

Couple Sees Double: It's Twin Daughters

A picture may be worth 10,000 words, but Mrs. Thomas Schumann's doctor didn't waste time with words after he viewed her X-ray. The "picture" was of twins, a surprise for both the Schumanns and the doctor.

Born by caesarian section Sunday, March 2, Shannon Lynn, 6 pounds 10½ ounces, and Sharon Lynn, 6 pounds 12 ounces, are the first children for the Schumanns who make their home at 100 Mayfield Drive, Streamwood. The twin girls arrived at 1:15 and 1:16 p.m. in Guttliel Memorial Hospital.

"My husband is still in shock," laughed Mrs. Schumann who recalled that both she and her husband have twins in the family. Grandparents of the twins are Mrs. Janet Dajania of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. John Schumann of Plilmont, N.Y.

Northwest Community Thomas James Perry joins three sons and a daughter in the Melvin C. Perry home at 800 S. Spring St., Roselle. Born Feb. 24 to Mr. and Mrs. Perry, the baby weighed 6 pounds 15 ounces. His brothers are Michael, 6½; Joseph, 2½; and John, 13 months old. His sister is 4½-year-old Pamela. The Leo Wallace of Elmwood Park are Thomas' grandparents.

Christopher Alan Lund is the first child of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Lund, 2214 Goebbert Road, Arlington Heights. The newborn arrived Feb. 20 at 9 pounds 2 ounces. His grandparents include the Frank Lunds of Bensenville and the Howard Ballards of Wheaton.

Kristine Marie Laboda, second child of the Ronald J. Labodas of 217 Mohawk Drive, Bensenville, was born Feb. 27 and weighed 6 pounds 12 ounces. She has a brother, David Scott, who is 14 months old. Grandparents of the two are Mr. and Mrs. J. Laboda and Mrs. Helen Polkow, all of Bensenville.

Tony John Miraglia, first-born for the William J. Miraglias of 1944 W. Algonquin Road, Mount Prospect, arrived Feb. 25. He weighed 8 pounds 14 ounces. The baby is a grandson for Mrs. Ruth Miraglia of Chicago and the Jack Mitchells of Mount Prospect. There is also one great-grandmother living in the area, Mrs. Margaret Pape of Mount Prospect.

Memorial-DuPage Vincent Michael Grano, third child in the Santo Floyd Grano family of 601 Willow, Itasca, was born Feb. 18. He has a brother, Joseph, 4, and a sister, Robin, almost 3. The newborn weighed 6 pounds 6 ounces and is another grandson for the Sam Granos of Northlake and the Joseph Dimicells of Itasca.

Linda Marie Schmidt is a first daughter after three sons for Mr. and Mrs. Karl Schmidt, 510 N. Elm St., Itasca. She was born Feb. 18 and weighed 10 pounds 8 ounces. Linda's brothers are Douglas, 4½; Rusty, 3½; and Daniel, 2. Her grandparents include Mr. and Mrs. Russell C. Schmidt of Addison and Mrs. Rose Brogan of Itasca. She also has a great-grandmother living nearby, Mrs. Stella Roberts of Addison. Joel Philip Rierson weighed 7 pounds 7 ounces at birth Feb. 21 and is the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Rierson, 506 Forest Preserve Drive, Wood Dale. Joel's grandparents are the Archie Riersons of River Forest and Mrs. Emilia Tolius of Paw Paw, Mich.

Vitamin B: The Complex Vitamin

by DR. LAURENCE HURSH

To discuss the B vitamins we will need to talk about 11 substances in the so-called vitamin B complex. Seven of these vitamins are essential in your diet. The other four are not necessarily essential in your meals. Two of these the body can form from other compounds. Research has not yet demonstrated that the last two are essential for humans. All are water-soluble, as is vitamin C.

The discovery of the B vitamins is quite romantic. A Dutch surgeon in Java observed that chickens died when they ate polished rice scraps from a military hospital commissary. They recovered from paralysis when he fed them natural rice, complete with the outer layers of hull removed when polished rice was milled.

THE DISEASE suffered by the chickens, ducks and pigeons fed the polished rice seemed similar to a common and serious disease in man, called beriberi.

This was enough to eventually set other scientists to work until in 1928 that anti-beriberi vitamin was isolated and then in the 1930's synthesized. This vitamin — vitamin B — was first thought to be a single substance. Later, research revealed how elaborate the B vitamin complex is.

Of the 11 substances in the complex, the seven essential B vitamins are thiamin, riboflavin, niacin, pyridoxine, pantothenic acid, folic acid and vitamin B12. The other four are choline, biotin, inositol and p-aminobenzoic acid.

THIAMIN, or vitamin B1 as it is sometimes known, is the anti-beriberi vitamin. As we said earlier, the B vitamins and vitamin C are water-soluble. For this reason, care must be exercised in cooking or you'll throw away these vitamins when discarding the water in which they were cooked. Or if you overcook, you'll destroy these vitamins because they are readily broken down by heat in neutral or alkaline solutions.

Thiamin helps promote normal appetite and digestion. It helps keep the nervous system healthy and helps to prevent irritability. It also helps the body release energy from food. A very important vitamin, to say the least.

IT IS present in many foods but primarily so in only a few. Lean pork is one of the best foods for obtaining thiamin. Other meats, fish and poultry, eggs, enriched or whole grain breads and cereals, dried beans and peas and finally, potatoes, broccoli and collards are good sources.

Riboflavin or vitamin B2 is a water-soluble yellow pigment, importantly available in milk, all kinds of cheese, ice cream, meat (especially liver), fish, poultry and eggs.

Stable to heat, riboflavin content is not particularly reduced, for example, in milk by drying or pasteurizing, but exposure to sunlight will destroy large portions of this vitamin. This is one reason nutritionists recommend you keep milk out of the sunlight.

WHAT DOES riboflavin do for you? It helps the cells use oxygen. It helps keep our skin, tongue and lips normal. It helps prevent scaly, greasy skin from forming around your mouth and nose.

In animals, nutritionists say, too little riboflavin during pregnancy may result in abnormalities or loss of the fetus. We don't know whether congenital defects in humans are due to inadequate riboflavin in the diet of the mother.

More on the B vitamins next week.

AAUW Branch Will Hear Cook County Commissioner

Floyd T. Fulle, Cook County commissioner, will address the Northwest Suburban Branch of American Association of University Women Thursday, March 13, at 8 p.m. in Oehler's Community Room, Lee and Perry Streets, Des Plaines.

His address will be "Urban Planning and the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Planning Commission." Fulle is the Cook County representative on the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission and to the Office of Economic Opportunity. He has been a member of the Cook County commission since 1964 when he was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the death of his father and subsequently elected for a 4-year term November 8, 1966.

The Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Planning Commission engages in two types of activity: (1) research needed to provide the basis of a comprehensive plan for the six-county area, and (2) immediate help to local governments on such matters as the management of natural resources, transportation, and civic design.

Panel of Five To Explore 'Nursing 'Round the World'

A panel discussion on "Nursing Around the World" has been scheduled for the Thursday, March 13, meeting of the 18th District, Illinois Nurses Association. The meeting will take place in Lutheran General Hospital.

Panel members will be Miss Clare O'Boyle, assistant director of nursing education at St. Francis Hospital, who participated in a study tour of European hospitals; Miss Dorothy Johnson, chairman, Department of Nursing, Evanston Hospital, who participated in a program of hospital management in London.

ALSO MISS Marguerite Paetznick, director, Department of Nursing, Lutheran

General Hospital, who was a consultant with the World Health Organization, visiting hospitals in Egypt and Iran; Miss Kathleen Foley, who received her nursing education in Dublin, Ireland and Liverpool Maternity Hospital in England; and Mrs. Josefina De Leon Penazola who graduated from the Royal Pontifical University of St. Thomas in Manila and served as principal of Arellano University College in Manila.

Mrs. De Leon Penazola and Miss Foley are both employed at St. Francis Hospital, Evanston.

Indian Center Gets Delivery From Itasca

Itasca Junior Woman's Club members have collected an assortment of blankets, children's clothing, canned goods and trading stamps for St. Augustine Center for American Indians.

Mrs. Tom Pruyn, chairman of international and public relations, learned of the need through the Indian Affairs Division of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Pruyn and her committee have just delivered the articles to the Center, located on Sheridan Road in Chicago.

Notre Dame Priest Unites Diane Davies, John Stelzer

When Diane Davies of Inverness and John Stelzer of Leawood, Kan., planned to be married early this year, they asked Father Daniel O'Neil of Notre Dame University to perform the ceremony. The bridegroom is a graduate of Notre Dame and a friend of Father O'Neil.

The wedding took place Jan. 25 in St. Anne's Church, Barrington.

PARENTS OF the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Rees E. Davies of Inverness, and the groom is the son of the Gus Stelzers, who are former Inverness residents.

For the 2 o'clock ceremony, the bride wore an ivory peau de soie gown with a wide panel of Italian lace down the front, also forming a back yoke and an inset in the long sleeves. She chose a mantilla of net edged with the matching lace and carried white carnations with greens.

HER ATTENDANTS, all gowned in red velvet trimmed with red satin, were Christine Bagge, Inverness, as maid of honor; Debbie Bartley, Inverness, and Patricia Benson, Munster, Ind., as bridesmaids; and Laurie McCabe of Seattle, a niece of the groom, as flower girl.

Miss Benson and the bride are Gamma Phi Beta sorority sisters.

The groom, usually known as "Jack," had a Notre Dame friend, Peter Morris, as best man. Groomsmen were Sean Crimmons and Bob Spear, also from Notre Dame, and Rees Davies, the bride's brother.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stelzer

AS THEY saw their children united in marriage, Mrs. Davies was gowned in a pale blue silk dress with a matching jacket and a cymbidium corsage and Mrs. Stelzer wore moss green with a cymbidium corsage.

Both the bride's grandmothers, Mrs. James Ahern of Chicago and Mrs. Rees E. Davies Sr. of Verona, N.J., were present for the wedding and the reception at Inverness Golf Club immediately following the rites.

The newlyweds had a 5-day honeymoon in the Bahamas before returning to Bloomington, Ind., where the groom is completing work on his master's degree in business finance at the University of Indiana. The bride attended Indiana before her marriage.

Arlington Juniors Donate Hours to Social Service

To demonstrate the seventh District Junior Woman's Club emphasis on citizenship, a Washington's Birthday party was given for children at the Chicago Indian Center. Hosted by members of the social service committee of Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club, the party included the presentation of an American flag to Francesca Veltro, children's recreational director.

The flag and several school desks, procured by the committee, will be used in the classroom where tutoring and special education take place each afternoon.

GIFTS, candy, cookies and juice were taken to the party, plus donations of clothing, shoes, boots, games and toys for distribution to needy Indian families.

The social service committee, composed of 18 members and Mrs. Richard Steffens as chairman, is one of the Arlington Juniors most active groups.

EACH Wednesday a member of the committee spends two hours assisting the teacher in the young adult craft classes at Clearbrook School. Three of the women have also qualified to help teachers each week with the younger children at the school, and the committee has made a birdhouse with removable sections to be taken apart and re-assembled for developing better coordination.

The women have also stenciled and cut 120 felt animal figures for use in story-telling.

COUNTRYSIDE Center for the Handicapped in Palatine receives a like amount of attention.

Over 350 volunteer hours have been spent typing lessons into large type or tape-recording them for use by the partially-sighted children at North School. Maps have also been reproduced in enlarged form for their social studies.

The cancer committee is another social service project. Chairman Mrs. Lawrence Borre has arranged informative programs within the community to educate area women in cancer detection.

Barbara Kogut, Alan Wald Wed in Arlington Church

The First United Methodist Church of Arlington Heights was the setting for the Jan. 25 wedding of Barbara Carol Kogut of Arlington Heights and Alan Roger Wald of Prospect Heights. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Marjory C. Kogut, 116 Pear Tree Lane, and the groom's parents are the Arnold E. Walds.

The double ring ceremony was performed by candlelight and was followed by a dinner for 100 guests at the Brass Rail of the Sheraton O'Hare.

FOR HER wedding day, the bride chose a white peau de soie gown overlaid with English net and applied with ivory chantilly lace floral medallions. The gown ended in a cathedral train and was complemented by a headpiece of chantilly lace flowers and an English net veil. The bride's bouquet was composed of Amazon lilies, stephanotis and ivy.

Pink and white were chosen as the color scheme for the wedding and reception with floral decorations in the two colors and the bride's attendants attired in the same motif.

MISS BEATRICE Bramati, Chicago, was maid of honor; Jan Weismann, Mount Prospect, and Sue Kukla, Park Ridge, were bridesmaids. Barbara Wald, sister of the groom, was a junior bridesmaid.

The four girls were gowned alike in pale pink chiffon with a high neckline and long puffed sleeves. Their empire gowns were complemented by matching pink blusher veils, and they carried cascade arrangements of pink carnations, baby's breath, purple daisies and ivy.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Wald

JOHN KENNING, Mount Prospect, served as best man, and John Small, Milwaukee, and Ken Racinski, Wheeling, were groomsmen.

Seating the wedding guests were the groom's brother, Michael and Timothy Wald.

Mrs. Kogut was attired in a pale pink silk shantung dress with a corsage of green cymbidium for the festivities. Mrs. Wald wore an aqua dress of silk shantung and had pink cymbidium in her corsage.

THE NEWLYWEDS are living in Belleville, Ill., while the groom serves in the U. S. Air Force at Scott Field. He is a military newspaper staff writer.

The groom is a graduate of Wheeling High School and attended North Park College, Chicago. His bride attended Prospect High School, North-eastern Illinois State College, Chicago, and Central Methodist College, Fayette, Mo.

A resident of Villa Grove and a member and founder of Tuscola BPW Club, she has also served in other offices on the state and national level, including state membership chairman and national personal development chairman. She is presently serving as National Foundation promotion chairman.

Newlyweds Are Studying At University of Wyoming

Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Thomas John Henderson, who met as students at the University of Wyoming, were married by the same minister in the same church as were the bride's parents 22 years ago. Mrs. Henderson is the former Karen Anne Wheaton, daughter of the Howard L. Wheatons, 1413 W. Miner St., Arlington Heights, and the groom is the son of the Maurice M. Hendersons of Minneapolis, Minn.

The couple were married Jan. 25 in Christ Evangelical and Reformed Church, Des Plaines, in a five o'clock service performed by Rev. R. K. Wobbe. They did not take a honeymoon, but returned immediately to their studies at the university. They are making their home at 1257 N. 5th St. in Laramie.

WHITE gladioli, mums and pink Elegance carnations decorated the church for the double ring service. Mr. Wheaton gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's choice in wedding gown was a white skimmer gown of silk with Venice lace trimming the wedding ring neckline and the sleeves. Cascades of the lace also fell from the neckline to the hem and the bell sleeves were cuffed with the lace. A bridal bow held her circular veil of imported silk illusion and she carried a colonial nosegay of white carnations.

Mrs. Douglas Anderson of Glenview served as the bride's only attendant. Her gown was of hot pink polished cotton with back fullness, and a pink bow held her veil of imported silk illusion. Pink Elegance carnations made up her nosegay.

MRS. WHEATON chose a periwinkle blue dress and jacket ensemble with corsage of white roses, and Mrs. Henderson chose an off-white wool dress and jacket ensemble

White Pines Annex Petition Ordered

Bensenville
The Bensenville Park Board Wednesday voted to instruct its attorney to prepare a petition for annexation of the 260-acre White Pines Golf Course to the village.

The golf course is in an unincorporated section south of Jefferson Street between York and Church roads.

It is owned by the park district but operated by the Brangar Organization, Medinah.

PARK COMR. Donald Carroll instructed attorney Edward Vertovec to prepare the petition for annexation excluding the parking lot west of Church and the northwest corner of the course including the clubhouse and water wells.

The park board also wants to retain the right to review any utility easement and construction through the golf course.

Annexation of the golf course to the village would pave the way for a $4-million subdivision that is being planned by Ralph Cantrell, a Bensenville developer.

Cantrell is planning to build 80 homes on 26 acres south of Forest View Road and west of Church Road. Annexation of the golf course would make the proposed subdivision contiguous to the village and available for annexation.

Residents of the nearby White Pines subdivision have protested development of the predominantly wooded area referred to as Fischer's Woods.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, Carroll reported that there have been no new developments on obtaining an easement from the village for a four-acre park east of Park Avenue near Washington Street.

An easement on a 20-foot strip of land along a tributary of Addison Creek is needed. The park board wants the easement so it will be able to cover the tributary in order for a baseball field to be laid out.

Last month the park board voted to make a $1,000 down payment, with option to buy the site, from the Callie Corp., Franklin Park.

Purchase of the property would result in a new park for that section of the village. Residents of the East Bensenville Homeowners Assn. had requested a park for their area.

As a temporary measure the park district last year leased five acres near Memorial Road and Marion Street from the Bensenville Home Society. Recreational facilities were later installed.

Civil Defense Unit Greets New Members

The Wood Dale Civil Defense unit will welcome new members Wednesday at a meeting at 8 p.m. in Highland School. Persons interested in joining the unit should attend, said Jim Carpenter of Itasca. Women are welcome to join the women's corps.

Teen Released On $25 Bond

Roselle
Dicedoro L. Diaz, 18, of 40 S. Prospect Street, Roselle, was arrested by Roselle police Tuesday night on charges of disorderly conduct.

Another 15-year-old youth was taken into custody but later released to his parents.

Diaz spent the night in Roselle jail and was released on $25 bond.

HE IS scheduled to appear in Roselle court later this month.

Police said Diaz and the other youth reportedly had broken into a backyard shed to sleep for the night.

The owner, who called police,

AREAS OF INTEREST to residents are communications, rescue, and radiology.

The only requirement in joining the unit is interest, said Carpenter.

The civil defense unit works with the fire department in receiving training on the first and third Wednesdays and the second and fourth Thursdays each month.

James L. Freese of 127 Dolores drive, Bensenville, received an M. Ed. degree, Frank Mitropoulos of 219 Sherwood Drive, Wood Dale, received an M.M. degree and Joseph F. Vega of 1002 Medinah St., Bensenville, earned a B.S.C. degree.

Property Annexation Gets All-Out Push

Itasca
An all-out push to seek annexation of property to Itasca resulted Tuesday when Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke suggested to Trustee Roy Petherbridge that his public relations committee "launch an immediate campaign."

Nottke's plea followed a report of last week's hectic boundary pact meeting in Wood Dale which found few concessions by either village.

Plan commission member Walter Schmidt, who attended the Wood Dale session along with Nottke, and Trustees Eldon Corbin and Frank Atkinson, reported to the village board, "Wood Dale wants, but don't give."

As far as Nottke and his fellow constituents were concerned, the crowded informal meeting with Wood Dale officials and residents of Sherwood Forest subdivision "was a total waste of three hours of our time."

HE THEN instructed Marcia Forke, village clerk, to place the subject of annexations on the board's agenda for the next four meetings. He also suggested to Petherbridge that his committee might consider the employment of a full-time person to contact property owners.

Petherbridge informed Nottke that previous endeavors in seeking new annexations to Itasca "had nothing but frustrations."

Petherbridge also took issue with Nottke for inferring he was "not carrying his load as a village trustee."

"If you are stating what I think you are," Petherbridge told Nottke, "let me say my job comes first and the village board second."

But Nottke replied he was not "telling him" but "suggested" that Petherbridge's committee undertake the annexation campaign.

PETHERBRIDGE was given a list of property owners reportedly along Mill Road for further study and report back to the board at its next meeting.

Atkinson commented on the boundary question by declaring, "I feel we have to firm up our boundaries on the east side."

A parting response by Nottke was, "The longer we sit on this — the longer we are going to be hurt."

Proposed Salary Hike 'Too Much'

Democrat Edward H. Rossi, candidate for Bloomington Township supervisor, charged recently that the salary raise proposed in the upcoming township budget was "too much for a part-time position."

Rossi wants township electors to lower salaries when the budget is presented March 25.

"The $6,000 (total) requested by the incumbents is too much," he said.

He added the supervisor draws a like amount from the DuPage County Board of Supervisors per diem fund, based on $25 for each day's meetings.

Light Colored Car Is Hunted

Roselle
Roselle police are looking for a light blue or white 1958-59 Thunderbird or 1958 Ford seen at Foster Ave. and Spring Hill Drive, Roselle, at 1:30 a.m. March 1.

The car was the vehicle which knocked down several signs and rammed a fire hydrant.

POLICE SAID the car should have extensive front end damage.

A witness described the car as having four large tail lights.

The car was seen as it drove across the resident's lawn.

"Any information will be kept in confidence," Police Chief Les Sola said.

SIX KOREAN children will perform under the direction of Mrs. Miriam Swanson at 7 p.m. Sunday at the Medinah Baptist Church. They are from Compassion Incorporated, a missionary society that cares for more than 22,000 children in four countries.

BENSENVILLE In The NEWS

Feb. 24 was Frannie Schwartz's birthday, so her Tuesday evening league bowlers brought a big cake and refreshments to the alleys to help her celebrate after the women's league finished. They hardly expected Frannie's husband, Al, to really make it such a big event by bowling a perfect 300 game — his first in league play, and only the second such game bowled on their alleys.

Mrs. Marita Lippincott, recuperating from recent eye surgery, has returned to her daughter's home in Indianapolis after coming home to see her son, Bob, and his family this past week. Bob is coming along well, but he is still in his wheelchair after breaking his hip in a fall on the ice during the holidays.

THE PAUL Penrods took five days of their vacation for a trip to their family home at Casey, where they celebrated Paul's Feb. 24 birthday with a family dinner. Several of his relatives were unable to be there because of illness. After three days, Rose's mother Mrs. Nora Crandall, went with the Penrods to Paxton to visit the Donald Schilts, but found Don was in Florida. However, Mrs. Schilf and Mrs. Penrod, former co-workers, had plenty to chat about for a few days.

Wishes for a speedy recovery go to Frank Augustine who is still in St. Alexius Hospital and underwent surgery this week.

Cecil Poor was due home about press time, from his stay in Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Susan Fischer is another Memorial Hospital patient, having broken a hip in a fall last week.

The Herbert Schumanns are bursting with pride over their first grandchild, Robert Dean, born in Norfolk, Va., on Saturday. His parents are the Russell Schumanns. Russ is out on one of the satellite tracking ships so will not be able to see the baby until he is nearly two weeks old.

MR. AND MRS. Arthur Reynolds were happy to have their daughter, Katie Bitner, and 4-year-old Alyson drive here from Spring Lake, Mich. on Thursday for a weekend visit. Alyson's birthday is the 11th, so her grandparents had a pre-birthday party which included members of the family living nearby — the David Reynolds and the Donald Schmidt families.

The Jack Houlas had their anniversary on Saturday. Phoebe's birthday was Thursday and Lucy was "sweet 16" March 3, so they were honored with a dinner party at the home of Phoebe's sister, the John Thomases, on Saturday evening.

The Charles Matys have returned from three weeks of vacationing at Madeira Beach, Fla., where they enjoyed some fishing but found the weather too cool for sunning or water sports. They were on the edge of the hurricane, but were on the second floor so were not flooded out as many others were.

THE CARL Waldvogels had just returned from a five week vacation in California, when Carl and daughter, Milie, repacked their bags for South America to see young Carl who has been doing missionary work in the Cordoba-Mendoza region of Argentina. They had several days of sightseeing in Rio de Janeiro and then went to Buenos Aires for several days before they all returned home. Carl Jr. being through with his South American teaching for awhile.

The Waldvogels' other son, Howard Waldvogel, has been with the Marines in Vietnam and arrived home Feb. 20 for a six-week leave. After a week, he flew to Austria, Switzerland and England before returning for his last six months of duty in Vietnam. He expects his discharge in September.

THE ARNOLD Sampsons hosted a dinner Thursday evening in honor of Paul Penrod's birthday, with Lisa and Dick Engle completing the group. Sunday Frieda Miltreich went to dinner at Heuers' with the Penrods, so Paul felt well remembered.

The Ralph Vanelas and the Robert Ubbelohdes of River Grove were dinner guests Sunday at the Elgin home of the Bernard Heigesens, when Clara Paul celebrated his 10th birthday. Harlan had a party with his young friends Saturday afternoon.

One of the young ladies who was a recipient of the Milwaukee Railroad Women's Club's scholarship was a visitor Monday, as she passed through with her small daughter, Emily, on her way to Manila, Iowa, to visit the grandparents. The Ralph Vanelas met Mrs. Gerald Mott in Chicago and took her and the little girl to dinner and enjoyed hearing first hand how happy she had been with her scholarship.

SUZANNE Barry celebrated her first birthday with a family party in the Pat Barry home on Glendale. Watching her dig into her first cake were grandmother, Mrs. Paul Pingel, and godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lew Woelke.

Jack and Mary Sanborn were Saturday evening hosts to the Harry Reeds, Tony Licatas and the Ken Webers in their home on Algonquin Road.

Miss Dorothy Bernhard is convalescing at home since her recent leg surgery.

Frank Tessitore served as godfather to Gina Marie, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tessitore of Berwyn, at St. Catherine De Sales Church in Berwyn. A dinner party in the Joseph Tessitore home honored the occasion and Catherine Tessitore and daughters, Kathy, Joyce and Patricia, were among the guests.

TRACY LYNN, infant daughter of Stanley and Joyce Idler, was baptized at St. Alexis Church on Feb. 23 by Father Jim Brummel. Godparents were John and Sharon Kenny of Wheeling. A family party in the Idler home on Orchard Street honored the occasion. Joining the Idlers were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bart Kenny of Park Ridge and Mr. and Mrs.

Kasimir Idler of Chicago, and great-grandmother Mrs. Agnes Demald of Park Ridge.

To Debbie Mahaffa go speedy recovery wishes. She is ill and confined to her Main Street home.

Joey Grillo celebrated his first birthday with a family party in the Tony Grillo home on Church Road. Joining in on the celebration were grandmother Mrs. Joseph De Stefano, Mary and Jack Sanborn and daughters, Rosemarie and Angela, of Mohawk and the Andy Camagnaro family of Elk Grove Village.

Bob and Margaret Jackson spent the weekend in Waukegan. While there, they joined friends, Mr. and Mrs. Rolf Anderson, for dinner at the Parkwood. They also visited Bob's cousins, the George Schuetts. Jimmy and Aimee stayed at the home of a friend in Franklin Park.

Recent houseguests of Vince and Betty Scalzo were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Pouls of Peoria.

Condolences are extended to Bob and Marilyn Model, on the death of Marilyn's father, Mr. Art Koopman, last week.

JOHN AND KATHY Schutter were guests of Mrs. Theresa Schutter and Ann at the Ice Capades Sunday evening, celebrating Kathy's 21st birthday.

Bob and Carolyn Rasch celebrated their anniversary Saturday, joining friends, Pat and Dennis Walsh, for dinner at Old Orchard Country Club and seeing "Girl in the Freudian Slip."

Edie Sehr celebrated her eighth birthday with an after school party in her Medinah Street home last Friday for Kathy Hendricks, Maria and Josephine Giannini, Lisa Elde and Linda Vega.

Ann Boeck is home, after a week in St. Alexius Hospital, undergoing tests.

Harry and Carol Moomjian celebrated their 19th wedding anniversary on two occasions. The first a candlelight dinner for two prepared by their daughter, Robin, at the Moomjians' Algonquin Road home Tuesday evening. Friday evening Harry and Carol were guests of Dock and Myrtle Kaloway for dinner at the Candlelight Playhouse and to see the Neil Simon comedy, "Star Spangled Girl."

GABBY CLUB members, Dorothy Bielak, Helen Mueller, Catherine Whalen, Kathy D'S.

Auban, Dorothy Moeller and former Bensenville resident, Shirley Robey of Rockford, enjoyed the hospitality of Jean Ryan at a luncheon Wednesday afternoon in her Mohawk Drive home.

Speedy recovery wishes go to Michael Schuh, father of Trudey Thomas, who is in a hospital in Chicago.

Program for Youngsters

Robert P. Hanrahan, Cook County superintendent of schools, has arranged for local schools to participate in an astronomy program for Grades 3 through 7 in cooperation with the Adler Planetarium. These special sky shows, free to county elementary school students, are scheduled at 10:30 and 11:30 a.m. each school day. THE CURRENT program, "Our Island of Stars," examines the starry sky and the nature and motions of the various objects found within it. Advance reservations are required and further information may be obtained by calling 922-4488.

Call Air Pollution Meeting

The Illinois Air Pollution Control Board has called a meeting for March 12 to discuss a uniform control program of air pollution.

Government agencies in Cook, Lake, McHenry, Will, Kane and DuPage counties are expected to attend the meeting in Chicago.

Robert French, chief of the Air Pollution Control Board staff, said the session will be to outline federal requirements on pollution control and obtain local views.

THE SIX Illinois counties and Lake and Porter Counties, Indiana, comprise the federally designated Metropolitan Chicago Air Quality Control Region.

Under the Air Quality Act of 1967, the federal government is required to publish air quality criteria for those pollutants harmful to health or welfare and to publish reports on the techniques which can be employed to control the sources of pollutants.

Following this, the state or states responsible for the designated region must develop standards for the region and plans for implementing the standards.

FRENCH SAID local governments now have authority to control pollution within their jurisdictions. However, the extent of responsibility of the local, state and federal governments over air pollution is not clearly defined.

In the Chicago area, only two municipalities have adopted control standards and enforced ment programs. Evanston, having local standards, has requested exemption from the Metropolitan Chicago Air Quality Control Region but the city's request has been tabled.

County Government Must Be Revitalized

by HEC

DuPage County is expected in the 1970 census to cross the 500,000 population mark and this will no doubt mean changes in county government. The fact is that "restructuring" to make county government more competent to provide services and administer the needs of continuing expansion is now, and has been for some time, under study.

The $142 million referendum which, it is said, must come before the voters, is but one of a string of major problems confronting DuPage County. If sound policies are to be adopted to solve these problems, and many more to come, there has to be more expertise at the county level than at present.

Pushing this view is the projection that once across the half-million mark, DuPage County growth in population, industry, and all-over expansion will continue at an accelerated pace toward the million mark. Signs of this, many on the county board say, are everywhere and professional studies testify to it.

It is the general belief at the board level, that at the present state of population growth and development, county government has bogged down this past year and is virtually spinning its wheels. It is unable to effectively cope with and work its way through a maze of problems in this mass populated, urban county because the county board was designed for an agriculture era with a comparatively small population. The basic county board structure was set up in 1871, nearly 100 years ago. This is what "con-con" is about.

FINANCING FOR the growing services in this metropolitan county is becoming more difficult because revenue raising derives from a horse and buggy economy. Because of grants from Washington and Springfield (sharing of revenues) plus the fact that DuPage County has been able to go to the legislature for needed authority to carry out policies important to the welfare of the county, DuPage County government up to now has been able to keep pace with explosive expansion in this decade.

So the conclusion is that county government must start to think in new directions to be able to move in new directions as a new decade emerges. Signs point to heavier demands.

What this says is that a 31-member county board to administer the needs of a metropolitan county as large and affluent as DuPage is an anachronism. It is inefficient, wasteful, and lacks competence. It is not able to integrate its functions and coordinate county administration with other local bodies.

"It is necessary to strengthen county government," Fred Koebmann, Addison Township, claims, "to provide economy in costs and effective administration." He is an advocate of cutting down the size of the county board which he says is "too cumbersome" for today's needs.

The county, he thinks, is the most important unit in local government but until it is revitalized can't perform its functions effectively.

"IN MY JUDGMENT county government today in DuPage County," says Pat Savalano, Bloomingdale Township, "calls for a smaller body, with better qualifications and a higher performance on the part of the personnel. It's a full-time job."

After the 1970 census it can be expected that the DuPage County board will ask for legislation to cut down the size of the board in keeping with this urban community which will then be headed toward a million population.

The thinking now is, and several members have expressed themselves on the subject, that the board should be cut to 15, 11, 9, even 7. But this consensus does not represent a poll of the county board. Some members on that body will throw up their hands in amazement at the thought of the word "change"; they worship in the church of the status quo.

Legislation would provide, of course, for a board redistricting on the county on the basis of the number of members and on the "one man — one vote" principle. The township would fall by the wayside and many would applaud because they are sure that it is destined to be snuffed out anyway because it won't have any function. Rep. William Redmond, D-Bensenville, will probably go along with this conjecture.

The county chairman would be elected from the county at large as he should be, to represent the county community as its chief executive. He's supposed to do this today but he can come from nine different constituencies, none representative of the county.

MEMBERS WOULD BE full-time representatives on the new county board and salaried. It is said salaries and expenses for a smaller body would cost the taxpayers no more than a 31-member body.

Another innovation for better administration would be the installation of a county manager. A bill is already in the legislature for county managers identical with village and city managers. The board would make the decisions but would delegate powers of administration to this official.

Already in the cards at Wheaton, where a public works administrator, a zoning administrator, and a highway administrator have proved their worth, are a planning commissioner and a finance director.

They will solve administrative problems, sponsors say, that no board member however competent or any number of them can possibly handle. The reason is they will be trained specialists in their fields.

This is the gist of the present day confrontation at the county board level. Expertise and technical knowledge are required in the several fields of administration in metropolitan county government in the years ahead. Most citizens are well enough informed to see that basic changes in county government are imperative.

New Children's Books a Delight

by SOPHIE WINTERS

Itasca Community Library

Among the new books we have received in the last few weeks are many that will delight the young children.

Some of them are easy readers and some of them are for mama to read to the young listener. All of them will be popular with the small set.

Strictly for laughs is "The Bear's Vacation" by Stan and Jan Berenstain. Those of you who read McCall's magazine will be familiar with the cartoon stories of the Berenstains.

They are "day brighteners" for all of us who have children and the madcap adventures that children bring into our lives.

"THE BEAR'S VACATION" just happens to star a family of bears, but it could just as well be your own family. In this adventure Papa Bear insists on demonstrating his rules for seaside safety.

But it's soon obvious that papa can't even follow his own rules. He moves from one disaster to another.

And Small Bear, of course, always has to bail him out. This book is written for the reading beginner, but you moms will enjoy it too.

Another very cute book is "Tikki Tikki Tembo" by Arlene Mosel. This is a very old Chinese legend that has been retold by Miss Mosel, and concerns two small Chinese brothers.

The younger brother answers to the name of "Chang" — which means "little or nothing."

But his older brother, being the first and honored son, is called "Tikki tikki tembo-no sa rembo-chari hani ruchi-pip peri pembo" which means "the most wonderful thing in the whole wide world."

These two mischievous boys play a crucial role in convincing ancient Chinese that very long names can be very dangerous indeed.

YOUNG LISTENERS will love the gaiety and fun of this book with its tongue-in-cheek tone, and will be entranced with the constant repeating of "Tikki tikki tembo's" deliciously rhythmic name.

Another book which will be a delight to the young reader is "Little Bear's Friend" by Else Holmelund Menarik.

This book was reordere because the children had literally read our old copy to death. It has been so popular with the young set because the story is so witty and the illustrations by Maurice Sendak are charming.

Another reordere is by our old friend, Dr. Seuss, and the title is "McElligot's Pool."

Our previous copy of this one was also in tatters because this is one of the young peoples' favorite Dr. Seuss stories — told in that wonderful lilting poetry of his.

Both of these reordere will be old friends for you and your children.

ONE MORE BOOK that I'd like to mention is Brian Wildsmith's "Fishes." This is a perfectly lovely picture book that the whole family will love. There is no dialogue — only colorful pictures of our friends in the sea.

Those of you who have seen Brian Wildsmith's "Animals" and "Birds" will know what a hit his books are and how unusual and exquisite his illustrations can be.

Road Dist. Budget Doubles Township's

The proposed increase of the 1969-70 Bloomingdale Township road district budget is twice the increase of the proposed township budget, according to Town Clerk Leonard R. Norberg.

The total road district budget to be presented to township electors March 25 is $321,100. THE TOTAL township budget to be presented the same night at Bloomingdale's Central School, 112 Day Street, is $160,470.

The increase of $12,210 in the road budget over the 1968-69 budget of $308,890 compares with the township budget increase of $5,300.

The 1968-69 township budget totaled $155,170.

Township electors will be asked to okay the two budgets, which include salary raises for township officials, April 1.

Kurth Comments

by Phil Kurth

$400. That's all it will take. $400, and the Bensenville-Roselle area can once again have American Legion baseball this summer.

The total cost for fielding a team is approximately $800. The Roselle legion post has already agreed to pay half the cost. This leaves $400 to be paid by the Bensenville post.

Scott Kinnaman, junior vice commander of the Robert D. Clark post in Bensenville, says: "We just don't have any money. We got knocked off in that gambling thing, which was a little ridiculous, and we're still paying money to fight the case."

"We used to spend a lot of money civily. We would today, but we just don't have it."

"We're under a little reorganization here, and we're trying to get back on our feet."

"At the present time we have no source of income except the bar, and we don't make much money across the bar. If we can't have bingo or something like that to bring in a few bucks, we can't spend a few bucks."

"We'd love to sponsor something like this and get our name on it, and show that we can do some good. But, as I said, we just don't have any money to spend."

In deep financial trouble, the Bensenville Legion is hardly in a position to help. So it's up to the town to help the legion help the town.

There are approximately 13,000 people in Bensenville. Three cents from each of them would bring in the $400.

Does the community want a legion team?

Norm Anderson, a member of the VFW in Bensenville, says: "The interest in the older level isn't too high from what I have experienced in the last few years with the Colts. I am working with Mr. Webster in town to see if we can bring the Colts back up."

If it's true that there's little interest in a legion team, then it's well and good to let the matter die here. Ernie Lair, county chairman for the American Legion program, is going to start drawing up schedules March 16. If nothing is done between now and then, the people in Bensenville who might be forced to work a little to get a team can rest easy — it'll be too late to do anything this year.

Then glorious, expensive plans can be made for next year. The work will be postponed for awhile, and then there'll always be another excuse.

This is the road to nowhere that's so easy to travel and that so many people take.

DOES the community want a legion team?

Most folks I've talked to answer with an emphatic yes.

First, it will give kids who graduate somewhere to play. Guys like Marty Romme and Chris Petersen will have a chance to play this summer if there's a legion team. And once a legion team has been established, college freshmen will be able to play (a guy who played on a legion team the year before can play again in his first year of college).

Second, a legion team can bring a lot of publicity and honor to a community.

Will there be any problems other than money with getting a team entered in legion competition this year?

"No," says Lair. The only stipulations are: 1) A boy participating must have been born on or after Aug. 1, 1950. 2) A team cannot draw from high schools whose total enrollment exceeds 3,600 (not including freshmen).

The $800 will be used to buy uniforms, bats, and ball, and to pay umpires for home games. "All you have to do is pay your home expenses," says Lair.

Roselle has already offered to come up with their share.

Now it's up to Bensenville.

To the north of us, there are five legion teams for seven schools (Palatine, Wheeling, Arlington, Mt. Prospect, St. Viator, Forest View, and Elk Grove). The programs are growing — in popularity and in size — every year.

The Lake Park-Fenton community has nothing. Three cents certainly doesn't seem like much. And that's all it would take.

But if something is to be done, if the money is to be raised, it must be done quickly. Says Lair: "You really don't have to have the money or anything by March 16, but I must know definitely by then if you're going to field a team so I can make out the schedules."

WHO WAS THAT LADY?

I don't think I've ever seen the Lancers move so fast.

Following the game Tuesday night, they were all standing around in various stages of undress (most in the altogether), talking, laughing, some still in the shower, some walking over to the lockers. Suddenly, marching through the lockerroom stepped a rather matronly woman.

There was a blur of movement, a patter of feet, and sort of a stunned incredulity. When I looked down toward the showers again, I saw Tom Tews hesitantly poke his head around the corner, still not quite believing that she was really there. Others sort of slinked around corners trying to get out of sight.

If it did nothing else, it helped coach Gus Pasquini forget for a few moments the injury to Chris Petersen.

District Gym Site Changed

The district gymnastics meet which was formerly scheduled for Elk Grove this Saturday, has been moved to East Leyden High School in Franklin Park.

The change was made because it was felt the meet would interfere with the Grove's school play, which will also be held on Saturday.

Although the meet will be held at East Leyden, Elk Grove will still be the hosting school.

The session times have also been changed. The first session will begin at 1 p.m. to include side horse, still rings, tumbling and free exercise.

The second session at 7:30 p.m. will have trampoline, horizontal bar and parallel bars.

The Arlington-hosted district will conclude tonight at 7 p.m. with competition in the tramp, parallel and high bar events.

THE HAND THAT hurts. Fenton's Bruce Kassel (23) is ready to haul in rebound but Lake Park's Chris Petersen gets a hand in the way. Kassel scored 12 points and Vic Sage (at the right) scored 17, but Petersen notched 28 to lead Lancers to a tight 60-56 victory over the Bisons.

A LESSON IN ballet. Lake Park's Mike Kramarczyk soars gracefully through the air to put up a shot despite the harassment of Fenton's Bruce Kassel. Kramarczyk hit seven baskets, five of them in the second half, to help the Lancers edge the Bisons 60-56 in the game.

Lancers Win, Lose Petersen Battling Bisons Bow

by PHIL KURTH

Joy is a fleeting thing — it comes and goes in the wink of an eye.

Tuesday night in Glen Ellyn it faded for the Lancers of Lake Park and their fans while the sounds of victory were still in the air. As the buzzer was sounding to signal a heart-thumping 60-56 triumph over Fenton, the jubilation that would normally follow a tense tournament win started, and then stopped.

Under the Lake Park basket, Chris Petersen got slowly to his feet after lying on the court for several seconds. Obviously in pain, he started to hobble toward the dressing room as two teammates came up to lend assistance. An arm around each of their shoulders, Chris was carried off and perhaps with him went the Lancers' hopes of a tournament championship. (A severe sprain was the first diagnosis of his injury.)

AGAINST FENTON, Chris "was kind of a one-man show," admitted coach Gus Pasquini. He hauled in rebound after rebound, poured through 28 points, blocked the middle on defense, and came up with the big plays in the fourth quarter that turned the tide for the Lancers after the Bisons had taken the lead and apparently taken the play away from their neighbors to the west.

Decided underdogs, the Bisons fell behind early but refused to fold. Inch by inch, basket by basket, they clawed back. Finally, late in the third quarter they took the lead for the first time on a 20-foot bulls-eye by Dave Redman. That made it 39-38 Fenton and from there on the two clubs traded leads and traded baskets until the final seconds when a pair of free throws by Les Arndt decided the outcome for good.

Disappointed, perhaps dejected, the Bisons headed to the lockerroom for the last time this season. But they had nothing to apologize for, and nothing to feel sorry about.

There's seldom glory in defeat, but there's sometimes a lot to be proud of. The Bisons didn't take a step backward all night. They fought and they scrapped and they played just as well and as hard as they could.

It was more than an honest effort, it was an inspired effort and it earned them the respect and admiration of everyone who saw them Tuesday night. And if the Fenton fans didn't give their team a rousing round of applause when the game ended, they were applauding in their hearts.

BRUCE KASSEL was sturdy as always, Dave Redman was absolutely brilliant again from outside, John Geils was tougher than ever (offensively and defensively), Chuck Zempel came up with a couple of big plays. The most startling performance, though, was that of Vic Sage.

Suffering through a rather mediocre season, Sage seemed to want to make up for it all in the tournament. He rebounded like a tiger, hit eight field goals (hitting shots that no one knew he could make), and totaled 17 points.

It wasn't quite enough, thanks mostly to Petersen, Les Arndt, Mike Kramarczyk, and a defense that hung tough when it had to. For five minutes Tuesday, it looked like the Lancers were going to run Fenton right out of Glen Ellyn. With his teammates feeding him inside, Pete hit three lay-ups and canned a rebound in less than three minutes as Lake Park streaked to an 8-2 lead. Rog Karner hit two lay-ups, Vic Tomczak another and now it was 14-3 Lake Park.

A 30-FOOTER BY Kassel at the buzzer cut the lead to 24-17 at the quarter, and after Lake Park had built it back to 12 (33-21) on another lay-up by Petersen, Fenton took over.

Sage hit from 15 feet, Geils looped in a driving shot, Redman hit a 20-foot swisher and at halftime Lake Park's lead was a precarious 33-27.

Two buckets by Kassel, another by Geils, and the Fenton fans began to get caught up in the fever as their heroes pulled within a single point at 34-33.

Petersen hit. Kassel hit. Kramarczyk hit. Sage hit. Redman hit — and the Bisons had their first lead. Lake Park called time out, and then came back to take the lead on a lay-up by Arndt. Kramarczyk and Kassel traded baskets and heading into the final eight minutes of action, the score stood 42-41 Lake Park.

KRAMARCZYK, ON a tough, alert play, saved the Lancers' skin for the moment. A frantic scramble followed the tip-off with four or five players fighting for the ball. Fenton finally got it, but Mike ripped the ball away and raced in to can a lay-up. Zempel notched two free throws and once again Kramarczyk came back to save the Lancers.

With Fenton trailing 44-43, Geils stole a pass and raced downcourt with nobody in front of him. Mike took off in hot pursuit, closed the gap, and as Geils went up for the lay-up he somehow managed to make a final lunge, get his hand on the ball, and knock it off the court.

The Bisons still had the ball, but Tomczak swiped a pass in the middle and fed to Kramarczyk who laid in another.

Fenton wasn't about to concede. Redman gunned two distance shots in a row. Zempel hit a lunging 10-footer, Geils dropped in a spinning lay-up and the Bisons regained the lead at 51-50.

NOW CHRIS TOOK over again, banking in a short shot from the side despite tremendous defensive pressure to give the Lancers the lead for good at 52-51. Pete followed with a free throw, Kramarczyk rang the metal with a 20-footer, and Lake Park led by four.

Again the Bisons fought back, closing the margin to two on a bucket by Sage with 1:16 to play.

And again Petersen came back. He moved inside, threw up a short shot, missed, grabbed his own rebound, and laid it back in for a big, big two points.

As quickly as everyone thought the game was finally over, Redman fed a pretty pass to Geils who flipped in a shot from underneath and with 27 seconds left Fenton trailed by two again.

ARNDT WAS fouled and with the tension mounting he sank both shots of a one-and-one to wrap up the victory.

"I guess we should have started pressing them earlier," muttered Fenton coach Phil Hardy in the loser's lockerroom.

"That week off really hurt us," muttered Pasquini outside the winner's lockerroom.

There was a lot of post game solemnity on both sides Tuesday. For Fenton, it was all over — a tough fight had gone for naught.

For Lake Park, which boosted its record to 18-5, there was reflection on the fight to come (first against Glenbard West) — a fight they would have to win without Chris Petersen.

OVER AND OVER. This scene must have seemed like a nightmare to Fenton Tuesday night. Chris Petersen (50) threw in 28 points to lead Lake Park to a 60-56 opening round victory in the Glenbard West Regional Tournament. Petersen severely sprained his ankle on the last play of the game, though, and was not expected to see any action against Glenbard West.

Visk Dazzles With 4:18.9 Mile Run

Mark Visk of Palatine turned in a sizzling 4:18.9 mile but the Pirate track team lost to Maine West 64-45 Tuesday.

Palatine won seven events to Maine West's six but Maine West's depth provided the winning margin.

Joe Camp won in the two-mile with a 10:07.4, Henry Schniepp won in the high jump with a 5-8, Jim Verburg won in the 50-yard dash with a 5.6 and Don Giancaspro won in the 440 with a 54.4.

Palatine's four-lap relay team of Verburg, Jeff Olsberg, Giancaspro and Tom Patch took first place. Schniepp was second in the shot put and Reed Jacobson was second in the 880 with a 2:05.5.

Palatine's mile relay team was clocked in 3:40 for first place. The relay was made up of Olsberg, Steve Bahndt, Jacobson and Giancaspro.

As Lions Reach Semi's Kaskie's Play Key

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

Dave Kaskie personally outbounced the best rebounding team in the Mid-Suburban League Tuesday night.

If you want to point a finger at the most important player in St. Viator's 51-49 edging of Fremd in the first round of the Palatine Regional basketball tournament, point it at Dave Kaskie.

The burly 6-4 center pulled down 14 rebounds — more than the entire Fremd team, the team which led the Mid-Suburban in clearing the backboards.

TO SOME FANS, Kaskie must have been overlooked, but to the students of the game it was he who provided the victory.

Besides his 14 rebounds, Kaskie scored 10 points and held Fremd's biggest players to a total of nine points and six rebounds.

Perhaps the only players who could have possibly overshadowed Kaskie were Viator's Dave Erfort and Fremd's Gerry Grybash.

Erfort directed the Lion attack, handing out numerous assists, and by hitting crucial free throws time after time, he kept Viator on top on the scoreboard.

GRYBASH WAS more or less — let's make that more — the whole Fremd team. The 5-10 guard tallied 30 points, hitting on seven of 20 shots from the floor and a fantastic total of 16 of 19 foul shots.

Fremd missed its first seven shots in the first quarter and though Viator was not hitting much better, the Lions held a 6-2 lead after five minutes of play.

Fremd came within two points at 8-6 but a shot from the corner by Terry Cullen and a jumper by Jack Brawley gave Viator a 12-6 lead as the first quarter ended.

Grybash took over the Fremd attack in the second quarter and the Vikings came to life. Fremd was down 14-6 but Grybash made it 14-9 with a driving layup and a free throw. Fremd was down 16-9 and then Grybash scored five points, Randy Hague two and Gary Davis two and within a short span the Vikings were up 18-16.

IN THE LAST minute and a half of the first half Viator rallied behind the play of Erfort, Brawley and Cullen to take a 22-18 advantage at halftime.

With Kaskie continuing to dominate the rebounding department, St. Viator scored six field goals to Fremd's two in the third period but the Vikings were outscored only 15-11 in that stanza due to seven foul shots by Grybash.

Erfort, Cullen and Greg Doyle scored twice from the floor each and it was Grybash who scored Fremd's only basket.

Viator raced out to a 20-21 lead with four minutes to go in the third quarter. Fremd, er, Grybash cut the margin to five points with 3:57 left but the Lions kept on the pressure and led 37-29 as the third quarter ended.

Viator took a 44-34 lead, with 6:25 remaining in the game and the Lions seemed well on their way to the semi-final round of the tournament.

But Fremd, which had won its last seven games going into the tournament, put forth a last ditch effort.

Bob Moloznik made it 44-37 with a foul shot and a jumper in the key; Davis made it 46-39 with two free throws; Chuck Daugherty made it 46-41 with a drive and made it 46-42 with a foul shot.

A jumper by Grybash from the top of the circle made it 46-44 and no one among the 1,900 in the Palatine gym was sitting.

Fremd had an opportunity to tie the score when Hague intercepted a Lion pass but in attempt to start a fast break, the 6-4 sophomore barely threw the ball past the hands of Mike Kolze and the ball traveled out of bounds.

ERFORT THEN sank two foul shots and Doyle tipped in another shot to give St. Viator a 50-44 advantage.

With 2:23 left Hague sank a free throw to make it 50-45 and at 2:05 Kaskie sank a foul shot to make it 51-45.

Grybash drove the lane for two points and moments later hit on his 16th free throw to make the tally 51-49.

Fremd had one last opportunity to tie the score.

Grybash got the ball, dribbled the length of the court and got behind a screen set by Davis. The Viking guard then lofted a jump shot toward the hoop. But an outstretched hand batted away the ball and batted away Fremd's chances at the same time.

The hand was Dave Kaskie's.

Forming Soccer Teams

The Palatine Park District is now forming soccer teams in two age groups and will join the Northern Park District Soccer League starting in April.

The league would be divided into the following age divisions: Midgets; 9-12 year-old boys; Intermediate; 12-14 year-old boys.

The league will start April 5 and last until May 24. All games are to be played on Saturday afternoons and home games will rotate to various Park District fields.

Those interested in attending a meeting on Tuesday, March 11 at 8:00 p.m. at the Morton Grove Park District Office located at 6250 Dempster Avenue, please contact Larry Rogers at the Palatine Park District, at 359-0533.

All those parents interested in coaching or sponsoring teams please call the Park District.

Last year soccer was started at the Palatine Park District and was coached by Chuck Willour, former player, and sportswriter at Paddock Publications.

Individual fee will be $3.00.

Sixth Grade Tourney Set

St. Joseph of Wheeling will serve as host for a sixth grade basketball tournament, starting this Sunday, March 9.

Eight teams will participate in the tourney with the first game at 3:00 p.m. St. Joseph will play at 6:45 at Holmes Jr. High in Wheeling.

Semi-finals will be held Monday evening at 6:45 with the championship game Thursday at 8:00.

Falcons Fall In Track

Addison Trail proved a pretty tough opening test for Forest View's indoor track team last Saturday morning at the Blazers' home track.

The Falcons captured four firsts but lost the meet 53-39.

Terry Shakon brought home two firsts in the 50 yard dash and the 50 low hurdles. He had a 58 in the dash to edge out teammate Mike Keen by 1/10 of a second. He also nipped Keen in the hurdle event but both boys had identical 68 readings.

Don Hammer won the high jump having fewer misses than fellow jumper Rick Miller but both cleared the bar at 5-6.

Richard Cousins took the long jump with a fine leap of 20-1.

Forest View dropped both relay events.

Vikings 2nd In Track

Fremd finished second to Niles West but managed to outscore Elgin Larkin in a three-way high school track meet at Niles East.

Fremd trackmen took four first place finishes.

Bucky Buchanan took first in the long jump with a leap of 20-2. Jeff Bruce was first in the pole vault with an 11-6. Wally Spiniolas nabbed first in the two-mile with a 10 17 4 and Dan Pittenger set a field house record with a 2 03 4 in the 800.

Bob Dalatowski was second in the shot put. Chuck McGuinn was second in the pole vault and Greg Stitt was runner-up in the mile. Carl Pozzo was third in the 440.

16-Inch League To Plan Season

An organization meeting for the Mount Prospect Park District Men's 16-inch softball league will be held Thursday evening, March 20, at 7:30 in the Chestnut Room of the Mount Prospect Country Club Park Community Center, 600 Seegun Avenue.

Interested individuals and teams are urged to be in attendance as policies regarding fees, rules and general organization of the league will be determined at this time.

Railroads May Suffer; Super Chief Rolls On

By ALBERT W. WIESE

ABOARD THE SUPER CHIEF, En Route in Arizona (UPI)—Almost everyone agrees that America's railroads are discouraging passenger traffic but there are still some deluxe trains traveling across the country.

One of these is the Santa Fe's Super Chief which leaves Los Angeles and Chicago daily for its 40-hour trip between the two cities.

The Super, as it is called, has just about all the luxury of a plush hotel—except for a swimming pool.

It does have the advantage over a hotel in that you're being transported smoothly and quietly and there is no telephone to bother you.

The Super is an all private-room train. Each room, in addition to the foldaway beds, has indirect lighting, self-controlled air conditioning and, of course, a private rest room.

Each room has a six-channel music system giving the passenger his choice of classical, popular or children's music, latest news reports and a channel for stock quotations, plus one for a nearby radio station.

Since the number of rooms is limited in each car and each car has its own porter, service is right at your fingertip. Leave a call to be awakened and the soft doorbell brings you back from a restful night's sleep.

Some persons, including the writer, the gentle click-click and the smooth rocking of a first class Pullman does more for a good night's sleep than a handful of sleeping pills.

While you're getting dressed the porter brings a complimentary pot of coffee as a "wake-up."

The dining car on the Super brings back memories of the deluxe trains of yesteryear. Each table has a small bud vase with a single bud. These are replaced each morning.

Food and service are as good as any first class cafe in a big city. Australian lobster tails, thick steaks, fresh mountain trout dominate the dinner menu.

For relaxing as you speed along the tracks, one car contains a reading room where the latest newspapers are supplied from stations along the route. Another has a dome lounge for a better view of the scenery.

For the afternoon try a tall one or the pre-dinner cocktail. The lounge car offers the best of everything served in the style that made the old time railroads famous.

If you are with a party and would like a private dinner there is the Turquoise Room which can handle groups of six to 20.

For the executive who wants to spend a little time at a desk away from his desk, each room in the train is equipped to handle tape recorders and if he hasn't brought his along the porter can dig one up.

During part of the year the Super Chief is operated in connection with the all-chair car El Capitan. During the summer months at peak holiday time they operate as individual trains.

Each unit has its own lounge and dining facilities.

How long the Super will be with us is hard to estimate. Even Santa Fe officials can't be sure what the future holds.

John S. Reed, Santa Fe's president, said traffic on both the Super Chief and El Capitan was about the same during 1968 and during 1967.

"This is misleading, though, in view of sharply increased costs for labor and material," Reed said.

"At the moment we have no plans to file for discontinuance of the Super Chief or El Capitan. We continue to advertise and promote that service and to maintain the high standards for which we have long been known."

The Super is not the only great train remaining in America—but it comes up to the best of them.

And when you arrive at your destination it feels as if you have had an extra week's vacation in only two days.

Obituaries

Mrs. I. C. Morrison

Mrs. Isabel Crawford Morrison, 68, died Tuesday in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. She was born May 15, 1900, in Chicago and had been a resident of Palatine Township for 21 years and lived at 712 W. Hill Road.

Funeral services are being held today at 9:45 a.m. from J. L. Poole Funeral Home (formerly Tharp), 25 W. Palatine Road, Palatine, to St. Theresa Catholic Church in Palatine for 10 a.m. mass. Interment will be at Calvary Cemetery, Evanston.

Mrs. Morrison was a clerk in Harris Pharmacy at 20 S. Dunton Ave. in Arlington Heights.

She was the widow of the late James, and is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Isabel Allaben of Chicago, and Mrs. Betty Boll of Mount Prospect; eight grandchildren; one great-grandchild; and a sister, Mrs. Sadie McVicar.

Anthony Catalano

Anthony Catalano, 77, died Wednesday in St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village. He was born Jan. 17, 1892 in Italy and had been a resident of Roselle since 1937 and lived at 126 W. Forest Ave. He was a self-employed farmer until his retirement about 10 years ago.

Funeral services are being held today at 10 a.m. at Martin and Richert Funeral Home, 33 S. Roselle Road, Roselle, to St. Walter Catholic Church in Roselle for 10:30 a.m. mass. Interment will be at Mount Carmel Cemetery, Hillside.

Surviving are his widow, Mary, nee Cacioppo; two daughters, Mrs. Genevieve (Jack) Crawford, and Mrs. Phyllis (Cliff) Babbs, both of Roselle; two sisters, Mrs. Conetta Bona of New York, and Mrs. Mary Zito of Chicago.

Mrs. Barbara Woerber

Mrs. Barbara Woerber, 81, of Constantine, Mich., died Tuesday in St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village. She had been moved from Michigan to live with her daughter, Mrs. Adeline Geisler at 900 W. Algonquin Road in Palatine, only a few hours before she was taken to the hospital.

Funeral services are being held today at 10:30 a.m. from Ahlgrim and Son Funeral Home, 201 N. Northwest Highway, Palatine, to St. Theresa Catholic Church in Palatine for 11 a.m. mass. Interment private.

Besides her daughter she is survived by a son, Charles Woerber of Denver, Colo.; six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Dorothy Hitzler

Mrs. Dorothy Hitzler, 63, of Park Ridge, died Tuesday in Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. She was born April 23, 1904 in Chicago and lived at 1020 S. Aldine.

Funeral services were held yesterday at St. Andrews Lutheran Church in Park Ridge. Interment was at family lot.

Mrs. Hitzler was an active member of the Women's Auxiliary at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge.

She was the widow of the late William J. and is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Jean Johnson of Michigan and Mrs. Shirley Klein of Mount Prospect; three sons, William Hitzler of Park Ridge, Robert and John Hitzler both of Arlington Heights; eight grandchildren, a sister and two brothers.

Contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society.

Ozite

takes a short look at the past...

Because we're moving into your area soon, we think you should know a little about us, our background and credentials.

We're not Ozite-come-lately, we're a one hundred and five year old company with ideas for the future. Founded in Lincoln's time, we're responsible for such nostalgic favorites as Plush, the decorative heavy curtain used to cover drafty windows, and its more modern cousin used to improve the acoustics in Talky movie houses back in the twenties. You've been walking on our animal hair and rubber cushion products for years. And now there's our complete line of Indoor-Outdoor, colored, patterned carpets, practically indestructible and used for everything from yacht decks to kitchen floors.

These products have helped build us into what we are today, the past, present and future of the carpet industry. Through hard work and progressive thinking we've expanded and merged ourselves right out of our present corporate headquarters, into an ultra-modern complex of offices in Libertyville.

Next week we'll tell you more about the opportunities our move will create for you. For more information call:

2. A RAISE

OPENINGS IN ARLINGTON HEIGHTS AND WHEELING.

That's right! Whether you're a typist-clerk, a telephone operator or a customer relations specialist at Illinois Bell you'll have the chance to earn Two Raises your first year. Since our starting salaries are about the same as equivalent jobs elsewhere, you'll get ahead faster here if you've got the ability and desire to do so.

Famous Bell benefits also add up for you. Benefits include: college level tuition aid, and, we think, the opportunity to work with some of the best people around.

Work is interesting and varied. You'll be trained for interesting varied work that is as important to people as their telephone and you'll have lots of opportunity to move up in the company... many of our people have.

Match yourself to these qualifications, then come see us! We're an Equal Opportunity Employer.

OPERATOR

Girls who get the calls through need good telephone voices, the ability to listen, the desire to help people.

CUSTOMER RELATIONS

Our service representatives who advise customers on all telephone matters need friendly personalities, quick bright minds. College or business experience helpful, not necessary.

CURIOUS?

You probably aren't as inquisitive as the fellow above, but did you ever wonder just how many classified ads are placed every year in Paddock Publications?

Last year the total was 200,000! That's a lot of votes of confidence in the pulling power of Paddock Want Ads. They range from help wanted to business services . . . from lost and found notices to apartments for rent. Regardless of their categories, they were placed in Paddock Publications for one reason: people know that Paddock Want Ads bring results. If you're curious whether Want Ads can solve YOUR problem, just dial 394-2400. Paddock Publications will do the rest!

This picture, with the Paddock newspaper, was taken at perhaps one of the world's most dangerous borders . . . between Israel and Jordan.

What's the picture saying? Simply this: our Real Estate Section is a striking example of freedom, the joy of home ownership and prideful way we live, free from oppressions of "barbed wire" living.

Week after week, you'll find examples of outstanding home values listed by the leading area Realtor's. These properties represent one of America's greatest heritages . . . the freedom to live where we want to and to constantly better our standard of living . . . free from secrecy in government and unfounded gossip.

Follow the many beautiful homes for sale in the Paddock Real Estate Section . . . see your local Realtor and enjoy life to the fullest . . . in the great Northwest Suburban Area.

Thomas LaDore Joins Kemmerly

Thomas D. LaDore, a Palatine resident, has been appointed to the staff of Jack Kemmerly ly Real Estate.

THOMAS D. LADORE

LaDore's career, from earth moving to "moving" real estate, spans more than three decades.

A 1931 graduate of Port Chester, N.Y., high school, LaDore attended Columbia University for two years before enlisting in the Army. His career began in the late 1930's with a job selling earth moving equipment.

Later he became an expeditor foreman for a New York City housing development firm where he was responsible for delivery of materials to building sites.

IN 1945, the firm decided to put its then-idle earth moving equipment to work on strip mines in West Virginia, and he was transferred there. He returned to sales several years later when he joined Modern Refrigeration Co. of Charleston, W. Va. Five years later he joined S. A. Hirsh Manufacturing Co. of Skokie. They moved him to Palatine in 1964.

He left the firm last October and, because of his sales and construction backgrounds, took a real estate course and decided to join Kemmerly.

LADORE and his wife Geneva have six children. A fourth degree member of the Knights of Columbus, he is also affiliated with the Palatine Township Republican Club, is a precinct captain and past treasurer of the Palatine Combined Community Appeal.

Hall Wins An 'Archie'

Hartley Hall of 1101 Cypress Lane in Elk Grove Village, won the 'Archie Award' as the outstanding graduate of the nation's only Hamburger University, located in suburban Chicago. Hall is a member of the McDonald's restaurant chain's corporate headquarters staff in Chicago.

This award is in addition to the B.H. (Bachelor of Hamburgerology) degree Hall received at Hamburger U. commencement exercises.

Hamburger U. is McDonald's unique training school, conducted university-style with classrooms, lab courses and professors, to teach its operators the science of preparing and serving McDonald's hamburgers.

Hall received the special 'Archie Award' — McDonald's insignia cum laude — 'in recognition of your effort and achievement' record earned by each student.

POPI AWARD: The Point of Purchase Advertising Institute has awarded Ampex Corporation's Ampex Stereo Tapes division its Outstanding Merchandising Award for a cassette floor unit. The revolving unit will accommodate 480 pre-recorded cassette stereo tapes in less than one square yard of floor space.

Mortgage Banking Firm Rents Space

Dovenmuehle, Inc. has arranged a $135,000 mortgage on an industrial building located at 1720 W. Irving Park Road in Schaumburg, it was announced by Luke Thornton, vice president of the Chicago mortgage banking firm. The structure, completed in the summer of 1968, contains 17,200 square feet and is located on 1½ acres of land. The owner is DBM Corporation, which has leased it for 20 years to the A. N. Palmer Co. General contractor for the industrial structure was D. J. Velo and Company.

Sales Show Increase

Baird & Warner's Barrington office at 121 S. Hough St., Barrington, achieved a sales volume totaling $7,062,231 for a 17.6 per cent increase over the previous year, according to Richard L. Lacy, vice president and district sales manager for Barrington and Crystal Lake. The number of transactions in which the office participated tallied 167 for an 8.4 per cent growth.

We're Movers

One out of every five Americans changes his residence each year.

Sales Volume In Peak During Year

A new high in gross volume was reached in 1968 in Baird & Warner's Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect offices, according to Robert G. Walters, vice-president and district sales manager, who reports that sales totaled $11,250,807 for a 1.4 per cent increase over the previous year. The combined sales staff participated in 323 transactions.

Several sales men and women in the two offices were cited for outstanding sales achievements during the veteran real estate company's annual dinner held Feb. 20 at the Marriott Motor Hotel.

A SPECIAL plaque was awarded to Arlington Heights, where all six staff members were honored as star salesmen: Harlan Jones, Howard Kaygay, Muriel Maitland, Don Bondy, Hal Culver and Tom Grisell. Jones was awarded the Distinguished Salesman Award by the Sales Marketing Executive Club in 1968. Kaygay and Mrs. Maitland also were singled out as members of the Million Dollar Club.

Walters, Margaret Christian and Don Geary in Mount Prospect are Million Dollar Club members and star salesmen. Willard Walworth received the latter award and Mrs. Christian was cited as a top producer for the last quarter of 1968.

Awards were made by John L. Hall, senior vice president and general sales manager, during Baird & Warner's annual meeting held Feb. 20 at the Marriott Motor Hotel.

Rambling Ranch

An outstanding home in our choice White Pines area, 3 bedrooms, 1½ baths, birch kitchen, corner fireplace, and a lovely first floor family room overlooking the park-like rear yard. Full basement with a 24-ft. square family room with a dry bar. 2-car attached garage.

By the way, that back yard is really something. It's tree lined and filled with fruit and shade trees. Surrounded by similar properties. 100'x215'. Water and sewer in and paid for. This is the type of home they had in mind when the term "rambling ranch" was devised.

Busse: Sales Up 67 Per Cent

George R. Busse, president of George L. Busse and Co., Realtors, recently announced that the firm's sales of homes, commercial, industrial, and vacant properties for the year 1968 increased over 67 per cent from the previous year.

Busse said "Due to our affiliation with All Points Relocation Service, Inc., a nation-wide Realtor referral service and the many buyers personally referred to us by our friends and satisfied clients, we have many buyers but are unable to fulfill their needs because of a shortage of good listings. Our association with MAP Multiple Listing Service has also been a tremendous reason for our continued growth."

Don Florence and Jack Keller, owners of F-B-K Inc., Realtors announced the fifth anniversary of the opening of their Mount Prospect Branch office.

It is a double anniversary since Mary McAndrew joined the firm at the opening of the office five years ago. Mary is currently broker sales manager and is one of the original staff. She has been a top producer in the F-B-K organization, surpassing the Million Dollar Sales Volume each year for the past five years.

F-B-K owners attribute the success of the Mount Prospect office to the efforts of Mrs. McAndrew and the staff consisting of Margaret Dailey, Dee

Lacy VP Of Realty

Richard L. Lacy, district sales manager for the Barrington and Crystal Lake offices of Baird & Warner, has been elected vice president of the 114-year old real estate firm, according to John W. Baird, president.

A Navy veteran and a University of Illinois graduate with a bachelor's degree in marketing, he joined Baird & Warner in 1969 as a salesman at the Elmhurst office.

In 1961 Lacy was transferred to Barrington to re-open a local office. Prior to becoming associated with Baird & Warner, he was general manager and vice president of a bus company. Lacy has been active on the Barrington real estate board, the chamber of commerce and junior chamber of commerce, and served on the membership committee for the Illinois Assn. of Real Estate Boards in 1965.

RICHARD LACY

Lacy and his wife, Susan, live on Crestview Dr., in Barrington, with their six children.

NEW LOCATION: Jim Howland recently moved his Howland's Meat Market into the new Evergreen shopping plaza in Arlington Heights. Howland, in business in the Northwest Suburbs for 21 years, had been located at 27 W. Campbell for the past seven. With Howland are Louis Martin, left, and Charles Chute.

Council Elects Dabovich

Thomas Dabovich, 201 S. Dru-ry Lane, Arlington Heights, president of Morton Chemical Company, has been elected vice-president of the Chemical Industries Council-Midwest.

The Chemical Industries

Council-Midwest is composed of 35 Chicago area chemical and pharmaceutical companies. The council sponsors a variety of activities designed to provide students with information on careers in chemistry. Among these are an annual Chemistry Career Seminar for High School Students and the CIC School Speakers Panel, which appears at schools for full day sessions on careers in chemistry.

THESE WESTERN ELECTRIC engineers were on planning committee that held demonstrations, tours and displays to observe National Engineers Week at regional headquarters in Rolling Meadows. From left to right are: Lou Heine (Riverside); Harry Plesha (Schaumburg); Joe Lupa (Chicago); Frank Pomazal (North Riverside); Frank Sherry (Forest View); Ted Gasper (Hinsdale); and Mel Farber (Brookfield).

Shown: The Dover 2-story, 10 rooms, 4 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, 2-car garage, $34,900

One of the nicest things about buying a Winston Development home is selling it.

☐ A Winston Development home is like fine wine; it improves with age. Leading resale brokers tell us our homes appreciate far more rapidly in value than the average home.

☐ And why not? We don't build average homes. Only exceptional ones, like the Dover 2-story shown above.

☐ It contains 10 rooms and encompasses over 2,400 sq. ft. of living area. And every inch of it is planned for easy and elegant living.

☐ The 21' living room has a bay window with a built-in window seat. The reception foyer is room-sized (11'3" x 11'4"). The 4 bedrooms are on one floor. The master bedroom is a veritable suite. (It has a 12' sitting room, 2 wall-wide closets and a private bath with stall shower.)

☐ The formal dining room is completely separate from the living room. The family room is on the main floor, and opens onto a terrace. The family-size kitchen has 3 Westinghouse appliances, a dining area and is right off a laundry-storage room.

☐ If 2-story architecture isn't your cup of tea, don't worry. We have equally well-planned ranch and mid-levels, too. All happily located in convenient Hoffman Estates, 38 minutes from The Loop.

☐ So, if you're looking for an investment in better living that can pay off in dollars and cents in the future, see Winston Knolls today.

CAMPAIGN
CHAIRMAN

ALLAN WILSON, JR. (center) 520 South Patton Avenue, Arlington Heights, secretary-treasurer of National Tea Company and a member of the Board of Directors of the Mental Health Association of Greater Chicago, joins in helping get the 1969 mental health campaign under way under the new leadership of (left) Former Governor Samuel H. Shapiro, 1969 mental health chairman. Passing on the campaign gavel to Governor Shapiro is (right) Norman A. Stepelton, president of National Tea Company and 1968 mental health chairman. Stepelton continues as 1969 honorary general chairman. The 1969 mental health goal is $275,000.

WAYNE O. ENGLAND, (left), of 204 Dean Drive in Palatine, and region administrative assistant for Weyerhaeuser in Des Plaines, accuses the company's Los Angeles region manager, John Lipiani, of getting a group of Weyerhaeuser sales managers lost in the firm's giant plant in Longview, Wash. England and nearly 100 other wood products group sales managers from across the country toured the facility recently in conjunction with a meeting held in Tacoma, Wash.

Shares Go Up

An improvement in net earnings for 1968 to $1.95 per share was announced by E. L. Paxton, president of G. C. Murphy. The 1968 results include a per share provision for federal surtax of the 19 cents and of 4 cents for the loss on the 10 unprofitable Terry Farris stores sold at mid-year. Excluding these items, net earnings per share were $2.19 compared with $1.93 last year.

Sales for the year increased $23,392,000 or 7 per cent to a new high of $356,699,000 with 512 stores in operation at the end of both this and the previous year. Sixteen new stores were opened, 12 in the last quarter of the

Basement Doubles Sales Of Weathersfield Ranch

Last year saw the first introduction of a ranch home with a full basement in suburban Weathersfield. The Salem, a three bedroom ranch priced in the $23,000 class, had previously been offered without a basement, but demand soon caused Campanelli, Inc., the builder, to add a basement. As a result, sales figures have actually doubled - during 1967 there were 84 Salem models sold and during 1968, over 160 Salem sales have been recorded. In fact, the addition of the basement has made the Salem the best seller in Weathersfield.

IN ADDITION to the basement, 28 by 40 feet, Salem has a kitchen-and-family room combination, 10 1/2 by 18 1/2 feet. The cabinets are of maple. The kitchen serves as an open-designed family or recreation room.

The New England exterior presents a bay window, louver-framed bedroom windows, a white Colonial door, and rough-sawn cedar siding. New England interior accents appear in the formal living room, 14 by 16 feet, as well as the three bedrooms.

Standard Campanelli features include underground wiring, oak floors, ceramic-tiled bath and separate powder room, concrete drive, and gas heat. Also included are the attached garage and fully improved landscaped site, with a minimum 70 feet frontage. A separate family room, fireplace and an electric kitchen are among optional details available.

Life in Weathersfield, which now has more than 2,400 families, centers on an 11-acre community center, which provides an Olympic pool, a cabana, clubhouse, tennis and outdoor basketball courts, a baseball diamond, and a recreation hall suitable for parties, banquets and meetings.

The school system has three new schools in operation. A Catholic church and school are nearing completion.

The newest addition to the Weathersfield complex is the new Weathersfield Garden Apartments. One and two bedroom units are available for immediate occupancy. Rental prices start at $165 per month.

THE SALEM, a three bedroom home, is the first ranch in Weathersfield to offer a basement. Builder Campanelli, Inc., said buyers demand brought about the basement option and sales have doubled as a result.

Newgard Heart Fund Chairman

J. Robert Newgard, 1471 Greenbriar Drive, Mount Prospect, has been named chairman of the construction industries in the business division section of the Chicago Heart Fund drive. His appointment was announced by Thomas F. Monahan, general chairman of the 1969 Heart Fund campaign.

Newgard, president of Henry Newgard & Company, received his engineering education at Purdue University and since then was employed by a large aircraft concern and served in the United States Navy. He assumed the presidency of Henry Newgard & Co. in 1961 after serving in various engineering and management positions since 1946.

The Business Division will contribute a major part of the 1969 Chicago Heart Fund goal of $1.5 million. Heart Fund dollars support the research, education and community service programs of the Chicago Heart Association and its five suburban divisions in West, South and North Cook, Lake and DuPage Counties.

MARINE SGT. Frank Van Waes of the United States Marine Corp recruiting office in Des Plaines, presents a certificate of appreciation to A. A. Yort, manager of the Golf-Mill Shopping Center. The presentation was made on behalf of the commanding officer of the Chicago area Marine recruiting station in recognition of Golf-Mill's service to the Marine Corps recruiting program.

Gieseke Retires

Edwin W. Gieseke, President of the Roselle State Bank since January, 1958, has announced his retirement as an active officer.

He has been associated with the bank in numerous capacities since he was hired the day after Christmas in 1922.

Commented Gieseke at his retirement dinner, "Each of those 46 years have been memorable ones." He went on to express his appreciation in working for and with such long-time area bankers as Herman H. Franzen, A. F. Pottratz, Walter Nerge, "Bill" Ernsting and his "boss," friend and baseball and golf opponent, Elmer H. Franzen, present chairman of the board at the Roselle Bank.

"Ed" Gieseke will continue to serve the Bank as an active director, member of the directors loan committee and chairman of the directors audit committee. He and his wife, Eleonora, intend to spend their retirement years traveling and enjoying their home at Lake Redstone in Wisconsin with their "three sons" plus eight grandsons.

FOLLOWING THE retirement of Gieseke, the board of directors elected Eugene C. Ernsting president and Erwin O. Elbert senior vice president of the bank.

Ernsting, originally from Bensenville, has been with the Roselle State Bank for 12 years following work with Arthur Andersen & Co. in Chicago and with the Itasca State Bank. He is a graduate of Lake Forest College, a Certified Public Accountant and attended John Marshall Law School. He is active in several banking associations and is past president of both the DuKane-DeKalb Chapter of the Bank Administration Institute and the DuPage County Bankers Federation.

In addition, for the past eight years he has lectured at the Graduate School of Banking in Madison, Wis., and is currently chairman of the Smaller Bank Commission and a member of the national board of directors of the Bank Administration Institute. He is also a director of the Roselle Farmers Lumber Co. and Medinah Country Club.

An avid golfer, Bear fan and gourmet cook, "Gene" and his wife, Joan, live in Roselle. Elbert is beginning his 22nd year with the bank. He is former secretary of the Roselle Chamber of Commerce and a past president of the DuPage County Bankers Federation. He is the local treasurer of the Salvation Army and an elder of the Trinity Lutheran Church. "Erwin" and his wife, Gertrude, also live in Roselle. Their two daughters, Carol and Beth, attend college.

Both Ernsting and Elbert were re-elected directors of the bank.

Anocut-Brown Merger Told

The proposed merger of Anocut Engineering Co., 2375 Estes Ave., Elk Grove Village, pioneer-developer of electrochemical machining (ECM), and Brown & Sharpe Manufacturing Co. of Providence, Rhode Island, America's oldest precision machine tool firm, has been completed, according to a joint announcement by Anocut president Lynn A. Williams and Henry Sharpe, president of Brown & Sharpe.

Brown & Sharpe is known for the manufacture of precision measuring equipment, machine tools and industrial hydraulics. Anocut Engineering Co. was founded in 1954 by Williams and has pioneered in the field of precision metal removal by electrochemical means. The process and equipment are widely used in the jet engine field and more recently has been applied to other metal working industries.

Lynn A. Williams, Anocut president, is the inventor of the basic process for ECM. He will continue as president.

Under the merger arrangement, through which Brown & Sharpe acquired all of the equity stock of Anocut, the management policies, personnel and location of Anocut will remain the same.

Flick-Reedy Again Wins Patriot Award

The Flick-Reedy Corp., Bensenville, has won a top award, again this year, in the annual competition of the Freedom's Foundation at Valley Forge for patriotic community service. The award came for Flick-Reedy's "Two Worlds Awards Program," an outline of ways and means for recognizing the individual achievement of persons promoting use of the company's basic "Two Worlds" educational program. The "Two Worlds" program is a filmstrip teaching system devised to bring about better understanding of the American way of life, as contrasted with life in totalitarian lands.

Announcement of the award came from Frank Flick, president of Flick-Reedy, under whose supervision the program was developed. The award was made in special ceremonies at Valley Forge, Pa. recently. "Two Worlds," itself, received a top Freedom's Foundation award in 1967. The program is operated by the educational division of Flick-Reedy Corp. It has been widely used by schools, service, civic, youth and industrial groups, since its inception several years ago.

Specifically, the "Two Worlds Awards Program" describes development of local plans to honor people who promote use of

"Two Worlds" as moderators, participants, readers, writers, speakers and "effective citizens."

Flick-Reedy, which is primarily a manufacturing firm, is located in Bensenville, adjacent to O'Hare International Airport. It is the world's largest manufacturer of machine tool grade air and hydraulic power cylinders.

ACCUSING FINGER of fate is pointed at three plotting coeds by Christopher Jones who has been deteriorating in an isolated attic for days in humble submission to their whims. The scene is from the daring campus comedy, "Three in the Attic" now playing at the Randhurst and Golf Theaters.

OBEZ ZWICK (Clarence Petersen) informs an awed Harold (Bob Farber) that Obee and his buddies have formed a cooperative called "Amalgamated Harold" to give him a crash course in culture to prepare him for entrance into proper society. Low Brindle (Jim Grainge), another member of "A.H.," looks on skeptically. The scene is from the comedy "Harold" to be presented in a dinner-play format by Masque and Staff for three weekends, beginning March 14, at Ehlen's Green Tree Inn in Bensenville. Reservations may be made by calling 437-8707 between 4 and 9 p.m.

M and S's 'Harold' Strictly for Fun

If a ghostly moan and a rustling of dusty shrouds is heard emanating from the lower level of the Green Tree Inn on the evening of Friday March 14, it will most probably be George Bernard Shaw turning over painfully in his grave.

The reason? On that Saturday evening, the Elk Grove Masque and Staff will open, for nine weekend performances, its dinner production of the comedy, "Harold," a flagrant — and strictly lowbrow — burlesque of Shaw's "Pygmalion."

"HAROLD," the seventh dinner-play presentation of the Elk Grove group, tells the strictly-for-laugh story of three bowling buddies in the Bronx who create a cooperative, dubbed "Amalgamated Harold," to mold the young brother of a deceased friend into the very image of a proper young gentleman so that he may win the hand of a socially prominent young lady.

Assisted by a mixed bag of experts in the cultural niceties, they "bring him along slowly" and carefully in preparation for the big night. Harold, alas, proves to be a reluctant student and a bitter disappointment to his Runyonesque teachers. The intervening dialogue and fast-moving action, however, provide some of the best belly laughs in many seasons, according to the M and S spokesman.

"HAROLD" will be presented on the evenings of March 14, 15, 16, 21, 22, 23, and 29 and 30. In the dinner-play format, guests are served a full-course dinner, and then remain at their tables for the play, which is performed on a platform stage.

Admission is by reservation only. Reservations may be made by calling 437-8707 between 4 and 9 p.m. Saturday evening performances, because of heavy demand, are restricted to patrons and their guests.

The buffet dinner is served from 7 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays, and from 6 p.m. on Sundays.

The Army Reserve consists of more than one million officers and enlisted men and women, all dedicated to the highest principles of military service.

Around the Corner

Feel Those Spring Breezes!

Bringing spring fever a little closer is the Shady Lane Playhouse announcement of its summer season run. The Playhouse, located in Marengo, will remain open from April 24 to Nov. 9.

Plays under consideration include "Star Spangled Girl," "Black Comedy," "The Best Laid Plans," "Come Live with Me," "There's a Girl in My Soup," "U.T.B.U.," "Everybody Loves Opal," and "What Did We Do Wrong?"

TONIGHT (Friday) the college of DuPage will present the Sophia Loren-Marcello Mastroianni comedy, "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow." The film will be shown at the Maryknoll College Auditorium, Route 53 in Glen Ellyn beginning at 8 p.m.

THE COLORFUL repub-

lies of Central America are toured in "Seven Borders South," a film produced and narrated by Frank Klicar. The program, sixth of the Maine East Community Lecture Series, will be presented at 8 p.m. Wednesday, March 12 in the Auditorium of Maine East, Dempster and Potter, Park Ridge. Tickets will be available at the door. Further information may be obtained by calling 299-7187.

'The Flying Dutchman' Operalogue Presented

A stormy voyage across the North Sea is said to have inspired Wagner to write an opera based on the legend of the phantom ship entitled "The Flying Dutchman." An operalogue of the Richard Wagner work will be presented Wednesday, March 12 at 1 p.m. by the Northwest Chapter of the Lyric Opera Guild. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Carleton Heiberger, 710 S. Beverly Lane, Arlington Heights.

Narrating will be Mrs. Roy E. Schwetman, of Inverness, a free lance writer, book reviewer, public speaker and TV writer. Soprano, Mrs. R. H. Nelson, also of Inverness, will sing the role of Senta. She presented the recent operalogue of "Manon Lescaut."

Miss Mariam Stieger of Barrington will return as accompanist.

Between Shows Activities
Of Area Community Theatres

Music enthusiasts in Wheeling and its neighboring communities have one week left to partake of the advantages of a residential concert association.

The Community Concert Association of Wheeling will continue its second annual membership campaign through Friday, March 14. Membership entitles one to the privilege of regular attendance at star attractions of the hour's drive into the city, where such events usually take place.

For example, highlights of the Wheeling Concert series for the coming season include the Clebanoff Strings and the Don Shirley trio. Two additional concerts will be announced at a later date.

COMMENTED Marjorie Beu, publicity chairman for the Association, "Memberships are coming in well, showing clearly that the Wheeling community is cognizant of the worth of these fine concerts to the cultural advantage of the area."

Membership and further information may be obtained from Miss Beu, at 537-8270, or from Judy Snow, at 537-2940.

WHAT TEENAGER'S day at the beach would be complete without a horn-blowing Lothario? Cristina Ferrare is beginning to wonder if there isn't too much noise attached to swain Rich Chalet in "The Impossible Years" now at the Arlington Theatre. The MGM screen version also stars David Niven, Lola Albright, Chad Everett and Ozzie Nelson.

Pianist-Teacher Gives Lecture-Demonstrations

Adele Marcus, pianist, teacher, and lecturer of the Juilliard and Aspen Schools of Music, is being presented Monday and Tuesday, March 17 and 18 in two days of Master Classes and Lecture-Demonstrations by the American Conservatory of Music in Curtiss Hall of the Fine Arts Building, 410 S. Michigan, Chicago. The classes are open to the public and are especially for piano teachers and students. A fee is charged.

On Monday morning Miss Marcus will discuss "The Mechanics of Technique" and use the Brahms - Paganini variations and Schumann's Symphonic Etudes as illustrations. On Tuesday morning she will perform Chopin's Sonata in B Minor and contrast it with Beethoven's Sonata in F sharp, op. 78 in her lecture entitled "Musicianship as a Basis of Interpretation." These lectures begin at 10 a.m.

On Monday and Tuesday afternoons students from the Conservatory and Moody Bible In-

4-VILLAGE SEWER SYSTEM STUDIED

Village attorneys and engineers from Roselle, Bloomingdale, Addison and Glendale Heights will meet to decide legal, financial and engineering feasibility of a "quad-village authority" for a sanitary system to service the four municipalities.

Village presidents, administrators, trustees, engineers, and lawyers met Wednesday night in Addison's Municipal Building to kick-off the formation of a sanitary district or authority.

IT WAS AGREED that village attorneys and engineers would report back to the steering committee of village presidents on March 20 at 8 p.m. in the Roselle Village Hall.

Attorneys will research legal aspects and restrictions of a sanitary district or authority and how the project can be financed.

Engineers will estimate the type of work and capacity needed and come up with a "ballpark" cost figure. The figure would probably be a minimum-maximum estimate.

The four villages sought delay of the county's plans to hold a countywide sewer referendum in April. The state legislature put a crimp in the plan.

The vote cannot be taken until at least mid-summer.

THE FOUR villages want to keep the power of sanitary service in their combined areas as a lever of annexation.

A sanitary district under law would have to service anyone within the district.

The county plan also would take away the lever.

The alternative is to form a sanitary authority as the villages want. This would limit service to selected persons and developers to encourage their annexation into a village.

Village presidents and engineers agreed the county plan was a good one, but not compatible with expansion needs.

However at a later date the sanitary authority and facilities created by it could join a countywide plan, the representatives agreed.

"WE JOINED in the effort even though we have present expansion room for 2,000 more in our sewer plant," Roselle Village Pres. Robert Frantz said.

"We would ultimately benefit from this venture," Bloomingdale Village Pres. Stanley Haverkamp and Glendale Heights Village Pres. William Keating said their villages were in need of treatment facilities.

"We are the most needy of the four villages here," Haverkamp said.

Keating said his village is proceeding with plans to double its one-million-gallon plant and is not waiting for the four-village system.

The system would run from Roselle to Glendale Heights where a treatment plant would be built.

DURING DISCUSSION of a group name, Roselle Trustee Betty Lou Mann suggested "GRAB," representing the first letters of the four villages.

Frantz joked perhaps it should be "BRAG."

"You can't brag about our sewers," Mrs. Mann retorted.

The steering committee is subject to approval by all the village boards.

Addison Village Pres. Harold Warthen was named chairman of the committee.

More Juvenile 'Rights' Coming

"The time is coming when juveniles will have more legal rights than adults," Thomas Benda, DuPage County public defender's office, said Wednesday.

"They will get the same rights to jury trial and police questioning only in the presence of their attorney soon," he said.

"They deserve as much and more legal rights to protect them in the legal process of arrest and courts as adults."

Benda is a public defender assigned to juvenile court cases in DuPage County. He spoke to the Illinois Welfare Association Dist. 2 meeting, at St. Andrew's Country Club, near West Chicago.

COURT DECISIONS in 1966 set up the procedure for having a public defender for juveniles, he said.

This was not done previously, he added.

"The probation departments, police and courts will have to stop and think more in the future on what is the proper way to handle a juvenile case," he said.

"It will be harder to get at a kid and take him away from his home," he said, "to place him in a better situation, even though it would benefit the child."

There will have to be a combined push on state legislatures to get more money and more foster and detention homes, he said.

The effort to help the repeating offender with state aid must be made, he added.

"WE IN THE public defender's office try not to win the case and lose the child," he said. "In other words, get a kid off on a technicality when some court control may do him more good."

"We protect the rights of the child, but also try to help him find his way back into society."

Benda referred to county detention homes as a place for helping youths in trouble.

The DuPage County Board of Supervisors is expected to review plans for a county detention home in the next two weeks.

Tentative groundbreaking for the home is set at Sept. 1 this year.

"There is no such thing as no detention home experience; either it's bad or good, not neutral," Marlan Tevis, superintendent of the Kane County youth home, said at the meeting.

"TIME SPENT in the detention home, no matter if three days or three months, will either hinder or help the youthful offender."

Illinois municipalities must hang their heads in shame for the lack of juvenile facilities in this state," he said. There are nine communities which have homes for juveniles, he said, and fewer than that have recognized programs of rehabilitation.

Last year, 400,000 juveniles were confined by authorities, he said.

Of this, 90,000 stayed in jails of which only 20 per cent were considered adequately equipped or kept, he added.

The average cost to taxpayers for each 45-year-old man involved in a life of crime is $125,000, he said.

"It is cheaper to help and

Teacher Pay About Same in Diocese

Elementary and secondary lay teachers in the Joliet Diocese will continue on much the same salary schedule next year as they had during the current school year.

Beginning teachers with a bachelor's degree will start at $6,000 as they had last year, while beginners with a master's degree will start with $6,600 —

a $100 raise over last year's base.

The revised salary schedule, effective next September, was announced after a recent special meeting of the board of education.

LAY TEACHERS in the Chicago diocese will start with the same beginning salary schedule, but are guaranteed at least a 7 per cent increase beginning in September, 1970.

According to a release from the Joliet Catholic Schools Office, the newly adopted schedule is built on an index-ratio basis to provide incentive to the teachers for undertaking advanced study.

While the difference between the beginning for bachelor's and master's degrees is a "relatively modest" 10 per cent, the size of the differential increases each year, the release said.

By the tenth year, when the teacher with a bachelor's degree is making 138 per cent of the base salary, the teacher with the master's degree is making 160 per cent and the teacher with a master's degree plus 30 hours is making 183 per cent.

THE HIGHEST salary permissible on the schedule is $10,980 for a teacher with a master's degree plus 30 hours on the tenth step.

The schedule will be reviewed again next year.

"We would love to be able to raise the base at that time," Supt. Fr. Niles Gillen said, "and, hopefully, some form of outside aid will enable us to do just that."

Tree Planting Plan Pondered

Itasca property owners may be asked for comments by village officials concerning a tree planting program on a 50-50 sharing basis.

Such a proposal was offered by Trustee Roy Johnson this week during the regular meeting of the village board.

Itasca has lost some 250 diseased trees the past few years and an additional 38 trees are being cut down in the village at the present time, according to Johnson.

JOHNSON presented his plan to sound out board members, explaining that such a replacement program could offset the loss of trees in the village.

"If the people would be receptive to sharing the cost of replanting the new trees, it might be well for the board to consider implementing such a program," he said.

Itasca has a master tree-planting plan prepared by John DeKamp, village forester.

The plan throughout the village suggests 25 different tree varieties which could assist property owners in the type of program suggested by Johnson.

Average $827 Pay Hike for Teachers

Lake Park High School teachers will receive an average $827 raise in their salaries next year, according to a plan approved by the board of education in a closed executive session Wednesday night.

Since the action was taken in closed session, it was in direct violation of the Illinois Open Meetings Law.

The salary raises will mean an additional $53,375 adjustment in the education fund budget for 1969-70. Along with other salary and cost adjustments, the additional expenses of the fund will total $154,075.

The plan also included increases in hourly wages for behind-the-wheel driver education from $4.50 to $5, an increase in summer school wages from $6 to $6.75, and increases in extra duty contracts.

Under the district's innovative responsibility-salary program, teachers are placed in one of five groups ranging in responsibility from being a member of a teaching team to a high position of curriculum planning and direction.

SALARIES IN group one, those teachers of highest responsibility, go up to a maximum base salary of $12,000 with a maximum differentiated responsibility increment of $3,000.

Group two salaries could go up to a maximum of $11,500 with a maximum differentiated responsibility increment of $2,000 while group three salaries could go up to a maximum of $11,000 with a maximum differentiated responsibility increment of $1,000.

Group four salaries could go up to a maximum of $10,000 and group five up to a maximum of $9,000. There are no maximum differentiated responsibility increments for these two lowest responsibility groups.

These, however, are maximum salaries a teacher could reach for the responsibility he carries. They do not indicate the lowest a teacher could earn in the district.

SUPT. CARL Forrester said he hoped the 15 to 20 new teacher replacements for next year could be hired for $6,900 to $7,000.

Predicting the competitive salaries ranging from $7,000 to $7,500, Forrester said, "We'll have to sell them (prospective teachers) on everything about Lake Park but money."

Lake Park teachers receiving a differentiated responsibility increment as well as the base pay will be hired under two contracts rather than the conventional single contract.

Seventy-five per cent of any increase in pay will be written in under a differentiated contract with 25 per cent under the regular base salary contract.

This is done to protect the district against the teacher who cannot live up to the increased responsibility.

Under law the base salary cannot be reduced, but the differentiated salary written under a separate contract could be rescinded if the promotion does not work out.

ASKED HOW the program in its first year is shaping up, Forrester said the "best evidence is the enthusiasm of the faculty for the system."

Teacher evaluation begins with the "number threes," typically team teachers, is processed through "number twos" under the leadership of teachers in group one.

The evaluations are given to administrative assistants Dr. Eugene Swierczewski and Stanley Wheeler who add their evaluations and turn the whole package over to Forrester who serves as moderator or arbiter if necessary.

He will then make a decision on final recommendations to the board and "plug these people into a dollar amount according to criteria," Forrester said.

BIDS SCHEDULED ON YORK RD. WORK

Bids are expected to be let this spring for the widening of York Road from Memorial Road south to Interstate 90, a 2.7-mile stretch from Bensenville to north Elmhurst.

Construction is scheduled to begin during the summer months and last for about four months, according to Ronald A. Dold, DuPage County superintendent of highways.

The $1.3-million project represents a joint effort by the village, county, state, and federal government.

THE PROJECT includes widening of the two-lane highway to four 12-foot lanes, a four-foot wide, 1½-inch-high rumble strip, curbs, gutters, and storm sewers.

In addition there will be a raised barrier for channel and left turn lanes at York Road and Grand Avenue.

A traffic control signal will be installed at York and Memorial,

Dold said, replacing the present manually operated school crossing signal near Chippewa School.

Dold said the engineering plans for the project are being completed by the state highway department in Elgin.

He added that negotiations are still under way for obtaining the right-of-way.

"Seventy-seven per cent of the right-of-way has been obtained," Dold said.

County officials are seeking a right-of-way of from 80 to 100 feet.

NORTH OF Memorial, York is not scheduled to be widened. However, improvements are under consideration by village officials, if financial help from the county and state can be obtained.

Mrs. Mildred Richter, village trustee, said this is the only way the roadway could be improved this year.

Mrs. Richter said York Road should be improved north of Memorial and that she would like to see it done at the same time it is being widened south of Memorial.

It is a "top priority" item, she said, but the village does not have the funds to finance the project by itself.

Last March 21 the village board approved by a 5-to-1 vote an agreement with the county calling for the widening of York south of Memorial.

The board opposed the widening of York Road north of Memorial because residents objected to having trees and parkways removed with the roadway coming closer to their homes.

COUNTY AND state highway officials insisted that a median strip accompany any widening project. This was necessary if federal and state funds were to be obtained.

The Bensenville board disapproved of the median strip and thus relinquished the prospect of obtaining federal and state aid for widening York.

Now, according to Mrs. Richter, aid may be sought for the improvement of York, but not for its widening.

According to a release from the Joliet Catholic Schools Office, the newly adopted schedule is built on an index-ratio basis to provide incentive to the teachers for undertaking advanced study.

While the difference between the beginning for bachelor's and master's degrees is a "relatively modest" 10 per cent, the size of the differential increases each year, the release said.

By the tenth year, when the teacher with a bachelor's degree is making 138 per cent of the base salary, the teacher with the master's degree is making 160 per cent and the teacher with a master's degree plus 30 hours is making 183 per cent.

THE HIGHEST salary permissible on the schedule is $10,900 for a teacher with a master's degree plus 30 hours on the tenth step.

The schedule will be reviewed again next year.

"We would love to be able to raise the base at that time," Supt. Fr. Nales Gillen said, "and, hopefully, some form of outside aid will enable us to do just that."

Tree Planting Plan Pondered

Itasca property owners may be asked for comments by village officials concerning a tree planting program on a 50-50 sharing basis.

Such a proposal was offered by Trustee Roy Johnson this week during the regular meeting of the village board.

Itasca has lost some 250 diseased trees the past few years and an additional 38 trees are being cut down in the village at the present time, according to Johnson.

JOHNSON presented his plan to sound out board members, explaining that such a replacement program could offset the loss of trees in the village.

"If the people would be receptive to sharing the cost of replanting the new trees, it might be well for the board to consider implementing such a program," he said.

Itasca has a master tree-planting plan prepared by John DeKamp, village forester.

The plan throughout the village suggests 25 different tree varieties which could assist property owners in the type of program suggested by Johnson.

18 Protest R-4 Zoning

Eighteen residents on Diana Court in Bensenville are protesting R-4 (multiple-family) zoning and annexation of 4.9 acres to the village.

The homeowners are objecting to apartment buildings located near their single-family dwellings north of Diana Court and near Addison creek.

Bensenville builder Ralph Cantrell has sought zoning and annexation of the unincorporated tract south of George Street.

A PUBLIC hearing was held Jan. 24 before the zoning board of appeals. As yet no recommendation has been made to the village board.

The zoning board is allowed 90 days to make a decision.

A letter of protest to Eugene Sullivan, chairman of the zoning board, states:

"Not being aware that public hearings were being held on this matter, we therefore wish to go on record at this time that we are opposed to any zoning other than single-family dwellings in our neighborhood."

"One of the motivating factors in our decision to build our homes in this area was the 'single-family' pattern that existed."

"Any multiple dwelling construction would certainly substantially alter the residential nature of our neighborhood. We further feel a corresponding reduction in our property values would occur."

Several of the residents met last Saturday with village officials to discuss sewer problems, land filling operations in Brentwood East (being constructed by Cantrell) and the section north of Diana Court, south of George Street.

Code Bans Use Of Chemicals

An ordinance prohibiting the spraying or the application of chemicals on village property was approved Tuesday by the Itasca Village Board.

Restrictions set forth in the code are directed principally to persons or firms where they have sprayed or applied chemicals to and on village owned streets, shrubs, and vegetation, without prior authority from the village.

According to the provisions of the ordinance, the preventive measures called for prohibiting "double spraying," to offset possible injury to trees and shrubs, including wildlife.

HOWEVER, permission may be requested of the village for spraying and application of chemicals by individuals or firms on village property. The board of trustees may then act on the request for possible approval.

Requests to the village board must contain statements concerning the area and place, the chemical to be used and in what proportion.

Other information to be provided would explain the type and manner of application or spraying, who will conduct the operation, and the proposed date of the operation.

Violators of the ordinance are subject to a fine of not less than $25 or more than $100.

IN PRESENTING the ordinance to board members, Trustee Roy Johnson said the village will continue to spray trees "but not committed to what chemical the village will use."

Johnson's comment reflected a recent plea by Itasca resident Watson Tucker for the village to ban the use of DDT as a pesticide in spraying diseased elms in the village.

Bank, Village in Embezzlement Debate

A mud-slinging legalistic debate has erupted between Bensenville and a Chicago bank in the village's efforts to recover funds embezzled by former village treasurer Harold Keeling.

Accusations of "incompetence" have been hurled by both sides in the civil suit which grows more complicated each time it hits the courtroom. The suit filed in November, 1966, now has been taken off the March jury trial calendar by Circuit Judge Bert Rathje and is rescheduled tentatively for May.

Additional delays, however, are expected as Bensenville attempts to recover the full amount of $89,094.70 it alleges was taken by Keeling between 1961 and 1965.

KEELING, now 61, of 318 McLean St., Bensenville, was convicted in October, 1966, of embezzling $31,741.55 in village funds in 1964-65.

He served two years of a one-to-five year sentence at Illinois State Penitentiary in Joliet.

He was paroled last Nov. 24 and currently is reported to be working at an auto agency in LaGrange Park.

Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, from whom Bensenville is seeking to recover the $31,741.55 which Keeling pleaded guilty to embezzling, is attempting to prove in court that "incompetency" in the Bensenville Village Hall enabled Keeling "to carry out his fraud and forgery."

This charge was made last Nov. 13 in answer to a Nov. 12 charge by Bensenville's attorneys that Harris Bank was guilty of "shocking abandonment of elementary care in the preservation of public funds."

Harris is represented by the Chicago law firm of Chapman and Cutler.

BENSENVILLE's attorneys also charged that Harris Bank "was guilty of willful and wanton misconduct in paying any one of the three checks in question."

The three checks in question were state sales tax receipts that Keeling, as village treasurer, deposited in a Waterworks and Sewerage System Bond Construction Fund at Harris.

Using checks from the rear of the village checkbook, Keeling then withdrew similar amounts from Harris and deposited the checks in his personal or business accounts at the First National Bank of Elgin.

The transactions for which Bensenville is attempting to hold Harris Bank liable took place on the following dates:

—ON MAY 1, 1964, Keeling

deposited a check for $7,632.84 at Harris and on May 21, 1964, withdrew the same amount from Harris and deposited it in Elgin.

—On April 30, 1965, Keeling deposited a check for $12,855.78 at Harris and on May 6, 1965, withdrew the same amount from Harris and deposited it in Elgin.

—On Aug. 15, 1965, Keeling deposited a check for $11,252.95 at Harris and on Aug. 24, 1965, withdrew the same amount from Harris and deposited it in Elgin.

In the Nov. 12 brief filed by Bensenville's attorneys in the case, Francis Riley of the Chicago firm of Adamowski, Newey and Riley, and William Redmond, village attorney, Bensenville "denies that it did not at all times exercise due care" in the handling of village finances.

Riley and Redmond charged, instead, that Harris should never have made the construction bond fund, "a limited and special account," available to Keeling as village treasurer.

THE BANK retorted that the village never gave Harris notice of any limitations or special conditions with respect to the account. It was a general checking account, the bank

Bensenville attorneys then asserted that Harris Bank had been "alerted to the fact that one check was a blatant (alleged) forgery and yet was paid."

The bank replied that when Harris officials asked Village Clerk Herbert Dierking whether he had signed check number 395, Dierking said he would have Keeling call Harris to tell the bank whether the check should be paid.

"The Village of Bensenville," the bank accused, "acting through its agent and village clerk Herbert Dierking, thus misled the Harris Bank into believing that the signature of Herbert Dierking on check number 395 was authorized and made it possible for Harold F. Keeling to carry out his fraud and (alleged) forgery."

BENSENVILLE further charged that Harris asked "the very person who committed the (alleged) forgery to confirm the signatures on the check by a form which invited a repeated (alleged) forgery."

To this Harris replied curtly that a letter sent to the village requesting Dierking to confirm his signature on the check was delivered by village employees not to Dierking but to Keeling, who allegedly forged Dierking's signature of confirmation.

Harris virtually ignored a final accusation by Bensenville that the bank paid a check without a sufficient number of signatures on it. The check was signed by Keeling, who allegedly forged Dierking's signature.

WHEN KEELING, represented by Alfred Woodward of Wheaton, pleaded guilty in September, 1966 to three counts each of grand theft and official misconduct, six counts of forgery were dropped by prosecution.

Juvenile Detention Probed

Teachers in north Elmhurst recently voted to investigate what the DuPage County board has done toward building and administering a juvenile detention home.

DuPage County has no facilities for juveniles and is forced to use the facilities of other counties or the DuPage County jail.

Val Beck, a teacher, told members of Churchville Elementary School Dist. 3's education association that many children in legal trouble are held in the county jail at Wheaton until time of their court hearings, possibly several weeks.

TEACHERS expressed objections to having young teenagers confined in the same area with adult inmates for long periods of time. They called it a "deplorable situation."

The DuPage County board recently indicated that juvenile detention facilities will be constructed near Wheaton. Ground-breaking is tentatively scheduled for Sept. 1.

Parks Work At Spreading Word on Vote

Roselle Park District is continuing its month-long effort to meet with civic organizations to explain details of a referendum slated for a vote March 28.

The park board will meet with the Roselle Taxpayers League March 14, Roselle Methodist Women's Society March 19 and American Legion Women's Auxiliary March 18.

THE BOARD will also meet with the Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon on March 18.

"Any group that would like a personal presentation can call the park district office," Paul Derda, park director, said.

The ballots for the regular park district elections and the special $400,000 referendum are being printed separately.

The vote, if passed, would allow extensive improvements at two parks including construction of a swimming pool.

Officer Sample Suspended Again

Wood Dale Patrolman Robert Sample, 27, was suspended from the force for five days beginning Saturday by Police Chief Jack McGann.

McGann said Sgt. Edward Windle allegedly found Sample sleeping Feb. 27 at 5:30 a.m. while in a squad car on Irving Park Road near Wood Dale Road.

McGann said Sample denies the charge. Last fall Sample was suspended 30 days for allegedly sleeping on duty.

Wood Dale Beat

Safety Facts On Sidewalks

by SYD JAMIESON

The Wood Dale Council recently was criticized by irate residents for proposing a sidewalk tax program geared to combating hazardous walking conditions on main arterial streets.

The council proposed that sidewalks be put in sections off Addison Road, Wood Dale Road, Irving Park Road, and Commercial Street.

Criticism was not against the intent behind the proposed project, but against the fact that only certain streets were designated for sidewalks.

The council was advised to shelve the widening project for Wood Dale and Irving Park roads in favor of sidewalk construction throughout the entire village.

IN ALL FAIRNESS to the council, the sidewalk tax program was a step to alleviate past criticism for the lack of sidewalks and the dangers school children have by walking along roadways.

When talking about sidewalks, safety statistics should be used in making any judgments.

Jack McGann, police chief, reported that in 1965 there were 138 traffic accidents in Wood Dale. Out of this total, one 16-year-old was injured at 157 N. Addison Road.

In 1966, out of 176 accidents, there were seven children injured, and a 64-year-old pedestrian. Of the seven injured children, two were riding bicycles. One ran against a traffic light at Wood Dale and Irving Park and another 5-year-old riding a bike was hit at Wood Dale and Montrose Avenue.

A 14-year-old student was also hit that same year while riding a bicycle on Addison Road south of Gilbert Drive; a 13-year-old was injured by a hit and run driver on Commercial and Oak streets, and in the 300 block of Hemlock Avenue another teenager ran into the path of a motor vehicle.

POLICE RECORDS show there were three injured children, all 10 years of age, who were riding bicycles in 1967.

Again in 1968 three more children were added to the list of traffic accidents by Wood Dale police. These included a 6-year-old crossing Irving Park at Catalpa Ave. who was catching a school bus.

In Roy Oaks subdivision, which does not have sidewalks, a girl was struck by a passing motorist. That same year a 13-year-old girl was hit by a passing vehicle on Walnut Ave. and Commercial while walking with her back turned to traffic.

For this four-year-period, out of 711 traffic accidents reported by police, 14 children were injured. Fortunately none were fatalities.

As for the first two months of 1969, police records reveal 43 accidents to date with one being listed for a 10-year-old girl. She was injured by a motorist while crossing Wood Dale and Division Street.

The proposed sidewalk tax program offered by the village council at least is a start to alleviate a pressing problem. Undoubtedly the council has hopes in the future for a complete sidewalk program.

AT THE SAME TIME it is bugged continually for help in stemming the perennial traffic bottleneck for motorists at the intersection of Wood Dale and Irving Park.

You can't do everything in a day and both the sidewalk and the widening projects are recognized as priority items.

Each in its own way requires a considerable outlay of village funds, recognizing that the widening program will be financed predominantly in the beginning from motor fuel tax funds (MFT). It is true that Mr. taxpayer will have to foot part of the cost for the sidewalk project — on his own or under a sidewalk tax.

The fact that residents indicated they had no objection to a 50-50 share of the cost for a community-wide sidewalk project is in itself commendable.

BUT WHERE DO you draw the line?

Like Comr. Dino Janis commented at a recent council meeting when confronted by a packed house of property owners — "The only time we have an audience like this is when something happens that affects the residents. Then it's damned if we do and damned if we don't."

Third Party Files Complaint

Attorneys for Harold Keeling, former village treasurer, have until March 20 to file an answer or otherwise respond to a Third Party Complaint filed Feb. 29 in Bensenville's suit to recover embezzled village funds.

The Third Party Complaint was filed by Amberg and Lahr attorneys for Fidelity and Casualty Co. of New York, bonding company who held an insurance bond on Keeling when he served as village treasurer.

Bensenville filed suit in November 1966 to recover $88,094.70 from Keeling, from village auditors Raymond Blunt and Associates of Chicago for failing to detect errors in village bookkeeping, and from Fidelity as a legitimate insurance claim.

The village also seeks another $15,000 from Fidelity, representing the amount paid by the village to bond Keeling.

HARRIS TRUST and Savings Bank of Chicago is sued in the same action for $31,741.55, the sum Keeling admitted embezzling from the village prior to his October 1966 conviction and prison sentence.

The bank is charged with permitting Keeling to make improper withdrawals from a village checking account.

The Blunt auditing firm, which has served Bensenville since 1947, reportedly was hired originally on the recommendation of then newly-elected Village Clerk Herbert Dierking.

Fidelity claims in its Third Party Complaint that Keeling was "guilty of fraudulent and dishonest acts as the consequences of which (the bonding firm) is liable to the plaintiff (Bensenville)."

Fidelity further alleges that Keeling should be liable for all claims of the plaintiff, and asks that, if Bensenville wins a judgment against Keeling, Fidelity wants to be granted the same judgment.

'Suspicious Auto' Leads to Arrests

Two burglary suspects were arrested early Wednesday morning following an initial complaint of a suspicious auto in Elk Grove Village.

Investigating village police apprehended Tony Garcia, alias

Corky Ely, and Mario Cichocki, alias Frank Diamond. Both list several Chicago residences.

Initially charged with possession of burglary tools, the investigation by officers Ray Marnece, William Kohnke and Jon Scharpenter soon led to the discovery that Garcia was wanted in connection with an October burglary in the village, and Cichocki was identified as his alleged accomplice.

Garcia, under indictment for the Oct. 12 burglary of the Hi-Low Food Store, Elk Grove Village, was sent to Cook County Jail after he was unable to post $20,000 bond.

CICHOCKI could not make bond of $25,000, has been charged with burglary, and is also confined in Cook County Jail.

Investigation of the matter is continuing.

The pair were found parked on Devon Avenue about 200 feet

west of Ridge at 2:30 Wednesday morning, and when police asked what they were doing became evasive, police said.

Further investigation revealed a variety of burglary tools in the car, registered to Frank Diamond, as well as $22.50 in small coins and Armored Express Corp. coin wrappers, police said.

They were arrested, and further investigation led to the discovery that Garcia had jumped bail and was under indictment for burglary by the Cook County Grand Jury, according to police.

LATER, CICHOCKI was identified as the man who escaped when police captured Garcia after the October burglary in Elk Grove.

Both have previous arrest records, and Cichocki had served three years in prison for the attempted murder of a Chicago policeman.

Four-Village Authority For Sewer System Studied

Village attorneys and engineers from Roselle, Bloomingdale, Addison and Glendale Heights will meet to decide legal, financial and engineering feasibility of a "quasi-village authority" for a sanitary system to service the four municipalities.

Village presidents, administrators, trustees, engineers, and lawyers met Wednesday night in Addison's Municipal Building to kick off the formation of a sanitary district or authority.

IT WAS AGREED that village attorneys and engineers would report back to the steering committee of village presidents on March 20 at 8 p.m. in the Roselle Village Hall.

Attorneys will research legal aspects and restrictions of a sanitary district or authority and how the project can be financed.

Engineers will estimate the type of work and capacity needed and come up with a "ballpark" cost figure. The figure would probably be a minimum-maximum estimate.

The four villages sought delay of the county's plans to hold a countywide sewer referendum in April. The state legislature put a crimp in the plan.

The vote cannot be taken until at least mid-summer.

THE FOUR villages want to keep the power of sanitary service in their combined areas as a lever of annexation.

A sanitary district under law would have to service anyone within the district.

The county plan also would take away the lever.

The alternative is to form a sanitary authority as the villages want. This would limit service to selected persons and developers to encourage their annexation into a village.

Village presidents and engineers agreed the county plan was a good one, but not compatible with expansion needs.

However at a later date the sanitary authority and facilities created by it could join a countywide plan, the representatives agreed.

"WE JOINED in the effort even though we have present expansion room for 2,000 more in our sewer plant," Roselle Village Pres. Robert Frantz said.

"We would ultimately benefit from this venture."

Bloomingdale Village Pres. Stanley Haverkamp and Glendale Heights Village Pres. William Keating said their villages were in need of treatment facilities.

"We are the most needy of the four villages here," Haverkamp said.

Keating said his village is proceeding with plans to double its one-million-gallon plant and is not waiting for the four-village system.

The system would run from Roselle to Glendale Heights where a treatment plant would be built.

DURING DISCUSSION of a group name, Roselle Trustee Betty Lou Mann suggested "GRAB," representing the first letters of the four villages.

Frantz joked perhaps it should be "BRAG."

"You can't brag about our sewers," Mrs. Mann retorted. The steering committee is subject to approval by all the village boards.

Addison Village Pres. Harry Warthen was named chairman of the committee.

EXAMINING iguana for parasites is Dr. Joseph Kunzer of Addison. The lizard will be one of several exotic pets including a young lioness on display at Sunday's open house at the animal hospital in Bensenville.

A POLICE DOG attacks Tony Selch, of 424 S. Marion, Bensenville, as if he is a burglar or thief trying to make a get-away. Demonstration in the effective use of dogs in police work will be given Sunday at an open house at the Bensenville Animal Hospital, 1032 W. Irving Park Road.

BIDS SCHEDULED ON YORK RD. WORK

Bids are expected to be let this spring for the widening of York Road from Memorial Road south to Interstate 90, a 2.7-mile stretch from Bensenville to north Elmhurst.

Construction is scheduled to begin during the summer months and last for about four months, according to Ronald A. Dold, DuPage County superintendent of highways.

The $1.3-million project represents a joint effort by the village, county, state, and federal government.

THE PROJECT includes widening of the two-lane highway to four 12-foot lanes, a four-foot wide, 1½-inch-high rumble strip, curbs, gutters, and storm sewers.

In addition there will be a raised barrier for channel and left turn lanes at York Road and Grand Avenue.

A traffic control signal will be installed at York and Memorial, right-of-way of from 80 to 100 feet.

NORTH OF Memorial, York is not scheduled to be widened. However, improvements are under consideration by village officials, if financial help from the county and state can be obtained.

Mrs. Mildred Richter, village trustee, said this is the only way the roadway could be improved this year.

Mrs. Richter said York Road should be improved north of Memorial and that she would like to see it done at the same time it is being widened south of Memorial.

It is a "top priority" item, she said, but the village does not have the funds to finance the project by itself.

Last March 21 the village board approved by a 5-to-1 vote an agreement with the county calling for the widening of York south of Memorial.

The board opposed the widening of York Road north of Memorial because residents objected to having trees and parkways removed with the roadway coming closer to their homes.

COUNTY AND state highway officials insisted that a median strip accompany any widening project. This was necessary if federal and state funds were to be obtained.

The Bensenville board disapproved of the median strip and thus relinquished the prospect of obtaining federal and state aid for widening York.

Now, according to Mrs. Richter, aid may be sought for the improvement of York, but not for its widening.

More Juvenile 'Rights' Coming

"The time is coming when juveniles will have more legal rights than adults," Thomas Benda, DuPage County public defender's office, said Wednesday.

"They will get the same rights to jury trial and police questioning only in the presence of their attorney soon," he said.

"They deserve as much and more legal rights to protect them in the legal process of arrest and courts as adults."

Benda is a public defender assigned to juvenile court cases in DuPage County. He spoke to the Illinois Welfare Association Dist. 2 meeting, at St. Andrew's Country Club, near West Chicago.

COURT DECISIONS in 1966 set up the procedure for having a public defender for juveniles, he said.

This was not done previously, he added.

"The probation departments, police and courts will have to stop and think more in the future on what is the proper way to handle a juvenile case," he said.

"It will be harder to get at a kid and take him away from his home," he said, "to place him in a better situation, even though it would benefit the child."

There will have to be a combined push on state legislatures to get more money and more foster and detention homes, he said.

The effort to help the repeating offender with state aid must be made, he added.

"WE IN THE public defender's office try not to win the case and lose the child," he said. "In other words, get a kid off on a technicality when some court control may do him more good."

"We protect the rights of the child, but also try to help him find his way back into society."

Benda referred to county detention homes as a place for helping youths in trouble.

The DuPage County Board of Supervisors is expected to review plans for a county detention home in the next two weeks.

Tentative groundbreaking for the home is set at Sept. 1 this year.

"There is no such thing as no detention home experience; either it's bad or good, not neutral," Marian Tevis, superintendent of the Kane County youth home, said at the meeting.

"TIME SPENT in the detention home, no matter if three days or three months, will either hinder or help the youthful offender."

"Illinois municipalities must hang their heads in shame for the lack of juvenile facilities in this state," he said. There are nine communities which have homes for juveniles, he said, and fewer than that have recognized programs of rehabilitation.

Last year, 400,000 juveniles were confined by authorities, he said.

Of this, 90,000 stayed in jails of which only 20 per cent were considered adequately equipped or kept, he added.

The average cost to taxpayers for each 45-year-old man involved in a life of crime is $125,000, he said.

"It is cheaper to help and

18 Protest R-4 Zoning

Eighteen residents on Diana Court in Bensenville are protesting R-4 (multiple-family) zoning and annexation of 4.9 acres to the village.

The homeowners are objecting to apartment buildings located near their single-family dwellings north of Diana Court and near Addison creek.

Bensenville builder Ralph Cantrell has sought zoning and annexation of the unincorporated tract south of George Street.

A PUBLIC hearing was held Jan. 24 before the zoning board of appeals. As yet no recommendation has been made to the village board.

The zoning board is allowed 90 days to make a decision.

A letter of protest to Eugene Sullivan, chairman of the zoning board, states:

"Not being aware that public hearings were being held on this matter, we therefore wish to go on record at this time that we are opposed to any zoning other than single-family dwellings in our neighborhood."

"One of the motivating factors in our decision to build our homes in this area was the 'single-family' pattern that existed."

"Any multiple dwelling construction would certainly substantially alter the residential nature of our neighborhood. We further feel a corresponding reduction in our property values would occur."

Several of the residents met last Saturday with village officials to discuss sewer problems, land filling operations in Brentwood East (being constructed by Cantrell) and the section north of Diana Court, south of George Street.

Teacher Pay About Same in Diocese

Elementary and secondary lay teachers in the Joliet Diocese will continue on much the same salary schedule next year as they had during the current school year.

Beginning teachers with a bachelor's degree will start at $6,000 as they had last year, while beginners with a master's degree will start with $6,600 — a $100 raise over last year's base.

The revised salary schedule, effective next September, was announced after a recent special meeting of the board of education.

Tree Planting Plan Pondered

Itasca property owners may be asked for comments by village officials concerning a tree planting program on a 50-50 sharing basis.

Such a proposal was offered by Trustee Roy Johnson this week during the regular meeting of the village board.

Itasca has lost some 250 diseased trees the past few years and an additional 38 trees are being cut down in the village at the present time, according to Johnson.

JOHNSON presented his plan to sound out board members, explaining that such a replacement program could offset the loss of trees in the village.

"If the people would be receptive to sharing the cost of replanting the new trees, it might be well for the board to consider implementing such a program," he said.

Itasca has a master tree-planting plan prepared by John DeKamp, village forester.

The plan throughout the village suggests 25 different tree varieties which could assist property owners in the type of program suggested by Johnson.

40 ACRES ANNEXED, MUST BE UPGRADED

Forty acres belonging to Walter and Louis Sass has been annexed to the village of Elk Grove Village with the warning that housing on the property for migrant workers is below municipal standards.

The brothers were told to bring the housing up to standards within 10 days.

They are planning industrial and commercial development on the tract, located on the north side of Higgins Road, east of Bond Street.

In addition to bringing a house and trailer under the standards of the village, the property-owners were told that the structures must be removed by Nov. 1. That date was set after it became clear that they had already contracted for farm labor, and planned to farm the land this year.

NOV. 1. It was agreed, is sufficiently after the growing season to allow removal.

The petition of the two had been under consideration for slightly more than three months, and the preannexation agreement specifies the time limit on repairs and removal of the housing.

At Tuesday's village board meeting, the owners said they were agreeable to the time limitations, although it was made known that repair would not be inexpensive.

The preannexation agreement was signed, and the land annexed by ordinance; it was then zoned light industrial, with the exception of a 333-foot strip fronting on Higgins to be developed commercially.

The price of annexation was $14,000, to be used for traffic lights in the area. Elk Grove Village, when considering planned industrial and commercial development for annexation, charges $350 per acre for traffic signal purchase and installation.

Last week the board established a separate account at the Bank of Elk Grove for control of traffic signal fees.

IN OTHER business, the village board deferred for another week decision on sale of $1,040,000 in municipal building bonds to finance construction of a proposed municipal complex at Bleisfield Road and Wellington Avenue.

The decision to defer followed a request from Village Atty. Edward Hofert for time to discuss documents related to bond sales with financial consultant Paul Spear.

Trustee George Coney told the board that a single sale, with an 11-year retirement schedule, is recommended.

Hofert, responding to questions from Trustee Eugene Keith, said that if any money from the sale is left after specifications for the proposed two buildings are met, it can be used for related purposes.

That could include interior furnishings, or abatement of a tax levy.

In related action, the panel agreed to spend $500 to get a Standard and Poor's credit rating, which is expected to be good and of assistance in selling the bonds at a favorable interest rate.

EXTRA LAND at the Bleisfield-Wellington site, being saved for School Dist. 59's new administrative offices, is expected to be surveyed soon.

The village is planning to provide 1½ acres, which Coney felt to be sufficient for a 15,000-square-foot building. He added he thought it would be appropriate for the district to pay for the survey, since the village will probably sell the land for the token sum of $1.

In the meantime, the land will be made available for Boys' Baseball league use, since the district will probably not be building the administration center for at least another two years.

A number of streets were accepted for permanent maintenance, with the exception of Lively Boulevard between Oakton and Landmeier roads.

Trustee Ronald Chernick objected to the acceptance of the street, and he called for the matter to be tabled for two weeks. The motion to table lost by a 4-to-2 vote, with Trustee Charles Zetek supporting Chernick.

The motion to accept the streets was withdrawn and it was decided to meet with Centex Corp. officials on the matter before further action.

'Suspicious Auto' Leads to Arrests

Two burglary suspects were arrested early Wednesday morning following an initial complaint of a suspicious auto in Elk Grove Village.

Investigating village police apprehended Tony Garcia, alias Corky Ely, and Mario Cichocki, alias Frank Diamond. Both list several Chicago residences.

Initially charged with possession of burglary tools, the investigation by officers Ray Marinac, William Kohnke and Jon Scharpenter soon led to the discovery that Garcia was wanted in connection with an October burglary in the village, and Cichocki was identified as his alleged accomplice.

Garcia, under indictment for the Oct. 12 burglary of the Hi-Low Food Store, Elk Grove Village, was sent to Cook County Jail after he was unable to post $20,000 bond.

CICHOCKI could not make bond of $25,000, has been charged with burglary, and is also confined in Cook County Jail.

Investigation of the matter is continuing.

The pair were found parked on Devon Avenue about 200 feet west of Ridge at 2:30 Wednesday morning, and when police asked what they were doing became evasive, police said.

Further investigation revealed a variety of burglary tools in the car, registered to Frank Diamond, as well as $22.50 in small coins and Armored Express Corp. coin wrappers, police said.

They were arrested, and further investigation led to the discovery that Garcia had jumped bail and was under indictment for burglary by the Cook County Grand Jury, according to police.

LATER, CICHOCKI was identified as the man who escaped when police captured Garcia after the October burglary in Elk Grove.

Both have previous arrest records, and Cichocki had served three years in prison for the attempted murder of a Chicago policeman.

Answer on Annexation Hoped For in 10 Days

Having responded to a request for detailed cost information about annexation of the Forest View Homeowners Association area, Elk Grove Village trustees are hoping to get an answer in the next 10 days.

If no response comes, said Trustee Richard McGrenera, another letter will be submitted setting a deadline for a decision of the group on the question of annexation.

McGrenera reported to the board that the homeowners' association had asked for cost information relating to special assessments and taxes to consider when deciding the issue of annexation.

AFTER SOME delay, the information was compiled and mailed to association Pres. Wesley Kentzel.

The village board's Judiciary, Planning and Zoning Committee is hoping for an answer "in the middle of the month." If none is forthcoming it will set the deadline for a decision from the 100-home area completely surrounded by the village.

While the village board is not in the habit of seeking annexations, and opposed to forcing unincorporated areas to join, the question has been undecided for several years in the Forest View case, and the board would like to have it resolved.

At last report, the area was evenly split, and Kentzel had said there would be no annexation unless more than 80 percent of the affected homeowners want it.

THE AREA currently contracts with the village, at a rate of $3,000 annually, for fire protection service. On two occasions, including the current situation, the matter of payment and fee negotiation has been suspended pending a decision.

On Tuesday night, Village Mgr. Charles Willis said that $500 of past-due fee payment and one-third of the current year was paid by the Forest View Fire Protection District.

Willis added that agreement on fire protection costs had been reached, and that he would report further on the matter next week.

18 Protest R-4 Zoning

Eighteen residents on Diana Court in Bensenville are protesting R-4 (multiple-family) zoning and annexation of 49 acres to the village.

The homeowners are objecting to apartment buildings located near their single-family dwellings north of Diana Court and near Addison creek.

Bensenville builder Ralph Cantrell has sought zoning and annexation of the unincorporated tract south of George Street.

A PUBLIC hearing was held Jan. 24 before the zoning board of appeals. As yet no recommendation has been made to the village board.

The zoning board is allowed 90 days to make a decision.

A letter of protest to Eugene Sullivan, chairman of the zoning board, states:

"Not being aware that public hearings were being held on this matter, we therefore wish to go on record at this time that we are opposed to any zoning other than single-family dwellings in our neighborhood."

"One of the motivating factors in our decision to build our homes in this area was the 'single-family' pattern that existed."

"Any multiple dwelling construction would certainly substantially alter the residential nature of our neighborhood. We further feel a corresponding reduction in our property values would occur."

SIX PERSONS were injured in a chain accident on Algonquin Road in Rolling Meadows Wednesday afternoon. Bernard Gerstein, Hoffman Estates, and his wife, Paulette, suffered face and head injuries when the car Gerstein was driving plowed into the rear of a stopped westbound car driven by Ronald Lucarz who lives in the nearby Three Fountains apartments. Lucarz told police he was waiting to make a left turn onto Newport Ave. and his wheels were turned, so the impact pushed his car into the path of an eastbound cement mixer truck. Lucarz suffered leg injuries, his wife, Dorothy, head injuries, and his mother, Mrs. Florence Tomusiak, a broken leg and head injuries. The driver of the Vulcan Material Co. truck, Peter Christensen of Chicago, complained of chest pains when he climbed out of his vehicle, which rolled over in the ditch as he swerved in an attempt to avoid the crash. Gerstein was cited by Rolling Meadows police for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, although he claimed he did not see brake lights or flashing turn signals on Lucarz' car. Firemen hosed down spilled gasoline until all the cars were removed. (Staff Photos)

Between the Lines Open-Occupancy Stand Cheered

by PAT GERLACH

Three very loud cheers for Schaumburg village officials for their polite refusal last week to be pressured into passage of an open occupancy law.

The aggressive and positive stand of Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher and his trustees in shelving the Clergy Council's proposal will hopefully set a bright example for their counterparts in Hoffman Estates — that is, if it isn't too late.

Undoubtedly, Schaumburg's action may have been somewhat easier in view of the uncontested election of three trustees next month.

On the other hand, in Hoffman Estates, where a hot race for the village presidency and three trustee posts has just begun to pass the brewing point, board members had an opportunity three weeks ago to squelch the issue.

Such action probably would have prevented a rash of emotionalism from clouding many residents' feelings toward all of the 15 candidates.

SCHAUMBURG HAS BEEN openly proclaimed by its elected leaders as a "free and open community into which any person feeling good will toward his fellow men is welcome."

In Hoffman Estates, too, a very similar feeling has prevailed for nearly a dozen years with members of a number of so-called minority groups living and working together happily and willingly without the forced control of local state or national laws.

Since several of the local clergy have openly introduced the fair-housing proposal to the present administration, it would appear that in calling for a moratorium on further discussion of the subject until after the election, Trustee Howard "Jack" Noble may be attempting a stall.

NEARLY THREE months ago Noble, running for village president on the Hoffman Estates Party (HEP) ticket, told this reporter he personally does not tend to favor passage of a local fair housing law but fears the consequences of turning it down.

Unfortunately the subject has now been opened to the village board and the community and Noble says he favors public hearings and much discussion — but only after April 15 when he hopes to occupy the president's chair.

Unfortunately, too, open occupancy is a very small issue compared with others facing the village such as zoning action, fiscal integrity, professionalism of elected officials, and of course, the big hooker — just where is Hoffman Estates going in the future and how will it get there.

In all fairness to the voter, he should hear from each candidate on all of these topics before April 15.

ALTHOUGH THE fair-housing ordinance is supposedly in preparation now by the village attorney, current Village Pres. Roy Jenkins says there is no possibility of action by the board before the election.

Since the issue, and all of the other problems facing the village will be up to a new administration, all the more reason we should hear from all candidates on everything within the next month.

ically announce my candidacy for the one-year term so that each and every voter . . . will have the opportunity to review my record in one year."

RYAN ALSO made these points in his statement: —That it is "vitally important" to achieve close cooperation between the various plan commissions and the high school districts.

—That the main prerequisites for a school board member are "a willingness to serve and a sense of objectivity . . . I believe I have sufficient objectivity to serve the students, the parents of the students and the taxpayer at-large. A board member must have a feeling of responsibility to each."

—That he would do his best to insure "that, dollar for dollar, this district will have the best educational system that it collectively cares to afford."

RYAN TOLD Paddock Publications he felt he could serve as a bridge between the Arlington Heights Plan Commission and the high school district. He pointed out that board member Mrs. Leah Cummins holds a similar position with the Elk Grove Village Plan Commission while board member Frank Bergen serves on the Mount Prospect Plan Commission.

Ryan called for using "leadership, direction and a willingness to listen to legitimate, legally presented student proposals" as the answer to the trend of student "rebellion for rebellion's sake."

Ryan, when he files his petition, will become the third name on the list, a list of candidates for the one-year term. The others are Don McGlothlin of Wheeling and John M. Costello of Mount Prospect, now holding a seat on the board by appointment.

RYAN, A LAWYER, is a partner in the Chicago law firm of Morgan, Halligan, Lanoff and Cook.

He is a former director of the Arlington Heights Jaycees, former president of the Arlington Vista Home Owners Association and general counsel for the Illinois Young Republicans.

Bunny Home Safely

An injured rabbit was returned safely to its Hanover Park home this week. The pet rabbit is owned by the Walter Demings family of 1325 Evergreen.

The bunny, out for its daily exercise, was injured, perhaps by a child. Unable to move, the rabbit sat on Hollywood until police picked it up.

The Demings family claimed it Monday.

Train Hits Car — Teacher Dies

Carol J. Berry, a teacher at Ridge School in Elk Grove Village, was killed Wednesday when the car she was driving was struck by a train in Villa Park.

Miss Berry, 31, of 515 N. Ardmore Ave., Villa Park, was fatally injured when a west-bound freight train struck her car at the Illinois Central railroad crossing at Addison Road, South of North Avenue.

A SECOND grade teacher at Ridge School, Miss Berry had been teaching in the district since September, 1965. Previous district assignments included Rupley and Grant Wood Schools, and had prior experience in Seattle, Wash., and Elgin school systems.

Officials to Discuss Highway Relocation

Sometime late this month officials of all communities along Route 19 (Irving Park Road) will be invited to meet with Illinois Department of Public Works and Buildings personnel to discuss alternate alignments now under consideration for relocation of the highway.

At that time community officials will have the opportunity to express their opinions concerning the most acceptable location, according to information contained in a letter received by The Herald recently from Sigmund C. Ziejewski, district engineer of the highway department.

"Approximately one month after this meeting, the state division of highways will arrange to hold a public hearing at which time all persons affected by the alternate locations under study will be given an opportunity to express their views," Ziejewski's letter explained.

NEITHER meeting date has been set as yet, although Ziejewski said both will be widely publicized as soon as time and meeting places are established.

For the past year, Ziejewski's Elgin office has been investigating several alternate alignments for relocation of the state highway.

Routes under study lie within a two-mile corridor bounded on the north by the existing highway and Wise Road, and on the south by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad and U. S. Route 20.

The portion of the corridor under the jurisdiction of the Elgin office extends from the east end of the Elgin by-pass easterly to Illinois Route 83, Ziejewski said.

Portions east of Illinois Route 83 are under study by the highway department's district 10 office in Chicago.

DURING THE last year highway department officials have met with representatives of several municipalities adjacent to the proposed route but discussions have dealt only with tentative plans.

Principal objectors to plans presented during the study were voiced by Schaumburg Pres. Robert O. Atcher and Streamwood Pres. Nick Kusan.

The regular meeting of the Arlington Heights Village Board was held Monday, March 3, 1919.

The finance committee reported favorably on bills and pay roll amounting to $252.60 which were ordered to be paid.

A petition signed by property owners abutting North Dunton Avenue from the end of the paving to the village limits pledging $200 to have the road fixed up by putting on crushed stone, was referred to the street committee.

The treasurer's report, showing a balance of $467.74 was read and referred to the finance committee.

Schooling in the Slums: Any Progress?

By FREDERICK H. TREESH

United Press International

One year ago, the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders asserted education in the slums and ghettos is a failure. It documented this in terms of student achievement, the effect of racial and class segregation, the experience and qualification level of teachers, overcrowding, poor equipment and educational services, discriminationary financing and growing hostility toward the schools.

In the past year has the situation gotten better or worse? Did the commission's jarring report on the widening gulf between the nation's white and black societies prod anybody to do anything about the educational deficiencies it identified?

Last week, a report "One Year Later," prepared by the staffs of the Urban Coalition and Urban America Inc., assessed the nation's response to the "crisis" described by the advisory commission on civil disorders. The new assessment concluded:

"The indictment of failure passed on education in the slums and ghettos is just as valid and even more familiar. But the ferment...accelerated by the commission report has increased to the point where it is rocking—in some instances, even toppling—the education establishment. Unlike other drives for change in the schools, this one looks as if it will not end with talk: there is a discernible shift to action—clarification of strategies, heightened conflict, perhaps the beginnings of genuine change."

But, the report cautions, not all of the turmoil is progress. The dilemma, it says, is whether changes that accentuate, rather than mitigate, polarization are a necessary prelude to coming together of an equal footing. The focal point of the dilemma is community control of schools.

The report contrasts experiments in community control in New York, where the Ocean Hill-Brownsville experiment "unleashed a bitter power struggle and surfaced a nightmare of ethnic and racial hatreds," and in Washington, D.C., where a lesser-known program "resulted in an upturn in reading scores despite a chaotic first year, and the school has settled into an innovative but orderly second."

equally obvious and asks: Will drawing new lines around communities, setting up local boards, reinforce the very segregation and isolation that the commission warned against?

The report says efforts toward desegregation have gone on in the past year both on the federal level and in cities and towns across the nation—mostly in smaller and moderate-sized cities "where distance and numbers make for a more manageable game." Cited were desegregation plans adopted in Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Evansville, Ind.; San Mateo, Calif.; and Providence, R.I., and "the most dramatic, comprehensive integration plan" initiated at Berkeley, Calif.

But the Urban Coalition-Urban America study says, "Progress is slow and resistance solidifying."

First, Figure How To Stop Hijacking of Stagecoaches

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Here's a partially completed scenario for a new motion picture, "Bad Day at High Noon," a Western frontier epic starring John Wayne, Ronald Reagan, Pierre Salinger and Spiro Agnew.

Wells-Fargo Stagecoach No. 22 is making a routine run between Cheyenne and Laramie with six passengers and a two-man crew.

One of the passengers, an Indian who made his reservation in the name of S. Bull, leans out of the door, points a tomahawk at the driver and says, "Take this stage to the Little Big Horn."

"That isn't on our route," the driver says.

"It is now," the Indian says. The driver flags down a passing Pony Express rider and gives him a message to take to the Wells-Fargo office in Laramie.

"Have been diverted to the Little Big Horn," the message says. "Please advise."

The Wells-Fargo agent takes the message to the U.S. Marshal.

"This is the third stagecoach that has been hijacked to the Little Big Horn this week," the agent says. "What do you intend to do about it?"

"That's out of my jurisdiction," the marshal says. "Why don't you take the matter up with Gen. Custer?"

"I've already done that," the agent says. "He told me to get in touch with you."

"In that case, you should write a letter to the Federal Stagecoach Agency in Washington," the marshal says.

Upon receiving the letter, the Federal Stagecoach administrator pays a call to the commissioner of Indian Affairs.

here that seems to be in your bailiwick," the administrator says.

"Sorry," the commissioner says. "The Indians along the Little Big Horn are hostile and my bureau doesn't have a treaty with them."

"About all we can do is ask the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to intercede for us as a neutral party and arrange to have the stagecoaches returned."

"We appreciate getting the stagecoaches back," the administrator says, "but how do we have the hijackings?"

"That sounds like a job for the U.S. marshal," the commissioner says.

(I'm running a little contest to see who can think up the best ending for this picture. The winner will receive a free plane ticket to Miami).

White Suburbanites Get The Black Word

by MARY SCHLOTT

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference's Rev. Jesse Jackson gave Northwest suburbanites some harsh lessons Wednesday on what it means to be a black man in America — and drew a standing ovation at its end.

Alternating as prophet, moralist, instructor on black America's points of pride and stern judge of a system that permits black children to starve while U. S. Senators draw agricultural subsidies for not producing food, Jackson flayed the Pentagon, politicians' dismissal of the Kerner report and what he called "pink-skin worship."

It was the suburban Northwest's first look at a man whom many see as one of the coming leaders of the nation, and the huge audience of students and townsmen responded warmly.

His talk was punctuated by applause at a number of points.

IT ALSO started late. Jackson's appearance on the Harper Junior College lecture podium had been scheduled for 8 p.m. It was 8:45 p.m. before the Chicago "Operation Breadbasket" leader arrived from a city meeting and perched gingerly on one of the orange-backed chairs on a temporary platform in the Elk Grove High School auditorium to wait out an introduction by Dean of Students James Harvey.

The delay lost few of the audience, however.

Jackson started out by giving the largely-white suburban audience a black man's view of American society.

"Blacks," he said, "live in colonies, classified as untouchables, valued as cheap labor and as soldiers in time of war."

"There is not much spirit among us because we are not fulfilled spiritually. We do not build our own sidewalks, our own streets and it is because the trade unions will not let us in."

"WE DO NOT control the stores. We do not control the radio station in our colonies. We do not control the board of education that determines the quality of education our children get."

"We do not control our style of politics in any city in the nation. We do not control our image of what's beautiful, justice or evil on any colony."

"Our backbones are corroded. We do not have the internal stress or the entrepreneurial spirit necessary to change," he asserted.

"But in a real sense," Jackson warned, "the whole nation is in trouble because some pathological killers . . . high up in the government make decisions that affect our lives."

HE TICKED off names of a half dozen Southern-born U. S. Senate leaders, among them Ralph Yarborough of Texas, L. Mendel Rivers of South Carolina and James Eastland of Mississippi. "all white men over 65 who received their seniority because of blacks who could not vote and poor whites who couldn't because the poll tax was set too high."

Such men, charged the black leader, are investing public office with "a myth of integrity."

Speaking to the large "dove" contingent in the audience, Jackson asserted, "It isn't little boys in the ghetto who are dangerous — it is the Pentagon. Little boys in the ghetto don't have napalm. They don't play chess with powerless nations. But they receive their image of how to get things done from the Pentagon."

He called the U. S. a "sick nation" for spending billions on "killing programs" while devoting just 12 per cent of its budget for health, education and welfare "healing" programs.

"WHITE racism" came in for its share of Jackson's anger.

"We kind of think that racial prejudice is just an unfortunate reaction of some poor people down South," he pointed out. Yet, he said, the Kerner Report calling white racism the greatest danger to America was "passed off to be argued with by politicians rather than analyzed by psychologists and psychiatrists."

"There is something wrong with a nation that will wipe slavery out of its mind and . . . make no apology . . . in a kind of self-righteousness, as if there were nothing wrong."

"It is bad," said Jackson, "that under pressure black men became niggers, servile and smiling when they didn't feel like it, but it is even worse that white America needed them that way."

"Why does a white man think he has to stand on shoulders to declare his height?"

Jackson also turned his scorn on critics of welfare. He asked why welfare recipients should be criticized for not working when "farmers are being paid for not farming."

MISSISSIPPI'S Sen. Eastland, he said, "Says he doesn't want federal interventions. Yet he receives $13,000 a month not to farm."

"Children on (Eastland's) plantation receive $9 a month for food. And they 'escape' to Chicago," he added.

HE DREW a rippling laugh for noting more than 40 Texas farmers who also draw federal funds for keeping their lands untilled and upping, "Some people did have a Great Society!"

"We say poor people are lazy. They are poor because they are powerless in a power-sick society. Some say if you give them aid, they won't have any initiative."

"These people live on the bottom line between being half-full and half-hungry — and you expect them to have initiative!"

Alcoholism Center in Open House

Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, will hold a public open house in its new Rehabilitation Center for Alcoholism on Sunday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The center is located just west of Lutheran General, 1775 Dempster Street, Park Ridge. THE $2.6 million structure is the first of its kind to receive a federal Hill-Burton Grant. It has facilities for 73 patients including one floor devoted to apartments so the spouse of an alcoholic can live in the center and participate in the treatment program.

THESE TWO LISTENERS were among several thousand, young and old, who turned out to hear the Rev. Jesse Jackson Wednesday night. The minister and civil rights leader told his Harper Junior College audience, "You cannot graduate from this institution — an all-white institution — and be educated. You are just trained."

he thundered.

TURNING teacher, the former aide to Dr. Martin Luther King noted with pride some black men's contributions:

—Dr. Christian Bernard, he charged, became famous by using heart surgery techniques pioneered by black physicians in the Union of South Africa's Provident Hospital.

—George Washington Carver, he said, devised hundreds of ways to use the peanut at a time when the South's economy was limping.

—A black man invented the gas mask that has been used to save men's lives in mining disasters. After it was tested successfully, the minister charged, "the government took his patent." Before that he had been unable to register the patent "because he was black."

Jackson called for Afro-American courses in all schools and colleges. To do less, he said, is to ignore that America is a pluralistic society where all citizens need to know and respect each other's roots.

"SOME SAY blacks want separation," Jackson noted. "The South Side of Chicago is already separate and blacks didn't separate it."

"We are separate and dependent," Jackson declared with emphasis, citing the lack of black control of their schools, the city services, the police patrols. He noted that Chicago's black districts have few black police commanders.

"Some say blacks are not qualified to be policemen," Jackson glibed. "Why do we make such good military policemen in Vietnam and such bad policemen at home?"

Jackson declared the United States a nation rooted in righteous violence, backing that judgment by citing the Boston Tea Party and the Revolutionary War.

"White America," he warned, "don't expect black America to be un-American (and nonviolent) too long. Don't expect us to hurt and you decide how we can holler. If you can't fix the aching tooth, don't tell us how to scream!"

'Drink Joe Louis Milk' — It'll Help

Some advice on how to use their influence to support black America's growth was given to Harper Junior College students Wednesday by the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

He did so in answering students' questions in a session that followed his appearance at Elk Grove High School as part of the community college lecture series.

"Drink Joe Louis (Milk Co.) milk here at Harper Junior College, invest your money in Seaway National Bank. Let the next building built here be built by a black construction company," Jackson urged. HE SAID such selective use of buying power can "break up" the institutions that keep blacks subservient to the white power structure.

Jackson turned to SCLC philosophy in answering a question on student demonstrations.

He said that students who turn to violence to pressure for college change are using tactics that can't work.

The tactics are unworkable, because the students don't have the energy and weapons to be successful.

Campus protests, said Jackson, "must remain nonviolent, moralistic and academically-oriented."

THEN, HE said, if the administration chooses to use violent, and immoral tactics, the students' hand is strengthened.

He told the students, "Communism is not half the threat to this nation that racism is."

"As for separatism, it's like looking at a cell under a microscope. Some of this division is bad and some of it good."

"Independence precedes interdependence. Once we begin to control our share and you control your share then you have reciprocity," he declared.

BRUCE LADD (RIGHT), a former Arlington Heights resident, is congratulated by President Richard M. Nixon on his appointment last week as special assistant to the under secretary, U.S. Department of Commerce. Ladd, who from 1960 to 1964 was an editor at Partridge Publications, went to Washington, D.C. in 1965 under the Congressional Fellowship Program of the American Political Science Association. From August, 1965 to the present he served as legislative and special assistant to Congressman Donald Rumsfeld (R-Ill.). At left is Rocco C. Siciliano, under secretary of Commerce, and second from right is Maurice Skans, Secretary of Commerce.

Dr. Judd To Address GOP Women

Dr. Walter H. Judd, former medical missionary to China and former U.S. Congressman from Minnesota, will speak to the Women's Republican Club of the Thirteenth Congressional Dist. on Monday. His subject will be "Prospects for Peace."

The meeting of the organization will be held at the Glenview Community Church, 1000 Elm Street, Glenview.

DR. JUDD HAS served 10 terms as a member of Congress. He is nationally recognized as an authority on U.S. foreign policy and was a member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs for 16 years.

Carrier 'Dudes' Enjoyed Savory Food at Woodside

The Snow Was Real, and The Skiing Fun

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS FRI., MAR. 7, 1969

Reward: Fun at Camp

The best of both winter and a 11-season outdoor activities were available to 34 Paddock Publication carrier boys at a dude ranch-winter resort in Wisconsin last weekend.

The boys spent their time snowmobiling, learning to ski, horseback riding, roasting hot dogs and going on hay rides and sleigh rides.

The fun began Friday when the carriers and chaperones boarded the train that took them to Mauston, a small resort community 20 miles northwest of the Wisconsin Dells. Woodside Ranch is located a short five miles east of Mauston. The boys quickly unloaded their gear and headed for the ski slopes. There were a few early spills, but the young businessmen were eager to improve their skiing ability Saturday and Sunday.

"Some of our boys show a real talent for skiing," observed Harvey Gascon, transportation supervisor for the circulation department, and one of the trip chaperones.

Snowmobiling was the other winter sport the youths particularly enjoyed. The snowmobile followed the bridge path that wound through hills and woods of the 800 acre ranch.

Tarbaby and Dusty were two of the favorite horses for the boys. One carrier liked riding so much, he decided to buy one of Woodside's extra horses, though the horse didn't come back on the train.

After the day's activities were finished, the boys spent their time at the trading post, where they played pinball machines and roasted hot dogs and marshmallows in a fireplace.

The ranch also offered "good grub," with wholesome and plentiful meals served family style in the large dining room.

The Paddock carriers won the trip by selling additional subscriptions on their routes for the Heralds and Registers.

Doesn't Look Like Much, But 'Place' Is the Place

By RICHARD GAINES

BOSTON (UPI) — "Place" is a rundown, offbeat, underground, understaffed struggling social service agency for kids who have no other place to turn.

Its drab four-story headquarters on a back street of Boston's South End acts as a sort of halfway house for teenage runaways, youths on everything from marijuana to LSD, outcasts and dropouts — all of whom come looking for help.

They are met at Place by a core of resident theological and university students who have drawn together an imposing group of professionals from the fields of law, religion, psychology, psychiatry and medicine.

"Place's primary interest is overcoming alienation — reconciling youngsters estranged from home with their families," explained co-founder Peter A. Callaway, 27, a Harvard Divinity School student who lives in a cluttered alcove at Place.

"We have made our work with runaways central," Callaway said. "This falls in line with the guiding purpose of Place — that it be an enabler and protector of the young community."

For Place, with its limited resources and the necessity to remain outside the establishment, its existence becomes known to the young community only through an effective grapevine.

"People who know we're here come to us," a volunteer explained. "It could be parents concerned about their children and we are able to refer them and their kids to the various services available. Or it could be a person from the 'scene' who runs across someone who needs help."

The full time residential staff of Place—six to eight students from Harvard Divinity School, Andover-Norton Theological School and Episcopal Theological School—expect and face a gamut of situations around the clock.

About 10 runaways a week find their way to Place's 31½ Dwight St. address, while innumerable others are assisted over the telephone or through field workers. In addition, four youths currently live at Place, three from the division of child guardianship and one with parental permission.

Place also maintains a "bad trip" telephone number for persons on a bad LSD trip or those suffering from an overdose of drugs or poisoning. The callers' anonymity is guaranteed.

"If they're thinking of suicide or are shooting heroin or speed (amphetamines) or LSD, and if it's real bad," said Rick Zybert, 21, a volunteer from Boston University who sometimes mans the "bad trip" phone, "we'll get someone over there and take them to a hospital where they can be treated. They're afraid to call the hospitals themselves because lots of times they're runaways and not older than 13 or 14."

Another Place worker said, "We get the farthest type speed freaks to the straightest older women on that line."

When medical or clinical help is needed, Place can draw on the services of Dr. David Lewis of Beth Israel Hospital, Dr. Alfred J. R. Koumans of Massachusetts Institute of Technology's psychiatric service and Dr. Joseph Herskowitz, among others.

Place also finds emergency accommodations in the homes of families of seminarians and other friends of Place when the cases call for it.

With its diverse services and 24 hour schedule, Place has taken on the aura of a youth hostel and an underground police station combined. The lights never go out and workers are more comfortable in dungarees than in three piece suits.

Callaway, who co-founded Place in the fall of 1967 with David A. Andes of Andover-Norton, said the relaxingly unkempt appearance of Place and its people is planned.

"We are recognized and established but not crushed by the establishment," the Westport, Conn., native said. "It's important to these kids that we're a little sloppy."

In spite of its appearance and the preponderance of "hippy-looking" types, Place has good relations with its neighbors and the local authorities.

"The police are great as far as we're concerned," one resident said. "I think they realize we're doing something good. It's certainly more than

"live and let live."

Until recently, a grant from the Anna B. Stearns Charitable Foundation and speaking engagements by Place workers barely provided the $1,200 a month — Place's subsistence budget. That situation meant all workers remained at Place on a volunteer basis.

But after a highly active summer's work within the "Boston Common Crowd" and the summer underground community, Place's successes led to a substantial grant from the Godfrey M. Hyams Foundation and additional permanent charity from area church and religious groups.

Nevertheless, even now sala-

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS

FRI., MAR. 7, 1969

ries of $25-$30 a week alone are hardly enough to motivate the seminarians in Place's South End mission.

Callaway explained his satisfaction with Place: "Kids come back. They graduate, I guess you could say and they come back and say, 'IM doing something now.' And it's good."

Regional Cage Prize At Stake Tonight

Kickin' It Around

By BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

North Shows Domination . . .

There was a time when they talked about southern basketball as the class of Illinois schoolboy ranks.

And with justification. The south took seven out of nine titles over one stretch.

You watched a Herrin, Mt. Vernon, Pinckneyville, Centralia, and Collinsville march into a state tourney and destroy the opposition, and you had to be impressed.

Every year the polls would reflect the southern strength.

Times are changing. The southern basketball teams at state tourney time have been heard to squeal, "Yankee, go home."

The northerners seem happy to depart the open plains of the south, but not before they gather up their hardware to take back with them.

The north obviously got tired of listening about southern supremacy. They respect the quality of basketball played in these cage hot-beds, but they certainly don't regard them with fear.

It's the north that has been dominating.

With Proviso East and Thornton among the early favorites for the 1969 prize, it's possible the north will have something to shout about again.

Last year Evanston and Crane Tech of Chicago went home with the first and third place prizes in Illinois. Not one southern school was in the final four. Carbondale and Effingham were the south's only chances in the Elite Eight in Champaign and they were both eliminated on the first day.

The north (Chicago and suburbs) has won five of the last 11 state crowns, and when they win, they win big.

Evanston, regarded by many as the finest team in state history, racked up 70 points in each of its state tourney bouts, and the closest anyone got was 12 points.

Remember those thunderers from Thornton in the 1966 tournament? They beat New Trier 50-44, Decatur 67-45, and Galesburg 74-60 in three games at the Assembly Hall.

When Chicago Marshall gave the north the top prize in 1960, they were never contested either. With All-State George Wilson leading the way, the Commandos belted Monmouth 55-38, Decatur 74-62, and Bridgeport 79-55 to win the title.

Will it be Proviso East in 1969? Or Thornton? Or Lockport Central? Or Galesburg?

Or maybe the south will rise up with clubs like touted Edwardsville and Carbondale and crack the northern domination. Edwardsville's toughest problem until the Super-Sectional may be getting out of the regional tonight.

The elimination process continues.

Only sixty-four high school teams will remain tonight when those final buzzers have sounded at regional tournament sites throughout Illinois.

Only sixteen will remain after action next Friday.

The Elite Eight will convene in Champaign-Urbana on Friday and Saturday, March 21-22.

If you're a betting man, stick with the north. It looks like our year again in the Rose Bowl of Midwest high school basketball.

Scores Reflect Changes in Game

The kids just keep getting better and better and the game does too.

When you look back over the history of the state basketball finals in Illinois, it's dramatically illustrated just how the game has changed — to everyone's benefit.

It took only three field goals to win the 1933 state high school title in Illinois.

That's all the famed Flying Clouds of Thornton needed to beat Springfield, 14-13, but that game didn't set a record for the lowest number of points in a championship game. It just tied it.

Canton's Bulldogs, featuring Mark Peterman's famed slow break, claimed the state's most coveted prep prize by "smothering" West Aurora, 18-9, five years earlier.

Oddly, the very first state finale in 1908 set no pattern for low scoring. Some winning scores in that inaugural tourney were 60 for Hinsdale, 58 for Oak Park, 50 for Rock Island. Peoria took the title, 48-26.

Only once in the next 30 years was Peoria's total surpassed, however, in the title game. While the majority of championship scores did not plunge to the level of those 1928 and 1933 defensive duels, most of them were in the 20s and 30s.

In the 1940s the tempo of scoring, in keeping with the times, began to pick up. By 1950 the record score of 85-61 was posted by the great Mt. Vernon Rams as they captured their second straight state crown. The total of 146 was tied in the 1954 final when Mt. Vernon, again, beat DuSable of Chicago, 78-70.

Rules changes, of course, played their part in the increased scoring. Elimination of the center jump after each score (in 1936) was the first big step toward shifting the philosophy of the game from defense to offense.

Soon, the 10-second rule was conceived to prevent stall-minded teams from lurking behind the center stripe. It proved even a more drastic boost to the offense.

Overshadowing the rule alterations, though, was a great transformation in the game itself. That was the advent of the unguardable jump shot. As it grew in popularity, the shooting averages of the preps zoomed. So did the scores.

In the 1930s a team that shot 300 or better from the floor was having a hot night. Today a team can lose shooting 500.

Some idea of how the jump shot has improved the marksmanship of the game can be gleaned from the statistics of the 1944 Illinois tournament. The average team shooting in those 16 games was .281, and one club — Kankakee — shot 81 times in a first round game against West Rockford and only made eight baskets.

Who's complaining about the changes in this fascinating game of basketball? Very few. The players like the scoring, the fans like them, and most of the coaches do, too.

Prospect High grad George Morris, carrying the University of Illinois colors, finished third and Palatine product Bill Bahngleth, a Wisconsin soph, placed fifth in the 440 yard dash at the Big 10 track and field meet in Champaign. Morris had a 48.8 and Bahngleth a 49.0 in the indoor attraction.

Wildcats Earn Shot at Title

by KEITH REINHARD

It was a tale of two champions and it looked it. There was Mundelein, down to defend a Tri-County throne, fresh from a potent triumph over the district winners in their opening regional outing, and slapping in baskets like they owned stock in the Palatine gymnasium.

There was Wheeling, owners of their second Mid-Suburban league title, shrugging off a Hersey uprising in their regional opener, and scrambling like a squadron of F-86's at the Battle of Inchon.

And then there was just Wheeling.

Just Wheeling, a beat-up brown loafer, and about 1,500 fans who stormed down from the sidelines after the Wildcats had earned their first regional final berth in five years by rallying the Mustangs 57-54 at Palatine Wednesday. They'll play tonight at 7:30 for the title.

THE WILDCATS: They were elated. Behind Don Wright's gargantuan performance they had battled uphill for three long periods before even seeing daylight and then skirmished through a breathtaking final stanza en route to the conquest.

The shoe: It was compliments of an irate Mundelein fan, tumbling to the floor during the hectic last 60 seconds of play after Wheeling had finally assumed the driver's seat.

The fans: They had to return to their seats even though their countdown of the final exciting moments had reached zero. A vain Mundelein timeout prompted the replay and only delayed an inevitable conclusion.

GRANTED, Mike Owens' gusty 'Cats netted a few important breaks. They picked up one bucket when a long, missed Jack Bastable jumper was allowed because of Mustang goal tending.

Another Mundelein two-pointers was voided by a hastily called time out and yet another crucial Mustang shot from the floor with just a dozen seconds remaining swooped in and out and kept Wheeling's four-point bulge on the scoreboard that many waning moments longer.

But Wheeling also made more than just a few breaks go their way with simple pressure tactics and cool play under fire. It was really the first time this whole season that Owens saw dividends evolve from the pour-it-on-in-the-clutch style of ball he preaches.

AND AMAZINGLY enough, the Wildcats did it all without their number one scorer and rebounder. In fact, Jim Millay at just a shade over six-foot was big man in the Wheeling lineup as they staged their surge from a 10-point deficit just before intermission to a 41-40 lead at the offset of the fourth period.

Wright, the tallest 6-0 pivot-man in the state Wednesday, finished off with a game-pacing 28 points. But that was just a third of the story.

Wright moved into the center slot to relieve the still a-mending MSL scoring champion Carl Fricke. And while he was baffling Mundelein's big men underneath on offense with his board strength and shooting effectiveness, he was stymieing their playmaker guard Don Majercik on defense.

MAJERCIK has been averaging 19 points a game in the TCL. Wright allowed him to get off only two shots Wednesday and the flustered Mustang finally fouled out in the last instant of play.

Wright also stuffed in the game's four most significant points. But that was long after a deadly accurate quintet had been stunned into a blitz-ravaged trauma.

CAT CALL. "HEY, come back," Mundelein's Jim D'Amoria (41) seems to be saying. Wheeling's Jack Bastable apparently didn't heed the call however, following up a steal with this fast break layup during the regional semi-finals Wednesday. Bastable went on to record 14 points and his Wildcats went on to win over the Mustangs 57-54.

(Staff Photos by Tom Grieger)

In the beginning Mundelein looked like a team no mortal foe could surpass. They connected on their first four tries from the floor, moving from middle range to long range and were up 8-3 at 5:39 of the first period.

EVEN WHEN the Mustangs started fouling Wheeling couldn't keep pace. By the end of the opening period Mundelein had struck on nine of 12 occasions; the Wildcats hadn't pierced within 15 feet for a bucket and had about as many rebounds as Van Gough could count on his ears; and even with a batch of free throws the MSL champs trailed 19-14.

The second period continued along a similar vein. Mustang Scott Atwood recorded his fourth straight jumper at 8:48. It was the team's 11th — still against three field goals for Wheeling — and Atwood's 10th point and now Owens and company trailed by 10.

Atwood remained a nemesis even when the 'Cats began finding the mark. A pair of long jumpers by Kevin Barthule and Wright's 15 footer had the margin down to 30-24 with 2:53 left but Atwood zapped in a turnaround jumper and a fade away from close in.

WITH LESS than 40 ticks before halftime Mundelein was up 34-24 and coming down to set up for a last-second shot.

What might have been a 12-point mid-game bulge quickly dissipated however. First Bastable worked a steal and a fast break layup and then Wright pilfered the ball again. Although Wright's inside shot was blocked, he netted a pair of free throws, made one and the half-time gap was quickly trimmed to seven.

In period three buckets from the side and the key by Bastable and a 12-footer by Wright allowed Wheeling to keep pace. With 1:51 left Wright was bottled up underneath by three tall defenders but broke loose, flipped one over his head from straight below the hoop and the ball arched high over the net and right down in.

HALF A minute later Wright canned a rebound and Mundelein carried a precarious one-point advantage out of the third stanza.

Millay, with a stinging assist from Bastable, hit from beneath to give Wheeling their first lead of the game at 7:37 of the final quarter. Five times the lead changed hands during the next two minutes and at 5:13 a Wright gratis toss forged a 46-46 deadlock.

Wheeling pressed and Mundelein broke a man loose all alone under the net to regain a 48-46 spread. At 4:07 on a two-on-one break, Bastable took the perfect pass from Wright and stroked it in for a 48-48 standoff.

ATWOOD CARDED his 11th field shot at 3:39 but Bastable countered with a 17 footer at 2:02 and the scoreboard read 50-50. Majercik then recorded his only pointage of the night and had to go 18 feet outside to get it.

At 1:07 Bastable struck again from 15 feet out. Mundelein took the ball out, Bastable and Wright hounded Majercik into yielding control and with 51 seconds left, below the piercing yell of the Wildcats fans, Wright dashed 10 quick yards to score and give the 'Cats their first two-point lead, 54-52.

The Wheeling roar had no reason to subside. Millay intercepted Mundelein's long pass down court moments later and the 'Cats then had the lead and ball control.

AFTER A timeout Wright was fouled and cool as an autumn in Fairbanks he swished in two free throws at 0:19 to jet Wheeling out of sight, 56-52.

With eight seconds to go, after the one Mundelein shot had swooped in and out, the whistle blew on another Mundelein attempt from in tight that rolled off the outside edge of the rim.

The two Mundelein free throws were also unsuccessful but with five seconds remaining they finally oagged their field goal to slim the margin to 56-54.

Wheeling quickly threw in the ball and held on as the last seconds slipped away. But as 'Cat fans swarmed onto the floor, officials acknowledged a Mundelein timeout back at 0:04.

That was enough time for a final personal for Majercik and Barthule pocketed a free throw just before time ran out.

Return of Bittenob Helps Send Cards Past Palatine

by CHUCK WILLOUR

Tuesday night was the answer to a lot of questions. Like, just how valuable are Chris Bittenob and Phil Donahue to Arlington and Palatine basketball fortunes? Or, would the Cards and Pirates ever again be able to equal their best outputs of the season, Palatine's a 49-48 thriller over Forest View and Arlington's a 56-55 squeaker past Wheeling?

The answers to those questions and many more came Tuesday night when the Cards took on the host Pirates in first round action in the Palatine Regionals and strode proudly off the court at the final buzzer with a 64-52 victory.

THE WIN MEANT a berth in the regional semi-finals last night against cross-town rival St. Viator.

The answer to the first question, the value of Bittenob and Donahue to the two squads, was apparent immediately.

Bittenob, who has been held under seige by a throat infection for the past three weeks — and whose absence was a prime factor in Arlington's inability to cop the Mid-Suburban League crown — led the Arlington effort with a big 17 points. His clutch shooting from inside and out kept the Pirates off guard.

AND DONAHUE? Well, the fine Pirate guard found out he couldn't buy a basket Tuesday night, no matter where he shot from. And on top of that, the Pirate speedster suddenly found himself saddled with four fouls midway through the second period.

Palatine coach Norm Jones wisely pulled Donahue then, but without him Palatine was unable to move the ball. In the third period, with Donahue riding the bench, the Pirates found themselves being held to six points.

And even when Donahue reentered the tilt in the fourth period, he was unable to work up to snuff, and the Cards bagged the victory.

AS FOR THE answer to the second question, well, you can look at it two ways. The Pirates were, of course, not up to the peak they enjoyed a week ago against Forest View. Arlington, on the other hand, looked like it was — for three periods, anyway.

In the first period the Cards shot out immediately to an eight point lead and then held on to that margin to the end of the second stanza. In the third stanza, Coach George Zigman's charges doubled their output to Increase their lead to 12, 42-30.

In the final period, the Cards tallied 20 big points, while Palatine fought back with 22, as Pirate guard Scott Smith and forward Dave Hasbach suddenly found the range and raked the nets for 17 points between them.

HASBACH ended up leading the Pirates and tying with Buttenob for game honors with 17, and Smith contributed another 16 for the Pirates.

Hitting 16 also was Arlington's Gary Anderson, whose deft baseline drives and sharp outside shooting broke the Pirate zone defense wide open time and time again.

Equally vital to the Card win were guard Jim Baumgartner, who tallied ten points on the night, and forward Ken Jorgensen, who added another 13 — most of them on slick drives to the basket followed by short jumpers.

The Arlington win was the third the Cards have registered over Palatine this year, and it hikes their season mark to an impressive 18-5. The Pirates, whose season is now ended, finished the year with a 9-12 record.

District Gym Site Changed

The district gymnastics meet which was formerly scheduled for Elk Grove this Saturday, has been moved to East Leyden High School in Franklin Park.

The change was made because it was felt the meet would interfere with the Grove's school play, which will also be held on Saturday.

Although the meet will be held at East Leyden, Elk Grove will still be the hosting school.

The session times have also been changed. The first session will begin at 1 p.m. to include side horse, still rings, tumbling and free exercise.

The second session at 7:30 p.m. will have trampoline, horizontal bar and parallel bars.

The Arlington-hosted district will conclude tonight at 7 p.m. with competition in the tramp, parallel and high bar events.

FV Advances With 55-43 Win

by PAUL LOGAN

It could have been called a grudge match, at least for those who remembered last year's regional basketball tourney game between Conant and Forest View.

However, this time around the key to the two teams' struggle was their second quarter shooting. Playing before a very sparse crowd at the Maine South regional last Tuesday night, the Mid-Suburban League entrants were deadlocked, 13-13, heading into the second stanza.

Conant could only manage an 18 per cent reading from the field while Forest View was hitting at 38 to take a 26-17 advantage at intermission. The Cougars never really recovered the rest of the way losing 55-43.

COACH CHIC Anderson's crew finished with a 4-17 record while Coach Ken Arneson's boys registered their 13th victory against nine setbacks. The Falcons' triumph gave them the right to meet Maine West last night in the semi-finals.

The winner of this clash will take on Maine South in the championship game tonight at 8:00.

Last year, playing in the Prospect regional, the Falcons had a bad first half and trailed the Cougars 40-28. Conant ended up winning the game, 74-65.

THIS LATEST meeting saw both teams' offensive production much less, especially the Cougars. But in the first quarter it looked like the outcome might not be decided until the final minutes of the game.

The lead shifted eight times in the opening eight minutes with two ties, the second coming on a gift by Junior Boltz to end the quarter.

It took 50 seconds in the second quarter before the advantage changed hands again — this time for good as Rich Olson hit a 20-footer from the baseline to put the Falcons out in front.

THEN, ON THE Cougars' next trip down the court, Boltz tried a jumper and Kevin Grismer blocked it and Forest View took over. For the next five minutes Conant got off just three shots from the field and one free throw and missed all of them. Meanwhile, the Falcons put through five points to open up a 22-13 margin — three points for Grismer and one fielder by Doug Dahle.

Finally, at 1:52, Boltz sank a jumper. It was followed seconds later by nifty layup by Scott Johnson but that was all the scoring the Cougars could muster as they trailed at the half, 26-17.

LATE IN THE third quarter, Conant made its final move at overtaking the Falcons when a basket by John MacDonald cut the lead to 33-28.

But Forest View got back on the beam and outscored the Cougars 8-1 in the three minutes to hold a commanding 41-29 margin going into the final frame.

The Falcons enjoyed as much as a 14-point lead during the last eight minutes before settling for the final 12-marker cushion.

Conant finished the night shooting 38 per cent compared to Forest View's 40.

Boltz led both teams in scoring with 17. The Falcons got fine balance — Dahle (14), Rich Olson (13), Dave Long (10) and Mike Kineman (9).

Weekly Feature Zikes on Tour

Les Zikes Jr., manager of Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights, missed cashing by 95 pins in the $45,000 Greater Buffalo Open last week in Depew, N.Y.

Zikes collected 4780 pins over 24 games in his fourth stop on the Professional Bowlers Association tour. He was slated to compete in the $50,000 Miller High Life Open this week in Wauwatosa, Wis.

Dick Ritger of Hartford, Wis. won the Buffalo Open in a nationally televised match with 19-year-old Steve Wallace of Houston, Tex.

The top five finishers were Ritger, Wallace, Al Thompson of Cleveland, Ohio, Billy Hardwick of Louisville, Ky., and Ernie Schlegel of New York City.

Visk Dazzles With 4:18.9 Mile Run

Mark Visk of Palatine turned 54.4 in a sizzling 4:18.9 mile but the Pirate track team lost to Maine West 64-45 Tuesday.

Palatine won seven events to Maine West's six but Maine West's depth provided the winning margin.

Joe Camp won in the two-mile with a 10:07.4, Henry Schniepp won in the high jump with a 5-8, Jim Verborg won in the 50-yard dash with a 5.6 and Don Giancaspro won in the 440 with a Palatine's four-lap relay team of Verborg, Jeff Olsberg, Giancaspro and Tom Patch took first place. Schniepp was second in the shot put and Reed Jacobsen was second in the 880 with a 2:05.5.

Palatine's mile relay team was clocked in 3:40 for first place. The relay was made up of Olsberg, Steve Bahnieth, Jacobsen and Giancaspro.

MARK VISK

Fremd Beats Grove; Track Marks Fall

Three new fieldhouse records were recorded last Tuesday afternoon at Elk Grove but two of them were set by visiting Fremd.

Paced by these two by Craig Stitt and Ray Sommers, the Vikings defeated their hosts, 72-32.

Stitt came home with a 4:34.4 clocking in the mile run. Sommers captured the 880 yard run with a time of 2:05.2.

Elk Grove's Mel Greathouse put the other new mark on the books with a 12-3 effort in the pole vault.

Grenadier Mike Michella was the only thirder to register two victories in the meet. He captured the long jump (19-5 1/2) and the 440 yard dash (7.6), a new school indoor record. This marked the third time this season that he has won both these events.

Pat Texidor took the only other first for the Grove in taking the 60 low hurdles (7.6).

The rest of the firsts for Fremd went this way: Bob Dolstowski (45.3) in the shot put, Wally Spiniglas (10:20.4) in the two mile run, Randy Stolt (8.5) in the 60 highs, and Dave Wessener (5.7) in the 50 yard dash. The Vikings also captured the eight lap relay with a timing of 2:57.8. The Grove was two and 2/10 seconds behind. Both teams were disqualified from the four lap affair.

Elk Grove's Bob Bachus set a new school indoor record in the 880 yard run by taking second place with a 2:07.6.

Fremd is now 2-0 against other Mid-Suburban League foes. The Grove is 1-1.

The Vikings will not have another meet until March 15. The Grenadiers will take on Crystal Lake, there, this Saturday.

OPEN CLASSROOM BUILDING BIDS

Construction bids for 14 classroom additions at Anne Fox School and Winston Churchill School were scheduled to be opened at the Dist. 54 board of education meeting last night.

Plans for the two school additions were developed by S. Guy Fishman & Associates of Northbrook.

The two additions form the next phase of a three-year building program in Dist. 54. A $3.75 million expansion program was approved by voters in a school referendum last fall.

Contracts for the additions at Anne Fox and Churchill will be awarded at the same time. The cost of each 14-room addition with equipment is estimated at about $308,000.

THE CLASSROOM additions at Fox and Churchill are planned to be ready for occupancy by October 1969.

Anne Fox School is located in Hanover Park, and Winston Churchill School is at Jones Road and Evergreen, Schaumburg.

Nathan Hale School, a 29-room elementary building, in Dist. 54, is slated to be placed into service later this month. This school has been under construction since May, 1968.

In January of this year, a 14-room addition at MacArthur School was opened for classes. Prior to the opening of the addition, students had been attending classes there on a split-shift basis.

APPROXIMATELY 900 students residing in the southern half of Schaumburg's Weathersfield area will attend Nathan Hale School.

These pupils have been attending Campanelli and Thomas Dooley Schools during the afternoons in a double session schedule.

Nathan Hale School is located north of Wise Road, between Braintree and Springguth. The school is the first two-story building constructed in Dist. 54.

A meeting of all Dist. 54 parents whose children will be attending Nathan Hale beginning this month was held Wednesday night at Dooley School. Karl Plank will be principal at Nathan Hale.

Nathan Hale is the third school in Dist. 54 to be built with money secured from the Illinois School Building Commission (ISBC). It was built at a cost of $12.86 per square foot.

AS NATHAN Hale is nearing completion, bricklayers are busy in constructing a third junior high building in Dist. 54. Jane Addams School. This school building is expected to be ready for occupancy in September of this year. When completed, Jane Addams will be the largest school building in Dist. 54.

It is expected that junior high pupils from Weathersfield and Hanover Park will be assigned to the new school. The school will house approximately 1,300 students.

Dist. 54 construction plans for 1970 include a 14-room addition at Dr. Thomas Dooley School and an additional 20-room elementary building.

By Sept. 1971 the district hopes to add another three 20-room elementary schools and a 14-room addition to an elementary building. Two of the elementary schools would be paid for through ISBC funds.

Tentative sites for the three elementary schools to be built in 1971 include a site east of Dooley School in Campanelli's Unit 14, the Lancer Corp. site east of Roselle Road and south of Schaumburg Road, and the Timbercrest subdivision.

UNDERGROUND PARKING and open courtyard would be features of a proposed 1,200-unit apartment complex in Schaumburg at Algonquin and Quentin roads. Developer is Erich W. Kuntze who built and owns the Country Acre apartment complex in Des Plaines. Architect for the Schaumburg project is Salvatore Balsamo of Chicago.

Parents Are Fretting

54's 'Growing Pains'

Schaumburg School Dist. 54 is experiencing growing pains, and some of the cries of agony are coming from parents in the district.

Most of the unhappy parents are upset because their children will have to walk a greater distance to school once Nathan Hale is opened later this month.

Hale pupils have been attending Dr. Thomas Dooley and Campanelli schools in the afternoon in a double session schedule.

Other parents of pupils who will be moving to Nathan Hale are concerned about possible disruption of their children's daily programs.

SOME FEEL that their youngsters have adjusted to the double-session schedule, and that it should be left alone.

Dist. 54 administrators announced plans for the opening of Nathan Hale Elementary School at a parents meeting Wednesday at Dooley School. About 300 parents attended.

Pupils are expected to move into Nathan Hale sometime toward the end of this month. Approximately 900 pupils will be attending the school.

Dist. 54 Supt. Wayne Schaible told parents that there would continue to be some changes in school boundary lines as long as the growth of the student population continued.

Dist. 54 will provide bus transportation for those pupils who live more than 1½ miles from Nathan Hale School, Schaible said. This transportation will principally apply to residents on Walnut Lane.

PARENTS OF Hale pupils who live between 1 mile and 1½ miles from school may arrange to purchase bus transportation service on a group rate from the Schaumburg Transportation Co., according to school officials. There must be a minimum number of passengers to make such transportation feasible, however.

"What guarantee do I have that my child won't be back in Dooley School next year?" one mother asked.

"There is no guarantee of anything," Schaible said. "Our concern is the best education possible for all of the children in the district," the superintendent declared.

School administrators at Dooley and Campanelli plan to move all afternoon classes to Nathan Hale intact with their present teachers. School will begin at 8:30 a.m. at Hale, because bus transportation is not available at 9.

ALL AFTERNOON classes in Grades 1 through 6 presently meeting at Dooley School will move to Nathan Hale School, according to Principal Karl Plank.

Pupils moving from Camp-

panelli School to Nathan Hale will include all afternoon students, as well as six kindergarten classes.

The Campanelli kindergarten classes moving to Hale include two 9 o'clock classes taught by Miss Debbie Giddings and Mrs. Joy Hine, two 11:15 classes taught by Mrs. Hine and Miss Theodora Skibniewski, and two 1:30 classes taught by Miss Skibniewski and Mrs. Hildebrand.

Transfer of these kindergarten classes will provide room for all first- and second-grade classes at Campanelli.

"Why move the pupils now with just 2½ months left in the school year?" one parent asked Supt. Schaible.

"Otherwise," Schaible replied, "we would have an empty school building standing there and parents complaining that their children were only in school for half a day."

THE DIST. 54 superintendent explained that pupils would be in class for 5½ hours per day at

Hale, compared with the present four hours in afternoon sessions.

Schaible said that he would recommend to the board of education that pupils living within Dooley and Campanelli school boundaries attending Hale be given bus transportation.

Schaible added that those pu-

Unveil Apartments Plan

A 1,200-unit apartment complex, designed with concepts termed new to the Chicago area, was proposed Wednesday for Schaumburg.

The units would be built on 35 acres at the northwest corner of Algonquin and Quentin roads. The petitioners asked for annexation to Schaumburg, but the property lies within Palatine Township and Elementary School Dist. 25.

The proposed density for the apartments would be 34.2 units per acre. That is the highest density of any proposed apartments in Schaumburg and the zoning board members expressed their doubts.

DR. MARTIN J. Coniglio, zoning board member, said, "In the last six months most developers have come to us with a maximum density of 20 units per acre. I know density is a financial consideration, but if the others develop to a density of 20, it's practical for you to do it also."

Developer for the site, Erich W. Kuntze, said the density would detract from the development.

"We're not trying to save money. People coming to the suburbs want something that's exciting. That's why we came to Schaumburg with this project. We're trying to sell a concept, an idea that's different. This will be completely different from anything being built in Illinois or this area."

He said his proposal is based on one in San Mateo, Calif., that has a density of 40 units. "But when you see this project, you'd never realize the density is that high. All you see is green space. That's how our project will be."

He said he would fly the board to San Mateo to see the project.

"THE TIME has come for this area to have the concepts of tomorrow," Kuntze said.

The proposed complex would have 17.5 acres of green or open space. It would consist of connecting three-story buildings and one 10-story building.

The three-story buildings would have an average of 180 units per building and the 10-story building would have 120 units. The complex would include 300 one-bedroom units, 756 two-bedroom units, 72 efficiency units and 72 three-bedroom units.

Rents would range from $170 to $350.

Kuntze said the first unit could be completed by next spring and the second building ready for occupancy by fall. An 8.2-acre lake would be in the center of the units along with recreation facilities.

THE RECREATION facilities would be built along with the first units.

Each 180-unit building would have 165 parking spaces underground and 105 parking spaces above ground.

Kuntze said the development will be oriented for an adult community.

An 8,000-square-foot shopping area is also planned. The center would be for the convenience of residents.

The total cost of the development is expected to be approximately $22 million. The population will be between 3,000 and 4,000. The number of school-age children is estimated at 300.

The developers agreed to donate $100 per unit toward the cultural center.

THE BOARD asked for additional information on the number of school age children the complex would generate, underground parking plans and the amount of open space.

The hearing for the annexation and B-2, planned development zoning, will be continued at the Great Hall.

Music Festival Planned at Conant

More than 1,000 young musicians will be participating in the annual Dist. 54 Music Festival at Conant High School March 15, at 3 p.m.

Vocal and instrumental groups representing the district's 15 elementary and junior high schools will perform in a 90-minute concert. There is no admission charge.

Debra Carroll, Keller Junior High violinist, will be the featured soloist and will perform "Pupil's Concerto No. 2 by F. Seitz."

Selections by vocal and instrumental groups will include Fifty Nifty United States — Ray Charles, Vendant Meadows — Handel, Theme and Fanfare — Moekiwinkle, and Area and Fugue — Handel.

For the finale, the combined choruses and junior high bands will present "Born to be Free."

The Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers (ICPT) has taken a firm stand against tax support for non-public schools, including nun schools.

"Parents who voluntarily deprive themselves of the opportunity to use public tax supported schools because they wish to educate their children in a specific religious atmosphere, or for any other reason, should accept their responsibility for the financial support of the kinds of schools they prefer," states a PTA position paper on the issue.

Local PTA members in Schaumburg School Dist. 54 have been urged by their legislative chairmen to write letters to their state legislators expressing opposition to any state financial aid to non-public schools.

SPECIFICALLY, PTA members are taking a stand against House Bill 46, which calls for the state to provide a per-pupil grant to any non-public school equal to the state aid that would be paid out if that pupil attended public school instead.

Dist. 54 Supt. Wayne Schaible told members of the Schaumburg Area PTA Council recently that the state of Illinois is in a financial crisis, and that there is a real need to increase state aid to public schools. Presently state aid amounts to $400 per pupil.

According to State Representative Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, "it is real great for anyone to talk about aid to parochial schools, but unless they're willing to vote for greatly increased state taxation — an income tax — it's out of the question."

The Illinois PTA organization believes that tax support of any private schools in the state would open the door to support of all private schools desiring such aid.

ACCORDING to the Illinois PTA group, public education is a public service which voters have established through their elected representatives as desirable and in the public interest.

Direct personal benefit by use of the public schools is not involved in the support of public education as an institution, the ICPT contends.

Some state legislators have reported that they have received more mail backing House Bill 46 than for any other bill in recent history.

But catholic spokesmen in St. Hubert's parish, Hoffman Estates, say that the possibility of state aid to parochial schools is a "pie in the sky" idea with no

SIX PERSONS were injured in a chain accident on Algonquin Road in Rolling Meadows Wednesday afternoon. Bernard Gerstein, Hoffman Estates, and his wife Paulette, suffered face and head injuries when the car Gerstein was driving plowed into the rear of a stopped westbound car, driven by Ronald Lucarz who lives in the nearby Three Fountains apartments. Lucarz told police he was waiting to make a left turn onto Newport Ave. and his wheels were turned, so the impact pushed his car into the path of an eastbound cement mixer truck. Lucarz suffered leg injuries, his wife, Dorothy, head injuries, and his mother, Mrs. Florence Tomasiak, a broken leg and head injuries. The driver of the Vulcan Material Co. truck, Peter Christensen of Chicago, complained of chest pains when he climbed out of his vehicle, which rolled over in the ditch as he swerved in an attempt to avoid the crash. Gerstein was cited by Rolling Meadows police for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, although he claimed he did not see brake lights or flashing turn signals on Lucarz' car. Firemen hosed down spilled gasoline until all the cars were removed. (Staff Photos)

Open-Occupancy Stand Cheered

by PAT GERLACH

Three very loud cheers for Schaumburg village officials for their polite refusal last week to be pressured into passage of an open occupancy law.

The aggressive and positive stand of Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher and his trustees in shelving the Clergy Council's proposal will hopefully set a bright example for their counterparts in Hoffman Estates — that is, if it isn't too late.

Undoubtedly, Schaumburg's action may have been somewhat easier in view of the uncontested election of three trustees next month.

On the other hand, in Hoffman Estates, where a hot race for the village presidency and three trustee posts has just begun to pass the brewing point, board members had an opportunity three weeks ago to squelch the issue.

Such action probably would have prevented a rash of emotionalism from clouding many residents' feelings toward all of the 15 candidates.

SCHAUMBURG HAS BEEN openly proclaimed by its elected leaders as a "free and open community into which any person feeling good will toward his fellow men is welcome."

In Hoffman Estates, too, a very similar feeling has prevailed for nearly a dozen years with members of a number of so-called minority groups living and working together happily and willingly without the forced control of local, state or national laws.

Since several of the local clergy have openly introduced the fair-housing proposal to the present administration, it would appear that in calling for a moratorium on further discussion of the subject until after the election, Trustee Howard "Jack" Noble may be attempting a stall.

NEARLY THREE months ago Noble, running for village president on the Hoffman Estates Party (HEP) ticket, told this reporter he personally does not tend to favor passage of a local fair housing law but fears the consequences of turning it down.

Unfortunately the subject has now been opened to the village board and the community and Noble says he favors public hearings and much discussion — but only after April 15 when he hopes to occupy the president's chair.

Unfortunately, too, open occupancy is a very small issue compared with others facing the village such as zoning action, fiscal integrity, professionalism of elected officials, and of course, the big hooker — just where is Hoffman Estates going in the future and how will it get there.

In all fairness to the voter, he should hear from each candidate on all of these topics before April 15.

ALTHOUGH THE fair-housing ordinance is supposedly in preparation now by the village attorney, current Village Pres. Roy Jenkins says there is no possibility of action by the board before the election.

Since the issue and all of the other problems facing the village will be up to a new administration, all the more reason we should hear from all candidates on everything within the next month.

School Support—

real likelihood in the future.

CATHOLIC parents in the Hoffman-Schaumburg area have faced the fact they must rely on themselves at present to financially support their parish school. St. Hubert School presently has 12 teaching nuns. "Tuition is not taxation," says the ICPT.

The 1968-69 budget for St. Hubert School is approximately $129,000. Of this amount $70,000 will be provided for in tuition fees. St. Hubert's parish subsidizes school costs with the remainder of funds that are required.

State Rep. Gene Hoffman contends that "the real crisis in Catholic education has come because there just aren't enough nuns to teach and the private schools have to compete in the job market."

"I just don't think the state can afford to support two separate school systems," Hoffman said recently.

REP. CHAPMAN pointed out that under HB 46 schools run by Black Muslims would be as eligible for state aid as any Catholic or Lutheran school.

Opposition to tax support of non-public schools by the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers is based on three main reasons:

—Private school education has advantages of which many parents do not avail themselves because of the expense of using them. Easing this expense would increase the number of children using private schools.

—There is no better preparation for adult life in a multi-religious and multi-cultural society than the experience of getting to know diverse people during the school years.

—Public schools are available to all children. Making use of such schools or not is a matter of individual choice.

Ryan 3rd Candidate For Dist. 214 Board

James T. Ryan, of 2066 Rosehill, Arlington Heights, today announced he will be a candidate April 12 for a one-year term on the High School Dist.

Obituaries

John P. Meagher

John P. Meagher, 76, died Tuesday in DuPage County Memorial Hospital, Elmhurst.

He was born Oct. 15, 1892, in McComb, Miss., and lived at 4N619 Church Road in Bensenville.

Visitation is today at Gels Funeral Home, 180 S. York Road, Bensenville. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. from the funeral home to St. Alexis Catholic Church in Bensenville, for 11 a.m. mass. Interment will be at St. Joseph Cemetery, River Grove.

Surviving are his widow, Irena; two daughters, Mrs. Virginia Davies of Bensenville, and Mrs. Alice Furlan of Harwood Heights, Ill.; four sons, Tom of Tampa, Fla., Jack of Jacksonville, Fla., Robert and Henry, both of Bensenville; 14 grandchildren; 17 great-grandchildren; a sister, Maggie Rausa of Seattle, Wash.; three brothers, Harry Rausa and Nick Rausa, both of Chicago, and Frank Rausa of Hartsdale, Ala.

Ryan, who had been one of five persons weighed for two school board appointments made last month, said he was encouraged to run and had considered the matter for a long time before deciding to take out candidate petitions.

He said he wanted to assure himself that he could give the school board the proper time and without shorting the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, on which he serves.

In a statement released to the papers he explained, "I specifically announce my candidacy for the one-year term so that each and every voter . . . will have the opportunity to review my record in one year."

RYAN ALSO made these points in his statement:

—That it is "vitally important" to achieve close cooperation between the various plan commissions and the high school districts.

—That the main prerequisites for a school board member are "a willingness to serve and a sense of objectivity . . . I believe I have sufficient objectivity to serve the students, the parents of the students and the taxpayer at-large. A board member must have a feeling of responsibility to each."

—That he would do his best to insure "that, dollar for dollar, this district will have the best

Memorial services will be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the Church of the Good Shepherd, 301 Ridge (corner of Ridge and Landmeier Road) in Elk Grove Village. The Rev. Lloyd Weber will officiate. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Nedra Morbeck of Elk Grove Village, and Mrs. Rada H. Repel of Arlington Heights; a son Hal Mead of Chicago; seven grandchildren; and two sisters.

educational system that it collectively cares to afford."

RYAN TOLD Paddock Publications he felt he could serve as a bridge between the Arlington Heights Plan Commission and the high school district. He pointed out that board member Mrs. Leah Cummins holds a similar position with the Elk Grove Village Plan Commission while board member Frank Bergen serves on the Mount Prospect Plan Commission.

Ryan called for using "leadership, direction and a willingness to listen to legitimate, legally presented student proposals" as the answer to the trend of student "rebellion for rebellion's sake."

Ryan, when he files his petition, will become the third name on the list, a list of candidates for the one-year term. The others are Don McGlothlin of Wheeling and John M. Costello of Mount Prospect, now holding a seat on the board by appointment.

Bunny Home Safely

An injured rabbit was returned safely to its Hanover Park home this week. The pet rabbit is owned by the Walter Demings family of 1825 Evergreen.

The bunny, out for its daily exercise, was injured, perhaps by a child. Unable to move, the rabbit sat on Hollywood until police picked it up.

The Demings family claimed it Monday.

Train Hits Car—Teacher Dies

Carol J. Berry, a teacher at Ridge School in Elk Grove Village, was killed Wednesday when the car she was driving was struck by a train in Villa Park.

Miss Berry, 31, of 515 N. Ardmore Ave., Villa Park, was fatally injured when a west bound freight train struck her car at the Illinois Central railroad crossing at Addison Road, South of North Avenue.

A SECOND grade teacher at Ridge School, Miss Berry had been teaching in the district since September, 1965. Previous district assignments included Ruple and Grant Wood Schools, and had prior experience in Seattle, Wash., and Elgin school systems.

Officials to Discuss Highway Relocation

Sometime late this month officials of all communities along Route 19 (Irving Park Road) will be invited to meet with Illinois Department of Public Works and Buildings personnel to discuss alternate alignments now under consideration for relocation of the highway.

At that time community officials will have the opportunity to express their opinions concerning the most acceptable location, according to information contained in a letter received by The Herald recently from Sigmund C. Ziejewski, district engineer of the highway department.

"Approximately one month after this meeting, the state division of highways will arrange to hold a public hearing at which time all persons affected by the alternate locations under study will be given an opportunity to express their views," Ziejewski's letter explained.

NEITHER meeting date has been set as yet, although Ziejewski said both will be widely publicized as soon as time and meeting places are established.

For the past year, Ziejewski's Elgin office has been investigating several alternate alignments for relocation of the state highway.

Routes under study lie within a two-mile corridor bounded on the north by the existing highway and Wise Road, and on the south by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad and U.S. Route 20.

The portion of the corridor under the jurisdiction of the Elgin office extends from the east end of the Elgin by-pass easterly to Illinois Route 83, Ziejewski said.

Portions east of Illinois Route 83 are under study by the highway department's district 10 office in Chicago.

DURING THE last year highway department officials have met with representatives of several municipalities adjacent to the proposed route but dispils who live more than one mile from Hale will be entitled to eat lunch at school and provided with adult supervision.

"We are trying to get off the split shift as soon as we can," Schaible said. Every effort is made to avoid "split families" in the assignment of schools to pupils, he indicated.

One teacher was upset about the movement of pupils to Nathan Hale. Mrs. Barbara Monda, third-grade teacher at Campanelli in the afternoon, indicated that she was concerned about the disruption of student schedules at what she called "the highest points of the academic year" for pupils. She said that she was content at Campanelli and would prefer to remain there.

However, several parents said they would prefer that their primary grade children attend school in the morning when they were fresh and more alert.

"LAST YEAR at this time all of the parents were upset because we were going on split schedules," Schaible remarked.

cussions have dealt only with tentative plans.

Principal objectors to plans presented during the study were voiced by Schaumburg Pres. Robert O. Atcher and Streamwood Pres. Nick Kusan.

Over $2,000,000,000 will be poured into the pockets of the people of the United States because of the war between Russia and Japan. Of the sum, over half will go into the pockets of the farmer. The man behind the plow in the Middle West now stands as dictator to Russia and Japan. The wheat he raised, the corn he plowed, the cattle he owns are needed in the Far East and when the victor comes to figure up the war indemnity, he will find that the bulk of the expense has gone to the American farmer.

Motorola Cited For Radio Watch

Schaumburg
For sponsorship of a public service program known as Community Radio Watch, Motorola, Inc. has been awarded the second national Crusade of Courage Award of the University Council, a member of the Illinois Chapter of the Knights of Columbus.

Presentation of the award was made at a distinguished awards luncheon held by the Catholic fraternal organization Feb. 17 at the Illinois Athletic Club.

The Community Radio Watch program enlists the aid of companies or individuals with two-way radio or telephone equipment in their vehicles to act as additional "eyes and ears" for local police and safety departments across the nation.

Dr. McCarthy Speaker at St. Peter

Dr. Jean McCarthy, who formerly headed the special education program in School Dist. 54, will speak at the St. Peter Lutheran School parent teacher league meeting Tuesday.

Dr. McCarthy is now a professor at the University of Illinois Circle Campus. She spent several years working to start a special education program for the school district and was a key factor in obtaining funds from the state for the program.

HER TALK will stress the emotional and social adjustments a child must make during his school years.

"Factors Involved in Children's Learning" will help both teachers and parents identify problems a child is experiencing to accomplish adjustments.

The meeting starts at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

LOCAL POLICE departments completely operate and control the CRW program in their respective areas.

Since its inception in 1966, the program has been directly responsible for saving many lives and a great deal of property loss.

Members of the program are cautioned not to become involved in dangerous situations, but only to report what they observe to their radio dispatcher, who in turn notifies police.

The In Way To Cook Out

"The In Way to Cook Out," hints on preparing foods on a barbecue, will be the program at the 8 p.m. March 19 Newcomers Club meeting in the Elgin Young Women's Christian Association.

With the feeling that most barbecuing is done by the male member of the household the club has made this a guest night. Invitations have been extended to Welcome Wagon members and their husbands asking them to join with the newcomers and their husbands for an evening of entertainingly presented information.

Mrs. Richard Henkel is chairman of this program.

Hanover Park
A girl was born in the Oakbrook Fire District ambulance en route to St. Alexius hospital Saturday.

Both the infant and mother, Mrs. Chester Klarkowski of 7011 Hanover St., Hanover Park, are reported well.

Presently over 700 communities, 46,000 companies, and 450,000 individuals are active participants in the CRW program.

In presenting the award to Robert N. Swift, vice president of Motorola, John W. Shanahan, grand knight of University Council, commended the company for outstanding community efforts.

"This important program comes at a very critical time. With rising crime and lawlessness, citizen involvement and greater public support of local police departments appears to be the only tenable solution," Shanahan said.

The first Crusade of Courage award was presented in 1966 to the Walgreen Drug chain for that company's policy of displaying only "decent and wholesome" literature in its 500 stores.

Troop 199 Spends Weekend in Cave

Hoffman Estates
Camping in a cave and winter sports highlighted a recent weekend trip to Wisconsin's Blackhawk country taken by members of Hoffman Estates Boy Scout Troop 199.

Scouts camped in Eagle Cave, said to be Wisconsin's largest natural cave, located in Richmond County.

SINCE THE cave has temperatures in the 50s year around, the scouts enjoyed snug evening hours.

Under the supervision of Phil Moore, of 113 Evergreen Lane, the scouts enjoyed tobogganing, sledding, skating and hiking during the day.

The natural park area, site of a Midwest Scout Jamboree scheduled for Aug. 15 through 25, has 25 miles of hiking trails.

Tiny Tots Slates Its Spring Session

Meeting the needs of the preschool child is the concern of the Elgin Young Women's Christian Association-sponsored Tiny Tots program which begins the spring session during the week of March 17.

Registrations are being accepted at the Y for the single or double classes, which will be held at six different locations for the convenience of parents wishing to enroll their children.

CLASSES ARE held in Elgin at the YWCA, THE Highland Avenue Church of the Brethren and the First United Presbyterian Church.

In Dundee the location is the First Congregational Church on Main Street, in Bartlett at the Immanuel United Church of Christ and in Hanover Park at the Christ Presbyterian Church.

Additional information concerning the Tiny Tots program can be obtained by phoning Mrs. Kenneth Morse, Tiny Tots director, at 742-7930.

Worker Injured

A construction worker, Charles St. Clair, 33, suffered a fractured skull in a fall from the roof of a home in the Churchill Subdivision of Schaumburg Tuesday morning.

St. Clair was taken to St. Alexius Hospital by Schaumburg Fire Department ambulance. He resides at 842 Valley Lane, Geneva.

Youth Severely Cut on Bottle

A 17-year-old youth working on construction in Hanover Park seriously injured himself Saturday opening a bottle of pop, police said.

Garvin Reid, 17, of Box 215, Cary, was brought to the police station for emergency first aid and taken to Sherman Hospital in Elgin.

He told police he was using a knife to open the bottle. The bottle broke, cutting his arm. The youth received 14 stitches and two pints of blood.

PTA to Discuss Generation Gap

The "generation gap," group conformity and rejection will be discussed at the March 18 meeting of Helen Keller Junior High PTA.

James Frank, a member of the Keller guidance staff, will conduct the program and present an accompanying skit.

Specific situations, through the use of dramatization, will be demonstrated and the group will break into sessions to discuss problems.

PTA OFFICERS for the 1968-69 school year will be elected during a short business meeting immediately preceding the program.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the school.

YW Teens Tour Health Center

Teenagers from the Elgin Young Women's Christian Association toured the facilities at the Hinsdale Health Museum Saturday.

Of particular interest to the young people was "Valeda," the talking transparent woman who explained the functions of the various organs of the human body as each section was lighted up.

A BRAIN exhibit, demonstrating the transmission of messages along the nerve pathways, showed the motor and sensory centers of the brain.

The trip was sponsored by the Elgin YW youth department.

Student-Faculty Game at Frost

The Robert Frost Junior High School student-faculty basketball game has been scheduled for March 14 at 8 p.m. at the school.

The Bloomer Girls (women faculty members) will be cheerleaders for their male counterparts and the "real" cheerleaders and pom-pom girls will encourage the eighth grade team to victory.

Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Schmidt of Newport Road, is ill with pneumonia.

Home from spending a week in Springfield, Tenn. are Mr. and Mrs. Russell Jones and children Jeffrey, Mathew and Michelle of Newport Road. They visited Darlene's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur LaValle, and great-grandmother, Mrs. Isabella Collins. While there, they celebrated Michelle's first birthday.

TWO birthdays are being celebrated in the Bob Dutton home on Bedford Road. Bob celebrates his today, March 7, and Cathy will celebrate March 10 with her sister, Julie, brother, Christopher, friends, Christine Bergstrom, Kathy Jacobs, Deana Monaco and Tina Krick, at an afternoon party. She will be 7.

Celebrating their ninth anniversary March 5 were Mr. and Mrs. Archie Ward of Lafayette Lane.

Rachel Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Domek of Pierce Road, celebrated her second birthday March 6 with her family and grandparents, Mrs. Lydia Wienke of Algonquin and Mr. and Mrs. Florian Domek of Mount Prospect.

In the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ostos of Hillcrest Boulevard, Cathy celebrated her 12th birthday Feb. 25 with a slumber party. Staying up all night were classmates, Patty Arkus, Michele Koontz, Lisa Dumluer, Maureen Flynn, Karen Bick, Donna Wishtichin and Jean McNaughton. Suzanne celebrated her third birthday Feb. 25 at a family gathering.

Among the guests were grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Nunez, Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Efreem Ostos, Mount Prospect and other relatives.

Joanne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Sell of Gentry Road, celebrated her 10 birthday Feb. 27 with her family.

FOUR candles were lit on the birthday cake for Julie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Brinkman of Pierce Road, who celebrated March 1 with her family.

Having a seventh birthday March 3 was Bobby, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Seidler of Pierce Road, who celebrated with his family.

Bobby, son of Mr. and Mrs.

A double celebration is being held in the Jack McGilinn home on Northview Lane. Patricia will be 8 March 9, and Laura will be 7 March 15, but there is one party for both, with several friends and schoolmates as guests. Sisters Mary Beth and Jennifer will be on hand to help their sisters celebrate, while their oldest sister, Sharon, and friend, Connie Dolan, entertain the guests.

HERE FROM Columbus, Ohio, are Mrs. Lucille Fabing, Mrs. George Spires and children, Treva and Charles, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fabing and daughters, Deborah and Kimberly, who are guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Fabing of Lafayette Lane. They came for the Saturday wedding of Susan to Gary Dean.

Celebrating a 22nd anniversary are Mr. and Mrs. M. Romanow of Lafayette Lane, who exchanged vows Feb. 25.

Among the guests attending the Golden Menorah dinner from B'nai B'rith women in the home of Mrs. Robert Goodman, Hampton Road, were Mrs. Lawrence Graff, Mrs. Earl Hamberger, Mrs. Donald Woodman and Mrs. Len Goodman.

A new resident to Newport Road is Mrs. Frank Hyde, formerly of California, who is now living with her daughter, Laura and family.

Plans to celebrate Lisa Boyer's seventh birthday, March 5, will include friends, Sharon Hill, Judy Johnson, Diane Barch, Toni Church, Leslie Ambrose and Jeanann Hanson, and sister, Teri. They will see "Pinnocchio" at the Meadows Theater in Rolling Meadows and then return to the Boyer home for cake and ice cream. Lisa is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Boyer of Briarcliff Lane.

DENNIS, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Kelly of Ashley Road, celebrated his Feb. 29 birthday as the guest of honor at dinner at the Black Fox at the Holiday Inn, Rolling Meadows. With him were his family and a friend, Marty Bernau. Dennis was 13.

Eileen Kelly celebrated her second birthday March 1 with the family.

Christened at St. Hubert Catholic Church was Edward Mario, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rusch of Frederick Lane.

Attending, besides the family, were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Columbo, Chicago. Mr. Columbo was also the godfather, grandfather, John Rusch, and the William Prena family all of Norridge. Mrs. Prena was godmother. After the mass, the family returned to the Rusch home for an informal party.

OPEN CLASSROOM BUILDING BIDS

Construction bids for 14 classroom additions at Anne Fox School and Winston Churchill School were scheduled to be opened at the Dist. 54 board of education meeting last night.

Plans for the two school additions were developed by S. Gu yFishman & Associates of Northbrook.

The two additions form the next phase of a three-year building program in Dist. 54. A $3.75 million expansion program was approved by voters in a school referendum last fall.

Contracts for the additions at Anne Fox and Churchill will be awarded at the same time. The cost of each 14-room addition with equipment is estimated at about $308,000.

THE CLASSROOM additions at Fox and Churchill are planned to be ready for occupancy by October 1969.

Anne Fox School is located in Hanover Park, and Winston Churchill School is at Jones Road and Evergreen, Schaumburg.

Nathan Hale School, a 29-room elementary building, in Dist. 54, is slated to be placed into service later this month. This school has been under construction since May, 1968.

In January of this year, a 14-room addition at MacArthur School was opened for classes. Prior to the opening of the addition, students had been attending classes there on a split-shift basis.

APPROXIMATELY 900 students residing in the southern half of Schaumburg's Weathersfield area will attend Nathan Hale School.

These pupils have been attending Campanelli and Thomas Dooley Schools during the afternoon in a double session schedule.

Nathan Hale School is located north of Wise Road, between Braintree and Springsguth. The school is the first two-story building constructed in Dist. 54. A meeting of all Dist. 54 parents whose children will be attending Nathan Hale beginning this month was held Wednesday night at Dooley School. Karl Plank will be principal at Nathan Hale.

Nathan Hale is the third school in Dist. 54 to be built with money secured from the Illinois School Building Commission (ISBC). It was built at a cost of $12.86 per square foot.

AS NATHAN Hale is nearing completion, bricklayers are busy in constructing a third junior high building in Dist. 54, Jane Addams School. This school building is expected to be ready for occupancy in September of this year. When completed, Jane Addams will be the largest school building in Dist. 54.

It is expected that junior high pupils from Weathersfield and Hanover Park will be assigned to the new school. The school will house approximately 1,300 students.

Dist. 54 construction plans for 1970 include a 14-room addition at Dr. Thomas Dooley School and an additional 20-room elementary building. By Sept. 1971 the district hopes to add another three 20-room elementary schools and a 14-room addition to an elementary building. Two of the elementary schools would be paid for through ISBC funds.

Tentative sites for the three elementary schools to be built in 1971 include a site east of Dooley School in Campanelli's Unit 14, the Lancer Corp. site east of Roselle Road and south of Schaumburg Road, and the Timbercrest subdivision.

UNDERGROUND PARKING and open courtyard would be features of a proposed 1,200-unit apartment complex in Schaumburg at Algonquin and Quentin roads. Developer is Erich W. Kuntze who built and owns the Country Acre apartment complex in Des Plaines. Architect for the Schaumburg project is Salvatore Balsamo of Chicago.

Parents Are Fretting

54's 'Growing Pains'

Schaumburg School Dist. 54 is experiencing growing pains, and some of the cries of agony are coming from parents in the district.

Most of the unhappy parents are upset because their children will have to walk a greater distance to school once Nathan Hale is opened later this month.

Hale pupils have been attending Dr. Thomas Dooley and Campanelli schools in the afternoon in a double session schedule.

Other parents of pupils who will be moving to Nathan Hale are concerned about possible disruption of their children's daily programs.

SOME FEEL that their youngsters have adjusted to the double-session schedule, and that it should be left alone.

Dist. 54 administrators announced plans for the opening of Nathan Hale Elementary School at a parents meeting Wednesday at Dooley School. About 300 parents attended.

Pupils are expected to move into Nathan Hale sometime toward the end of this month. Approximately 900 pupils will be attending the school.

Dist. 54 Supt. Wayne Schaible told parents that there would continue to be some changes in school boundary lines as long as the growth of the student population continued.

Dist. 54 will provide bus

transportation for those pupils who live more than 1½ miles from Nathan Hale School, Schaible said. This transportation will principally apply to residents on Walnut Lane.

PARENTS OF Hale pupils who live between 1 mile and 1½ miles from school may arrange to purchase bus transportation service on a group rate from the Schaumburg Transportation Co., according to school officials. There must be a minimum number of passengers to make such transportation feasible, however.

"What guarantee do I have that my child won't be back in Dooley School next year?" one mother asked.

"There is no guarantee of anything," Schaible said. "Our concern is the best education possible for all of the children in the district," the superintendent declared.

School administrators at Dooley and Campanelli plan to move all afternoon classes to Nathan Hale intact with their present teachers. School will begin at 8:30 a.m. at Hale, because bus transportation is not available at 9.

ALL AFTERNOON classes in Grades 1 through 6 presently meeting at Dooley School will move to Nathan Hale School, according to Principal Karl Plank.

Pupils moving from Camp-

panelli School to Nathan Hale will include all afternoon students, as well as six kindergarten classes.

The Campanelli kindergarten classes moving to Hale include two 9 o'clock classes taught by Miss Debbie Giddings and Mrs. Joy Hine, two 11:15 classes taught by Mrs. Hine and Miss Theodora Skibniewski; and two 1:30 classes taught by Miss Skibniewski and Mrs. Hildebrand.

Transfer of these kindergarten classes will provide room for all first- and second-grade classes at Campanelli.

"Why move the pupils now with just 2½ months left in the school year?" one parent asked Supt. Schaible.

"Otherwise," Schaible replied, "we would have an empty school building standing there and parents complaining that their children were only in school for half a day."

THE DIST. 54 superintendent explained that pupils would be in class for 5½ hours per day at

Hale, compared with the present four hours in afternoon sessions.

Schaible said that he would recommend to the board of education that pupils living within Dooley and Campanelli school boundaries attending Hale be given bus transportation.

Schaible added that those pu-

A 1,200-unit apartment complex, designed with concepts termed new to the Chicago area, was proposed Wednesday for Schaumburg.

The units would be built on 35 acres at the northwest corner of Algonquin and Quentin roads. The petitioners asked for annexation to Schaumburg, but the property lies within Palatine Township and Elementary School Dist. 25.

The proposed density for the apartments would be 34.2 units per acre. That is the highest density of any proposed apartments in Schaumburg and the zoning board members expressed their doubts.

DR. MARTIN J. Coniglio, zoning board member, said, "In the last six months most developers have come to us with a maximum density of 20 units per acre. I know density is a financial consideration, but if the others develop to a density of 20, it's practical for you to do it also."

Developer for the site, Erich W. Kuntze, said the density would detract from the development.

"We're not trying to save money. People coming to the suburbs want something that's exciting. That's why we came to Schaumburg with this project. We're trying to sell a concept, an idea that's different. This will be completely different from anything being built in Illinois or this area."

He said his proposal is based on one in San Mateo, Calif., that has a density of 40 units. "But when you see this project, you'd never realize the density is that high. All you see is green space. That's how our project will be."

He said he would fly the board to San Mateo to see the project.

"THE TIME has come for this area to have the concepts of tomorrow," Kuntze said.

The proposed complex would have 17.5 acres of green or open space. It would consist of connecting three-story buildings and one 10-story building.

The three-story buildings would have an average of 180 units per building and the 10-story building would have 120 units. The complex would include 300 one-bedroom units, 756 two-bedroom units, 72 efficiency units and 72 three-bedroom units.

Rents would range from $170 to $350.

Kuntze said the first unit could be completed by next spring and the second building ready for occupancy by fall. An 8.2-acre lake would be in the center of the units along with recreation facilities.

THE RECREATION facilities would be built along with the first units.

Each 180-unit building would have 165 parking spaces underground and 105 parking spaces above ground.

Kuntze said the development will be oriented for an adult community.

An 8,000-square-foot shopping area is also planned. The center would be for the convenience of residents.

The total cost of the development is expected to be approximately $22 million. The population will be between 3,000 and 4,000. The number of school-age children is estimated at 300.

The developers agreed to donate $100 per unit toward the cultural center.

THE BOARD asked for additional information on the number of school age children the complex would generate, underground parking plans and the amount of open space.

The hearing for the annexation and B-2, planned developing zoning, will be continued at the Crest Hall.

Music Festival Planned at Conant

More than 1,000 young musicians will be participating in the annual Dist. 54 Music Festival at Conant High School March 13, at 3 p.m.

Vocal and instrumental groups representing the district's 15 elementary and junior high schools will perform in a 90-minute concert. There is no admission charge.

Debra Carroll, Keller Junior High violinist, will be the featured soloist and will perform "Pupils' Concerto No. 2 by F. Seitz."

Selections by vocal and instrumental groups will include Fifty Nifty United States — Ray Charles, Vendant Meadows — Handel, Theme and Fanfare — Moecklwinke, and Area and Fugue — Handel.

For the finale, the combined choruses and junior high bands will present "Born to be Free."

The Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers (ICPT) has taken a firm stand against tax support for non-public schools, including nun schools.

"Parents who voluntarily deprive themselves of the opportunity to use public tax supported schools because they wish to educate their children in a specific religious atmosphere, or for any other reason, should accept their responsibility for the financial support of the kinds of schools they prefer," states a PTA position paper on the issue.

Local PTA members in Schaumburg School Dist. 54 have been urged by their legislative chairmen to write letters to their state legislators expressing opposition to any state financial aid to non-public schools.

SPECIFICALLY, PTA members are taking a stand against House Bill 46, which calls for the state to provide a per-pupil grant to any non-public school equal to the state aid that would be paid out if that pupil attended public school instead.

Dist. 54 Supt. Wayne Schaible told members of the Schaumburg Area PTA Council recently that the state of Illinois is in a financial crisis, and that there is a real need to increase state aid to public schools. Presently state aid amounts to $400 per pupil.

According to State Representative Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, "it is real great for anyone to talk about aid to parochial schools, but unless they're willing to vote for greatly increased state taxation — an income tax — it's out of the question."

The Illinois PTA organization believes that tax support of any private schools in the state would open the door to support of all private schools desiring such aid.

ACCORDING to the Illinois PTA group, public education is a public service which voters have established through their elected representatives as desirable and in the public interest.

Direct personal benefit by use of the public schools is not involved in the support of public education as an institution, the ICPT contends.

Some state legislators have reported that they have received more mail backing House Bill 46 than for any other bill in recent history.

But catholic spokesmen in St. Hubert's parish, Hoffman Estates, say that the possibility of state aid to parochial schools is a "pie in the sky" idea with no

OPEN CLASSROOM BUILDING BIDS

Construction bids for 14 classroom additions at Anne Fox School and Winston Churchill School were scheduled to be opened at the Dist. 54 board of education meeting last night.

Plans for the two school additions were developed by S. Gu yFishman & Associates of Northbrook.

The two additions form the next phase of a three-year building program in Dist. 54. A $3.75 million expansion program was approved by voters in a school referendum last fall.

Contracts for the additions at Anne Fox and Churchill will be awarded at the same time. The cost of each 14-room addition with equipment is estimated at about $308,000.

THE CLASSROOM additions at Fox and Churchill are planned to be ready for occupancy by October 1969.

Anne Fox School is located in Hanover Park, and Winston Churchill School is at Jones Road and Evergreen, Schaumburg.

Nathan Hale School, a 20-room elementary building, in Dist. 54, is slated to be placed into service later this month. This school has been under construction since May, 1968.

In January of this year, a 14-room addition at MacArthur School was opened for classes. Prior to the opening of the addition, students had been attending classes there on a split-shift basis.

APPROXIMATELY 900 students residing in the southern half of Schaumburg's Weathersfield area will attend Nathan Hale School.

These pupils have been attending Campanelli and Thomas Dooley Schools during the afternoons in a double session schedule.

Nathan Hale School is located north of Wise Road, between Braintree and Springguth. The school is the first two-story building constructed in Dist. 54. A meeting of all Dist. 54 parents whose children will be attending Nathan Hale beginning this month was held Wednesday night at Dooley School. Karl Plank will be principal at Nathan Hale.

Nathan Hale is the third school in Dist. 54 to be built with money secured from the Illinois School Building Commission (ISBC). It was built at a cost of $12.86 per square foot.

AS NATHAN Hale is nearing completion, bricklayers are busy in constructing a third junior high building in Dist. 54, Jane Addams School. This school building is expected to be ready for occupancy in September of this year. When completed, Jane Addams will be the largest school building in Dist. 54.

It is expected that junior high pupils from Weathersfield and Hanover Park will be assigned to the new school. The school will house approximately 1,300 students.

Dist. 54 construction plans for 1970 include a 14-room addition at Dr. Thomas Dooley School and an additional 20-room elementary building.

By Sept. 1971 the district hopes to add another three 20-room elementary schools and a 14-room addition to an elementary building. Two of the elementary schools would be paid for through ISBC funds.

Tentative sites for the three elementary schools to be built in 1971 include a site east of Dooley School in Campanelli's Unit 14, the Lancer Corp. site east of Roselle Road and south of Schaumburg Road, and the Timbercrest subdivision.

UNDERGROUND PARKING and open courtyard would be features of a proposed 1,200-unit apartment complex in Schaumburg at Algonquin and Quentin roads. Developer is Erich W. Kuntze who built and owns the Country Acre apartment complex in Des Plaines. Architect for the Schaumburg project is Salvatore Balsamo of Chicago.

Parents Are Fretting

54's 'Growing Pains'

Schaumburg School Dist. 54 is experiencing growing pains, and some of the cries of agony are coming from parents in the district.

Most of the unhappy parents are upset because their children will have to walk a greater distance to school once Nathan Hale is opened later this month.

Hale pupils have been attending Dr. Thomas Dooley and Campanelli schools in the afternoon in a double session schedule.

Other parents of pupils who will be moving to Nathan Hale are concerned about possible disruption of their children's daily programs.

SOME FEEL that their youngsters have adjusted to the double-session schedule, and that it should be left alone.

Dist. 54 administrators announced plans for the opening of Nathan Hale Elementary School at a parents meeting Wednesday at Dooley School. About 900 parents attended.

Pupils are expected to move into Nathan Hale sometime toward the end of this month. Approximately 900 pupils will be attending the school.

Dist. 54 Supt. Wayne Schaible told parents that there would continue to be some changes in school boundary lines as long as the growth of the student population continued.

Dist. 54 will provide bus

transportation for those pupils who live more than 1½ miles from Nathan Hale School, Schaible said. This transportation will principally apply to residents on Walnut Lane.

PARENTS OF Hale pupils who live between 1 mile and 1½ miles from school may arrange to purchase bus transportation service on a group rate from the Schaumburg Transportation Co., according to school officials. There must be a minimum number of passengers to make such transportation feasible, however.

"What guarantee do I have that my child won't be back in Dooley School next year?" one mother asked.

"There is no guarantee of anything," Schaible said. "Our concern is the best education possible for all of the children in the district," the superintendent declared.

School administrators at Dooley and Campanelli plan to move all afternoon classes to Nathan Hale intact with their present teachers. School will begin at 8:30 a.m. at Hale, because bus transportation is not available at 9.

ALL AFTERNOON classes in Grades 1 through 6 presently meeting at Dooley School will move to Nathan Hale School, according to Principal Karl Plank.

Pupils moving from Camp-

panelli School to Nathan Hale will include all afternoon students, as well as six kindergarten classes.

The Campanelli kindergarten classes moving to Hale include two 9 o'clock classes taught by Miss Debbie Giddings and Mrs. Joy Hine, two 11:15 classes taught by Mrs. Hine and Miss Theodora Skibniewski; and two 1:30 classes taught by Miss Skibniewski and Mrs. Hildebrand.

Transfer of these kindergarten classes will provide room for all first- and second-grade classes at Campanelli.

SIX PERSONS were injured in a chain accident on Algonquin Road in Rolling Meadows Wednesday afternoon. Bernard Gerstein, Hoffman Estates, and his wife, Paulette, suffered face and head injuries when the car Gerstein was driving plowed into the rear of a stopped westbound car, driven by Ronald Lucarz who lives in the nearby Three Fountains apartments. Lucarz told police he was waiting to make a left turn onto Newport Ave. and his wheels were turned, so the impact pushed his car into the path of an eastbound cement mixer truck. Lucarz suffered leg injuries, his wife, Dorothy, head injuries, and his mother, Mrs. Florence Tomasiak, a broken leg and head injuries. The driver of the Vulcan Material Co. truck, Peter Christensen of Chicago, complained of chest pains when he climbed out of his vehicle, which rolled over in the ditch as he swerved in an attempt to avoid the crash. Gerstein was cited by Rolling Meadows police for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, although he claimed he did not see brake lights or flashing turn signals on Lucarz' car. Firemen hosed down spilled gasoline until all the cars were removed. (Staff Photos)

ELECTION INTEREST IS DOWN

With 15 days remaining until deadline, an apparent lack of interest has been shown in the Dist. 15 school board elections. Otto Eilering and Joel Meyer, incumbent board members, are unopposed for the April 1st election.

Last year, William Jones of Palatine, ran against three incumbents and was defeated. Indications are that the lack of an overriding issue, rather than public indifference, could be the reason for the lack of competition.

The monthly board meetings have not fallen off in recent months and there have been other years when candidates ran unopposed.

Jones ran as a "concerned citizen," who voiced no serious objections to the board. However, incumbents knew one of them could lose and the election generated some interest.

EILERING, a Palatine resident, is seeking his third term. He has served on the transportation and salary committees. "I have enjoyed my work on the board up to the present time and I am looking to see the things I am now working on become effective."

Eilering is an engineer at Westinghouse. Meyer is seeking his fifth term. An administrator at Northwestern University, he served on school board committees on finance, salary and professional negotiations and the steering and administrative committees.

"After 12 years on the board, you have to enjoy it with all the work you have to do," he said.

The Dist. 15 election contrasts sharply with its counterpart in Dist. 211, which is hotly contested.

INCUMBENTS James Humphrey and William Fremd are being opposed by Richard Chierico and Mrs. Carolyn Mullins, although the latter has the backing of incumbent Donald Truitt, who will not seek re-election.

Chierico and Fremd are from an unincorporated area and one of them must be elected. Should both men be elected, it would mean a one incumbent-backed candidate would defeat another.

Candidates' Night Set

Candidates hoping to win voter approval to an elected office in the April elections will have the chance to present their views at a Candidates' Night on March 31 sponsored by the Palatine League of Women Voters.

The league is inviting persons who have filed candidate petitions for elections to the Palatine Village Board, Palatine Township Board, High School Dist. 211 and Elementary School Dist. 15.

Other persons to be invited include candidates for the Palatine library board, Inverness village board, Harper Junior College, Palatine Park Dist., Salt Creek Rural Park Dist., Inverness Park Dist., and Palatine Township school trustee.

LEAGUE members are hoping all candidates will attend the session, but definitely are expecting candidates in elections where there is a contest.

Incumbents are opposed in the township, Palatine Park Dist., and High School Dist. 211.

All the candidates will be introduced, but will not be asked to give opening remarks. After the introductions, the forum will be opened to questions from the audience.

Elections for township officials and park district commissioners will be held the day after the forum on April 1.

School elections fall on April 12, the second Saturday, and library and village officials will be elected on April 15.

The Candidates' Night will be held in the cafeteria of Fremd High School, beginning at 7:45 p.m.

Reappoint Mosquito Abatement Trustees

Three trustees of the Northwest Mosquito Abatement Dist. will be re-appointed to three-year terms in spite of questions posed by Palatine's mosquito investigating committee since last July.

Although Judge Harry Comerford delayed the re-appointments since December so he could meet with trustees and the committee, he said the present board will continue as policy makers of the district after the meeting on Tuesday afternoon.

The meeting was called by the judge "to promote an exchange of ideas and intelligent co-operation between the committee from Palatine and trustees," he said.

"I hope we accomplished this," he added.

CHAIRMAN OF the mosquito investigating committee appointed by Village Pres. John Moodie last summer is Mrs. Clayton Brown, who said, "The judge had to arrive at the decision to re-appoint trustees based on the information presented."

After attending several NMAD meetings and gathering information about the district and mosquito control, the committee submitted the names of four residents to be considered for trustee positions.

"The committee thought that men with technical knowledge applicable to mosquito control should be considered for the job," Mrs. Brown explained.

"But the judge's only recourse was to re-appoint the trustees because we deliberately did not present all the information we have compiled," she said.

"TO PRESENT all of it on Tuesday would not have accomplished anything. However, it will accomplish something when we include it in a report to our board along with our recommendations," she said.

The committee hopes to have its report ready within two weeks for village trustees to study.

A basic conclusion of the committee's study has been that more permanent control methods and less temporary control techniques should be started by the mosquito district.

"I have no way of knowing if this is the correct approach to mosquito abatement," Judge Comerford admitted.

After the meeting on Tuesday, NMAD trustees and the director, Wilbur Mitchell will be willing to listen to suggestions from the Palatine group, according to the judge.

"TAXPAYERS are entitled to be heard, if they have a complaint — that's why I called the meeting this week," he said.

Asked if the Palatine committee's only method of complaint was through the appointing judge, he said, "I wouldn't like to think a meeting like this was necessary to do that."

"But there was an apparent communication breakdown between the trustees and the group from Palatine," he admitted.

Since the committee was formed, it has experienced problems in collecting all the information necessary for a thorough study of why Palatine was swarming with mosquitoes last summer.

THE JUDGE said he was aware of the problem, but thinks the problem was solved at Tuesday's meeting.

At the meeting, NMAD Trustee Richard David of Hoffman Estates said the district's tax rate is a negligible amount on the average tax bill, according to Mrs. Brown.

"But it's not insignificant when you look at the district's total budget which comes to more than $300,000," she said.

"This is taxation without representation because we have no control over the board of

Chamber Is Coordinating

by MARTHA KOPER
(third of a series.)

Members of Palatine's Chamber of Commerce aren't living on an island, due largely to the newly organized committee in charge of public and civic club relations.

Its goal is not only to create a good image of the business community, but to establish a sound, working relationship with organizations in the village.

"We are seeking coordination and cooperation of every organization in the community," explained Mrs. Ruth Ryan, chairman of the committee.

One of her first jobs when she was chosen to head the group in January was to contact every club in the village asking for a list of special events during 1969.

THE REASON is simple. Most Palatine groups schedule at least a couple of dinner-dances, or an annual meeting, or some other kind of special event during the year. And most Palatine people, including chamber members, belong to more than one of these organizations.

So the chamber saw an immediate need to coordinate all special events so members would not be forced to choose among several activities all possibly scheduled for the same evening.

"So far, it's working out very well," Mrs. Ryan said.

"We have been able to compile quite a list of future activities in Palatine and are attempting to plan our special events at other times," she explained.

THERE'S MORE to the committee's work than avoiding a conflict in dates though.

"We also hope to be able to set up a system of reciprocal support for major programs of the clubs and our activities," Mrs. Ryan said.

Almost every club in Palatine has some kind of fund-raising project during the year and the chamber of commerce wants to help promote worthy projects by using its sources of support in the business community.

Probably the chamber committee's major purpose related to other organizations is convincing their members to shop in Palatine.

As the committee grows, Mrs. Ryan hopes to build enough strength in the group to establish a direct line into every village organization.

"I'D LIKE to have someone from the committee appear before each group and make a short speech emphasizing the reason to keep your money in Palatine," she explained.

"Some people are surprised to find out that 2 per cent of the 5 per cent sales tax stays in the village," she added.

And so after only a few months of operation, the path seems to be clearing toward a cooperative and coordinated spirit among Palatine's organizations.

"The recognition just wasn't there before. That's probably because we were going our separate ways," Mrs. Ryan said.

"But I think it's a different story now," she smiled.

In the midst of all these time-consuming activities, the chamber's public relations committee also is working to create an image.

BUT THE image extends further than the business community.

"We're trying to push the idea of Palatine — A Retail Home Town," Mrs. Ryan said.

That's this year's slogan of the Chamber of Commerce and the committee thinks if this image can be created in the entire village, undoubtedly it also will help local business. (Next: The chamber enters legislative matters.)

Reject Re-zoning

Fear of increasing traffic problems by Winston Park homeowners in Palatine was removed Wednesday night when re-zoning for one of the largest proposed apartment developments in the area was rejected.

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission overwhelmingly voted to recommend denial of Miller Builders' petition that would have paved the way for construction of more than 600 apartments on the 45-acre tract northeast of the Palatine Road-

Route 53 interchange.

Approval of such a project undoubtedly would have increased traffic flow along Anderson, Williams and Winston Drives in Palatine.

PROPOSAL to close either the Winston or Williams Drive intersection with Palatine Drive were made last fall. But residents of Winston Park subdivision strongly objected since it would leave only one road connecting the area with the junior expressway, Palatine Road.

Drain Error Miffs Library Trustees

Rolling Meadows library trustees, who thought surface-water drainage problems would be solved through landscaping, were angered this week when asked to approve a $1,200 drain line in a new attempt to correct the situation.

Raymond Uecker, landscape architect, laid part of the blame on the concrete contractor who missed the proper grade in installing sidewalks.

As a result, pockets of water stand near the building.

UECKER SAYS grade of the building was set according to the street grade. However, there is a sharp rise between the street and public sidewalk, leaving only a slight rise to the building to handle surface drainage.

"We hoped the landscaping would handle this," he said.

Now a drain line from near the building across the parking lot to a storm sewer is proposed.

Uecker is recommending sloping the parking lot surface to the center where his plan calls for a catch basin.

"So a goof in construction is going to cost us $1,200," groused Richard Davis, backing Tom Grossman who expressed anger at the additional cost.

Davis suggested Uecker should split the cost, and Uecker did, as the discussion became tense, say he would bear the cost if still further drainage problems develop, as foreseen by John Lund.

THE BOARD authorized a $200 engineering survey to determine the value of the proposed drain line, and will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday to study the results of the survey.

If the drain line is approved, it should be installed before landscape work resumes in early April, Uecker advised.

New High School Is Planned

Plans for the new Rolling Meadows High School will headline the agenda for a "town meeting" at Carl Sandburg School next Thursday evening.

The Chamber of Commerce has invited Jack Martin, assistant to the superintendent of High School Dist. 214. He will explain to the people of the city the April 12 referendum for a building on the Central Road site in the city, and the necessity for increases in tax rates, both educational and building.

Construction of a high school in the city is considered by civic leaders as vitally important to the community.

ALL INTERESTED residents are urged to attend the open meeting.

A second topic on the agenda for the public meeting will be a talk by Albert W. Gass of the Northwest Cooperative Mental Health Assn., whose subject will be mental health needs and resources of the community.

The Chamber of Commerce will serve refreshments after the program.

New Township Maps

New maps of Palatine Township offered free from the Palatine Chamber of Commerce can be obtained at any one of 46 different spots in the area beginning today.

Many Chamber of Commerce members have offered their places of business as map depots.

As a service project to residents, the chamber decided an updated layout of the township was necessary several months ago.

A TOTAL OF 5,000 were returned from the printers late last month and now are available to any resident in the township.

Over $2,000,000,000 will be poured into the pockets of the people of the United States because of the war between Russia and Japan. Of the sum, over half will go into the pockets of the farmer. The man behind the plow in the Middle West now stands as dictator to Russia and Japan. The wheat he raised, the corn he plowed, the cattle he owns are needed in the Far East and when the victor comes to figure up the war indemnity, he will find that the bulk of the expense has gone to the American farmer.

50 YEARS AGO

Cook County Herald, March 7, 1919.

The regular meeting of the Arlington Heights Village Board was held Monday, March 3, 1919.

The finance committee reported favorably on bills and pay roll amounting to $232.60 which were ordered to be paid.

A petition signed by property owners abutting north Dunton Avenue from the end of the paving to the village limits pledging $200 to have the road fixed up by putting on crushed stone, was referred to the street committee.

The treasurer's report, showing a balance of $467.74 was read and referred to the finance committee.

The death sentence, as it is applied in Illinois, is arbitrary, rare, haphazard and useless as a deterrent to capital offenses. So concludes a survey released last week by Eugene S. Zemans, executive director of Chicago's John Howard Association.

The study was made in connection with a proposal in the Illinois legislature to establish a six-year moratorium on the use of the death sentence.

Ryan 3rd Candidate For Dist. 214 Board

James T. Ryan, of 2006 Rosehill, Arlington Heights, today announced he will be a candidate April 12 for a one-year term on the High School Dist. 214 board.

Ryan, who had been one of five persons weighed for two school board appointments made last month, said he was encouraged to run and had considered the matter for a long time before deciding to take out candidate petitions.

He said he wanted to assure himself that he could give the school board the proper time and without shorting the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, on which he serves.

In a statement released to the papers he explained, "I specifically announce my candidacy for the one-year term so that each and every voter will have the opportunity to review my record in one year."

RYAN ALSO made these points in his statement:

—That it is "vitally important" to achieve close cooperation between the various plan commissions and the high school districts.

—That the main prerequisites for a school board member are "a willingness to serve and a sense of objectivity. . . I believe I have sufficient objectivity to serve the students, the parents of the students and the taxpayer at-large. A board member must have a feeling of responsibility to each."

—That he would do his best to insure "that, dollar for dollar, this district will have the best educational system that it collectively cares to afford."

Zoning Study Of High Rise

Plans for the proposed high-rise motel on Arlington Park Race Track property at Rohlfing Road and Euclid Ave. will be considered jointly by the special zoning commission and the zoning board of appeals.

The combined public hearing will be held at 8 p.m. March 20 in the council chambers of Rolling Meadows city hall.

The land on the northwest corner of the intersection is now zoned M-1, light industrial, under the Rolling Meadows zoning code.

Petitioners ask a change to R-7, apartment, office and institutional district, to permit construction of a 400-room motor inn similar to the Marriott near O'Hare Field.

The high rise design will also require a variation from the 60-foot limitation set in the zoning code.

Outsider To Take Crown

A champion will be crowned in the Palatine Regional basketball tournament tonight but, unfortunately, it won't be one of the two Palatine High Schools.

Both Palatine and Fremd high schools were eliminated from the regional round of the state basketball tournament in their first contest Tuesday night.

Palatine's Pirates were emphatically bounced from the tourney by long-time rival Arlington, 84-52.

FREMD MADE it a lot closer before bowing to another Arlington Heights school in the second game. In that one, the Vikings lost to St. Viator 51-49.

Tonight's championship game, to begin at 7:30 p.m., will match Wheeling against the winner of last night's contest between Arlington and St. Viator. Wheeling advanced to the championship by defeating Mundelein Wednesday.

The winner of tonight's game will advance to the sectional round of the tourney next week at Arlington.

Between the Lines Responsibility Leans Two Ways

by ED MURNANE
City Editor

Everyone talks about the responsibilities public office holders have to the people who elected them.

When school taxes go up, school board members are blamed because they, in the eyes of the taxpayer, are responsible for providing the best possible education at the lowest possible cost—which means no tax increases.

When streets are chopped up or basements are flooded, the village or city officials are responsible because, after all, they were elected to solve these problems and they'd better do it.

When park facilities are not as adequate as parents would like for their children, the park district officials hear about it because they are the ones who are supposed to be providing outstanding recreational facilities for their constituents.

THE responsibilities, although maybe somewhat overdramatized here, are heavy on office holders and most of them should be commended for their willingness to face them.

But at this time of year, particularly during the next six weeks, the responsibilities fall on other shoulders too—the shoulders of the voters.

This is the time—the eve of local elections—when candidates put their qualifications and their records on the line.

And the voters, whose responsibility is to see that only the best candidates are elected, can only do that by getting to know the candidates, their qualifications, and just how the election of one candidate or another will affect the community.

Fortunately, there are a number of occasions during the campaign when voters can meet the candidates and question them on issues, qualifications and past records.

Failure by the voters to take these opportunities, whether they be the candidates night sponsored by the League of Women Voters or candidate forums sponsored by school districts, takes a lot of steam out of the same voters' complaints during the balance of the year.

LAST YEAR, when High School Dist. 211 scheduled voter information sessions prior to a referendum, fewer than 20 people in both Palatine and Schaumburg Townships attended.

That display of apathy by the voters was unprecedented, and it should never be allowed to happen again. Voters who do not take the time and interest to inform themselves and become qualified to vote have no business entering the voting booth and even less business complaining when elected officials perform in a manner they said they would during the campaign.

What kind of investment is Freedom Shares?

☐Shrewd? ☐Safe? ☐Patriotic? ☐Exclusive?

You're right if you checked all four boxes.

Freedom Shares are a shrewd investment because they pay 4.74% when held to maturity. They mature in just four-and-a-half years, and are redeemable after one year.

There is no safer investment because Freedom Shares are backed by The United States of America.

Exclusive? Absolutely. Not everyone can buy new Freedom Shares. You have to belong to the Bond-a-Month or Payroll Savings Plan. Freedom Shares are a bonus opportunity for these regular Bond buyers.

And, as you help yourself by buying Freedom Shares, you're also helping your country. Sign up for Freedom. Get all the facts from the payroll people where you work or any officer where you bank.

Voice Nursing Home Objection

Opposition from homeowners along South Quentin Road to a proposed 200-bed nursing home was expressed at a public hearing held by the Palatine Plan Commission Tuesday night.

Four Seasons Nursing Centers of America, Inc. is petitioning for annexation of more than four acres at the corner of Illinois and Quentin in order to construct the facility.

Although re-zoning of the tract already has been granted by the county board, owners would like to annex to Palatine in order to get water and sewer facilities from the village.

The main objection from homeowners stemmed from their belief that a nursing home would destroy the residential atmosphere of the area. Representatives from homes adjacent to the four-acre tract and from homes in the new Hunting Ridge Subdivision west of Quentin all voiced objection to the proposal.

THEY ALSO expressed concern over possible traffic problems since the nursing home would be located almost directly across the street from Fremd High School.

The petitioner called witnesses who testified land values would be increased by location of the nursing home in that spot.

A representative from the nursing home company which has built similar facilities in neighboring suburbs said the company's other homes had been built in areas similar to the spot on Quentin Road with success.

The architect, Richard Hansen of Chicago, told the plan commission the nursing home will be set back 95 feet from Quentin Road. It will be a four-winged structure and take eight to nine months to build.

PALATINE homeowners asked the plan commission to strongly object to the nursing home and send a recommendation to the village board asking denial of the request.

They presented a petition against the project signed by 60 homeowners in the area.

The plan commission will meet Tuesday to discuss the project and decide what to recommend to the village board.

Jeri Nadine Lind, a freshman at Monmouth College was recently pledged to the Beta Epsilon chapter of Alpha Xi Delta sorority.

Miss Lind is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Lind of 451 Comfort Lane, Palatine.

THE CORNER OF Quentin Road and Illinois in Palatine Township may be getting a new look if a nursing home's petition for annexation is granted by Palatine's board of trustees. However, homeowners in the area are strongly objecting to the 200-bed facility and have asked the plan commission to recommend denial of the petition for annexation.

Cramer To Talk To Present Documentary Of Mexico

The First United Methodist Church of Palatine will present its second Lenten series on Sunday evening, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Fred Cramer, a former member of the church and resident of Palatine, will be the speaker. His presentation, entitled "Sacred and Profane," is an attempt of a young seminarian through photography and music to confront Western Man.

CRAMER attended schools in Palatine until his graduation from Palatine High School in 1961. He completed undergraduate work at Illinois Wesleyan University in Bloomington, Ill. in 1966 and now is a student at Garrett Theological Seminary. He has been ordained deacon in the Central Illinois Conference.

After the Sunday evening program, refreshments will be served by members of the Commission on Missions in Fellowship Hall.

THE ACCEPTED INFLUENCE IN THE NORTHWEST SUBURBS

PALATINE TOWNSHIP Democrats are going to use all possible resources during this year's election campaign, including the energy of the Democratic Woman's Organization Township Committeeman Peter J. Gerling, is launching his campaign for highway commissioner with the help of Mrs. George Fruzyan (seated), new president of the woman's organization, and Mrs. John Beacham, committeewoman. The two gals are interested in other races, too, as both their husbands are seeking offices. George Fruzyan is running for auditor and John Beacham is a candidate for supervisor.

SIX PERSONS were injured in a chain accident on Algonquin Road in Rolling Meadows Wednesday afternoon. Bernard Gerstein, Hoffman Estates, and his wife, Paulette, suffered face and head injuries when the car Gerstein was driving plowed into the rear of a stopped westbound car, driven by Ronald Lucarz who lives in the nearby Three Fountains apartments. Lucarz told police he was waiting to make a left turn onto Newport Ave. and his wheels were turned, so the impact pushed his car into the path of an eastbound cement mixer truck. Lucarz suffered leg injuries, his wife, Dorothy, head injuries, and his mother, Mrs. Florence Tomasiak, a broken leg and head injuries. The driver of the Vulcan Material Co. truck, Peter Christensen of Chicago, complained of chest pains when he climbed out of his vehicle, which rolled over in the ditch as he swerved in an attempt to avoid the crash. Gerstein was cited by Rolling Meadows police for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, although he claimed he did not see brake lights or flashing turn signals on Lucarz' car. Firemen hosed down spilled gasoline until all the cars were removed. (Staff Photos)

ELECTION INTEREST IS DOWN

With 15 days remaining until deadline, an apparent lack of interest has been shown in the Dist. 15 school board elections. Otto Eilering and Joel Meyer, incumbent board members, are unopposed for the April 1st election.

Last year, William Jones of Palatine, ran against three incumbents and was defeated. Indications are that the lack of an overriding issue, rather than public indifference, could be the reason for the lack of competition. The monthly board meetings have not fallen off in recent months and there have been other years when candidates ran unopposed.

Jones ran as a "concerned citizen," who voiced no serious objections to the board. However, incumbents knew one of them could lose and the election generated some interest.

EILERING, a Palatine resident, is seeking his third term. He has served on the transportation and salary committees. "I have enjoyed my work on the board up to the present time and I am looking to see the things I am now working on become effective." Eilering is an engineer at Westinghouse.

Meyer is seeking his fifth term. An administrator at Northwestern University, he served on school board committees on finance, salary and professional negotiations and the steering and administrative committees.

"After 12 years on the board, you have to enjoy it with all the work you have to do," he said.

The Dist. 15 election contrasts sharply with its counterpart in Dist. 211, which is hotly contested.

INCUMBENTS James Humphrey and William Fremd are being opposed by Richard Chierico and Mrs. Carolyn Mullins, although the latter has the backing of incumbent Donald Truitt, who will not seek reelection.

Chierico and Fremd are from an unincorporated area and one of them must be elected. Should both men be elected, it would mean an incumbent-backed candidate would defeat another.

Nonresident Fee Up $2 at Library

Nonresidents will pay a higher fee for a Rolling Meadows library card, effective at once.

The library board this week voted to increase the fee from $10 to $12 a year.

The move is mandatory, in line with state statute which requires that nonresidents pay a fee for their privilege of using the library equal to the average tax paid by residents.

The tax formula produced a figure of $11.90 as the annual library tax per family.

THE NORTH Suburban Library Systems, the area-wide coordinating agency of library services, is encouraging a still higher area-wide, nonresident fee.

The median tax in the agency's area is $18.38, and officials have passed a resolution stating that unless local libraries conform to the median, systems benefits will not be available to the nonresident card holders, effective next January.

The Rolling Meadows library trustees were reluctant to boost the nonresident fee to the Systems figure at this time, although the new fee based on local taxes will be well below the $20 fee charged by Arlington Heights and Palatine.

Sitter Hero in Blaze

A basement fire caused damage estimated at approximately $400 to the Thomas Grossman home, 3108 Starling Lane, Rolling Meadows, Wednesday night.

More extensive damage was avoided through the correct action by a teenaged baby-sitter, according to Fire Chief Tom Fogarty.

Dorothy Johnson, of 3805 Holly, smelled smoke, opened the basement door and saw flames, closed the door tightly and phoned the fire department, taking the two small children to a neighbor's home.

SHE HAD BEEN trained in one of the classes for baby-sitters sponsored by Rolling Meadows Park District and the local schools.

Each course includes training by Fireman Charles Sellards on correct action in case of a fire.

"It paid off," remarked the chief.

The fire apparently started in a corner where toys were stored. Chief Fogarty said ceiling beams and subflooring of the first floor were charred, and the house was smoke-filled.

Plat Submitted For Subdivision

Preliminary plat for a 22-lot subdivision in a wooded area south of Downgate was viewed by the Rolling Meadows Plan Commission Wednesday.

Robert Wente of Niles told the planners he expects to annex the 10-acre tract to the city.

A problem still to be resolved is access to water and sewer utilities now about 345 feet away from his land.

Wente does not own the intervening parcel of land. "I would have to negotiate," he said.

Paper Sack Collection Of Garbage Starts Soon

The paper sack garbage system should be in operation city-wide between April 1 and May 1.

Distribution of information and materials is getting under way, the special refuse study committee learned Wednesday night.

The system was tested in a small area starting last June, and the area expanded in the fall.

City officials generally believe the substitution of disposable bags for conventional cans is satisfactory as to operation and cost.

The system was introduced in an effort to hold the line against rising costs of scavenger service, at the mercy of union wage rates.

COST FIGURES discussed Wednesday night indicate there may be a small deficit to the city at the 1968 basic rate of $2.80 per month.

The city's contract with Barrington Trucking Co. for collecting refuse was based on a 10 cent rate increase in 1969, but the city council has not passed the increase along to homeowners.

Studies show considerable savings in collection time with the bags, over replacement of cans along the curbs.

A revised rate has been negotiated with the scavenger service for areas using sacks, but these savings are offset by the initial expense of supplying bags and holders.

"We'll still be seeking answers during the first year of city-wide service," commented Mayor Roland J. Meyer.

The contract with Barrington Trucking Co. expires Dec. 31. Meyer hopes to be prepared to seek bids on a new contract in late spring.

He anticipates other trucking firms may be interested in bidding on the collection service under the new system.

At an open town meeting to discuss the sack system, there were requests for twice a week service during summer months.

Meyer advocates continuing the once-a-week pickup this year to be in a better position to appraise problems which may arise.

Zale Dislikes Planners' Ideas

An offer by the Rolling Meadows plan commission to allow some four-story buildings in the Versailles apartment project did not appeal to the developers, Zale Construction Co.

Two-story apartments are more rentable, said Albert Zale Wednesday night, when the planners presented a list of suggestions made by Tom Buckley, planning consultant affiliated with Carl Gardner and Associates.

"We're surprised you aren't thrilled," William Kenney said, expressing the disappointment of the planners, who are seeking more green area in the development.

Zale was receptive to breaking up the long parking lots with islands of landscaping, although he pleaded "the only way to accomplish that is to cut the parking ratio."

THE PLANNERS had anticipated Zale would use some underground parking with four-story buildings in the center of the project, tapering at the edges with two-story buildings, but the builder said he would not consider inside parking.

Buckley recommended a "Y" entrance on the south side of the project, with one fork for the apartments and for the single-family home project Zale will build later.

Zale was obviously displeased with the numerous changes suggested.

He claimed $25,000 has already been invested in planning the development, and intimated that the company can revert to the original plan designed more than three years ago.

HOWEVER, ANTHONY Magee, plan commission chairman, relies on an agreement between the city and Zale that gives the city council the right to approve the plan.

Zale saw little problem in meeting some of the suggestions, such as cutting street width to 27 feet and planting a parkway between the curb and sidewalk, meandering walks instead of a grid pattern, and screening the perimeter of the project.

He scooped up the plans, which he will discuss with Buckley, and the planners agreed to set up a special meeting after he has studied the suggestions.

2 Library Board Seats Left Open

Resignation this week of William Meyer leaves two vacancies on the Rolling Meadows Library Board.

Meyer, who has been consistently absent from board meetings, pleads "limited amount of free time," which he would rather devote to working "directly with the youth of the town" through the boys baseball program.

His three-year term was due to expire June 30.

THE BOARD HAS been short one member since December, when Mrs. John Strenler resigned to take a staff job. The unexpired portion of her term on the board runs to 1970.

Appointments to the nine-member library board are made by the mayor with the approval of the city council.

Terms of Leland "Bud" Gibbs and Tom Grossman also expire this coming June 30.

Applicants for seats on the library board may submit resumes of their interest and qualifications to the mayor.

New High School Is Planned

Plans for the new Rolling Meadows High School will headline the agenda for a "town meeting" at Carl Sandburg School next Thursday evening.

The Chamber of Commerce has invited Jack Martin, assistant to the superintendent of High School Dist. 214. He will explain to the people of the city the April 12 referendum for a building on the Central Road site in the city, and the necessity for increases in tax rates, both educational and housing.

Construction of a high school in the city is considered by civic leaders as vitally important to the community.

All interested residents are urged to attend the open meeting.

A second topic on the agenda for the public meeting will be a talk by Albert W. Gass of the Northwest Cooperative Mental Health Assn., whose subject will be mental health needs and resources of the community.

The Chamber of Commerce will serve refreshments after the program.

Raymond Uecker, landscape architect, laid part of the blame on the concrete contractor who missed the proper grade in installing sidewalks.

As a result, pockets of water stand near the building.

Uecker says grade of the building was set according to the street grade. However, there is a sharp rise between the street and public sidewalk, leaving only a slight rise to the building to handle surface drainage.

"We hoped the landscaping would handle this," he said.

Now a drain line from near the building across the parking lot to a storm sewer is proposed.

Uecker is recommending sloping the parking lot surface to the center where his plan calls for a catch basin.

"So a goof in construction is going to cost us $1,200," groused Richard Davis, backing Tom Grossman who expressed anger at the additional cost.

Davis suggested Uecker should split the cost, and Uecker did, as the discussion became tense, say he would bear the cost if still further drainage problems develop, as foreseen by John Lund.

THE BOARD authorized a $200 engineering survey to determine the value of the proposed drain line, and will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday to study the results of the survey.

If the drain line is approved, it should be installed before landscape work resumes in early April, Uecker advised.

New Township Maps

New maps of Palatine Township offered free from the Palatine Chamber of Commerce can be obtained at any one of 46 different spots in the area beginning today.

Many Chamber of Commerce members have offered their places of business as map depots.

As a service project to residents, the chamber decided an updated layout of the township was necessary several months ago.

A TOTAL OF 5,000 were returned from the printers late last month and now are available to any resident in the township.

The 19-by-16-inch layout spots all 130 chamber members and includes locations of municipal buildings in Rolling Meadows and Palatine. It also gives an updated version of new streets and spots churches and schools of both municipalities.

For a complete list of map depots, see Monday's paper.

Ryan 3rd Candidate For Dist. 214 Board

James T. Ryan, of 2006 Rosehill, Arlington Heights, today announced he will be a candidate April 12 for a one-year term on the High School Dist. 214 board.

Ryan, who had been one of five persons weighed for two school board appointments made last month, said he was encouraged to run and had considered the matter for a long time before deciding to take out candidate petitions.

He said he wanted to assure himself that he could give the school board the proper time and without shorting the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, on which he serves.

In a statement released to the papers he explained, "I specifically announce my candidacy for the one-year term so that each and every voter will have the opportunity to review my record in one year."

RYAN ALSO made these points in his statement:

—That it is "vitally important" to achieve close cooperation between the various plan commissions and the high school districts.

—That the main prerequisites for a school board member are "a willingness to serve and a sense of objectivity. . . I believe I have sufficient objectivity to serve the students, the parents of the students and the taxpayer at large. A board member must have a feeling of responsibility to each."

—That he would do his best to insure "that, dollar for dollar, this district will have the best educational system that it collectively cares to afford."

RYAN TOLD Paddock Publications he felt he could serve as a bridge between the Arlington Heights Plan Commission and the high school district. He pointed out that board member Mrs. Leah Cummins holds a similar position with the Elk Grove Village Plan Commission while board member Frank Bergen serves on the Mount Prospect Plan Commission.

Ryan called for using "leadership, direction and a willingness to listen to legitimate, legally presented student proposals" as the answer to the trend of student "rebellion for rebellion's sake."

Ryan, when he files his petition, will become the third name on the list, a list of candidates for the one-year term. The others are Don McGlothlin of Wheeling and John M. Costello of Mount Prospect, now holding a seat on the board by appointment.

RYAN, A LAWYER, is a partner in the Chicago law firm of Morgan, Halligan, Lanoff and Cook.

He is a former director of the Arlington Heights Jaycees, former president of the Arlington Vista Home Owners Association and general counsel for the Illinois Young Republicans.

Zoning Study Of High Rise

Plans for the proposed high rise motel on Arlington Park Race Track property at Rohlwing Road and Euclid Ave. will be considered jointly by the special zoning commission and the zoning board of appeals.

The combined public hearing will be held at 8 p.m. March 20 in the council chambers of Rolling Meadows city hall.

The land on the northwest corner of the intersection is now zoned M-1, light industrial, under the Rolling Meadows zoning code.

Petitioners ask a change to R-7, apartment, office and institutional district, to permit construction of a 400-room motor inn similar to the Marriott near O'Hare Field.

The high rise design will also require a variation from the 60-foot limitation set in the zoning code.

THE PROJECT IS part of a program to greatly expand the facilities of the race track.

The motor inn is expected to offer lower rates than the high rise hotel now under construction adjacent to the Arlington Carousels restaurants, which will serve the new motor inn.

A coffee shop will be included in the motor inn plans.

The special zoning commission will make a recommendation to the city council on the zoning change, and the ZBA will rule on the height variation.

All interested persons are urged to attend the joint hearing and will be granted opportunity to voice opinions.

Outsider To Take Crown

A champion will be crowned in the Palatine Regional basketball tournament tonight but, unfortunately, it won't be one of the two Palatine High Schools.

Both Palatine and Fremd high schools were eliminated from the regional round of the state basketball tournament in their first contest Tuesday night.

Palatine's Pirates were emphatically bounced from the tourney by long-time rival Arlington, 64-52.

FREMDE MADE it a lot closer before bowing to another Arlington Heights school in the second game. In that one, the Vikings lost to St. Viator 51-49.

Tonight's championship game, to begin at 7:30 p.m., will match Wheeling against the winner of last night's contest between Arlington and St. Viator. Wheeling advanced to the championship by defeating Mundelein Wednesday.

The winner of tonight's game will advance to the sectional round of the tourney next week at Arlington.

See further details in today's sports section.

Between the Lines Responsibility Leans Two Ways

by ED MURNANE
City Editor

Everyone talks about the responsibilities public office holders have to the people who elected them.

When school taxes go up, school board members are blamed because they, in the eyes of the taxpayer, are responsible for providing the best possible education at the lowest possible cost—which means no tax increases.

When streets are chopped up or basements are flooded, the village or city officials are responsible because, after all, they were elected to solve these problems and they'd better do it.

When park facilities are not as adequate as parents would like for their children, the park district officials hear about it because they are the ones who are supposed to be providing outstanding recreational facilities for their constituents.

THE responsibilities, although maybe somewhat overdramatized here, are heavy on office holders and most of them should be commended for their willingness to face them.

But at this time of year, particularly during the next six weeks, the responsibilities fall on other shoulders too—the shoulders of the voters.

This is the time—the eve of local elections—when candidates put their qualifications and their records on the line.

And the voters, whose responsibility is to see that only the best candidates are elected, can only do that by getting to know the candidates, their qualifications, and just how the election of one candidate or another will affect the community.

Fortunately, there are a number of occasions during the campaign when voters can meet the candidates and question them on issues, qualifications and past records.

Failure by the voters to take these opportunities, whether they be the candidates night sponsored by the League of Women Voters or candidate forums sponsored by school districts, takes a lot of steam out of the same voters' complaints during the balance of the year.

LAST YEAR, when High School Dist. 211 scheduled voter information sessions prior to a referendum, fewer than 20 people in both Palatine and Schaumburg Townships attended.

That display of apathy by the voters was unprecedented, and it should never be allowed to happen again. Voters who do not take the time and interest to inform themselves and become qualified to vote have no business entering the voting booth and even less business complaining when elected officials perform in a manner they said they would during the campaign.

What kind of investment is Freedom Shares?

☐ Shrewd? ☐ Safe? ☐ Patriotic? ☐ Exclusive?

You're right if you checked all four boxes.

Freedom Shares are a shrewd investment because they pay 4.74% when held to maturity. They mature in just four-and-a-half years, and are redeemable after one year.

There is no safer investment because Freedom Shares are backed by The United States of America.

Exclusive? Absolutely. Not everyone can buy new Freedom Shares. You have to belong to the Bond-a-Month or Payroll Savings Plan. Freedom Shares are a bonus opportunity for these regular Bond buyers.

CHARGE BOY WITH HIT AND RUN

Charges were filed against a 16-year-old boy yesterday in connection with the Feb. 15 hit and run accident which critically injured a Jack London High School student.

The injured boy was Daniel Osmond 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Osmond, 406 Buffalo Grove Road, Buffalo Grove.

Wheeling Police questioned four teenagers for six hours before filing the charges.

The juvenile driver of the car was booked for unlicensed driving, leaving the scene of an accident involving personal injury, failure to stop and render aid to an injured person and give information, failure to report a personal injury accident to an authorized police agency within 48 hours, and failure to yield the right of way to a pedestrian in the roadway.

AN APRIL 22 court hearing in Arlington Heights Dist. Court was set.

Police brought the juveniles, two boys and two girls, in for questioning after an anonymous tip. Police identified the person as a "civic-minded citizen."

Osmond was struck on Highway 83 near S. Merle Lane as he was crossing the road near Wheeling High School. He was struck by the north bound car at 6:32 p.m. after he was dropped off by a south bound car.

The car which police say struck Osmond is a 1963 Oldsmobile owned by Mrs. Frances Koneski, of 811 C. Valley Stream Drive, Wheeling. Wheeling police believe the vehicle was taken without her knowledge or permission.

PAINT SAMPLES from the car match those taken from Osmond's clothing according to a Chicago crime lab study. Police planned Thursday to impound the car as evidence.

The juvenile driver of the car told police that Osmond appeared suddenly in front of the car, was struck and thrown through the air before the driver had a chance to hit the brakes. Osmond was dressed in dark clothing at the time of the accident.

The boy told police he slowed the car down but did not stop after the accident because he was frightened. The young passengers told police they weren't supposed to have the car. The driver had a learner's permit, but no valid driver's license.

Three of the four teenagers who were in the car, including the driver, gave voluntary statements to the police after being informed of their legal rights. A young child who was also a passenger in the car at the time of the accident was not questioned by police.

As he waited, a station wagon crept past the squad car without noticing him. The car stopped in front of one of the houses and two youths went inside.

They made two trips from the house to the car, turned the car around and came back past the squad car. Smith caught the youths taking windows with frames worth $50.

Since the December arrest, only two appliances have been reported missing as Chief Smith and his men continue to patrol the construction site.

Arthur Gingold, a representative of Levitt and Sons, refused to give out figures as to the extent of the company's loss due to vandalism. Such figures are not available, he told The Herald.

Gingold said he was satisfied with the job Buffalo Grove police have been doing and had no more to say on the subject because Levitt's job was to sell houses and not release vandalism figures.

Levitt and Sons pays the Buffalo Grove police force to patrol the construction area.

Even when something is reported missing, it is still hard to find anyone who witnessed a theft, explained Smith, because there is a great deal of activity in the area as plumbers and carpenters come in and out.

Another problem, said Smith, is that the heavy appliances are installed in the buildings before their completion and before anyone has moved in. The empty boxes are placed in front of the houses and can be seen by anyone who wants to steal.

Construction Area Guarded

by BARRY SIGALE

Buffalo Grove Police Chief Harold Smith heads a force in a village that is practically free from crime of any serious nature.

Therefore, when Levitt and Sons Inc. called on the police force to protect its unattended houses under construction in Strathmore it seemed a simple task.

However, since construction began, items such as washers, dryers, refrigerators and ovens have been stolen from homes in the final stages of completion.

Besides their regular patrol duties, Smith has assigned a patrol car to make special rounds of the construction area during the day and night. According to Smith, most of the vandalism occurs during the day.

Pangs of Village's Boom Building Versus Zoning

by MARY DRESSER

Development in Buffalo Grove is proceeding at a headlong pace, and the Plan Commission faces a mammoth task of reworking the village code while holding off hordes of hungry developers. Several crucial loopholes exist in the zoning code, and, unless they are stopped-up quickly, a developer could take advantage of these omissions.

Monday night the Plan Commission reviewed some of the soft spots in the ordinances and resolved to go over the code chapter by chapter.

CURRENTLY THE code does not limit the height of ground signs.

Someone could put up a monster and we couldn't do anything about it," said Plan Commission Chairman Edward Fabish.

Graduate of Viator Dies in Viet War

A purple heart winner, who requested a three-month extension to stay in Vietnam until May 10, is the first soldier from Prospect Heights to be killed in the Vietnam war.

Pfc. James M. Kalter, 21, of 211 Wolf Road, died Monday in a hospital at Long Binh after being wounded in the head by shrapnel from an enemy grenade.

At St. Viator, Private Kalter was a member of the school paper, and participated in the senior play, "Stalag 17." He was also a member of the chess club and book club and won a certificate and medal for his outstanding knowledge of Latin.

Doctors notified the family Saturday that he was in critical condition. He died two days later.

PRIVATE KALTER received the purple heart after being wounded in the back by shrapnel from a mortar attack in August. Last May he was one of three men of a group of 18 who survived a bitter enemy ambush near Tay Ninh. In a letter home he said he and the two other soldiers were holed up for four hours, cut off from any radio contact, and praying to get out safely. He was awarded the Combat Infantry Badge following the Tay Ninh ambush.

Parents of all the youths involved were notified by the police before the questioning of the teenagers.

Osmond was in good condition Thursday according to officials at Holy Family Hospital. He had been moved from the intensive care unit to the pediatric ward. Hospital authorities would not reveal whether injuries to the boy would leave permanent damage, but said his initial injuries were fractures of the left shoulder, right hip and left leg.

Private Kalter was among the first graduating class in 1965 at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights. He attended St. Alphonsus grammar school in Prospect Heights.

Funeral arrangements have not been made pending the return of Private Kalter's body in a week to 10 days.

Private Kalter is survived by his mother, Mrs. Florence Kalter; two brothers, Willard, 33, and Lawrence 31; and his sister, Gloria.

Apparently a four-story apartment building is okay in Buffalo Grove, but a six-story condominium is too high.

Comments made at Monday night's Plan Commission meeting indicate going will be rough for the proposed six-story condominium development planned for the Arlington Country Club on Dundee Road in Buffalo Grove.

The Plan Commission is cool to the prospect of allowing six-story buildings in Buffalo Grove.

One of the reasons given is that the new fire department aerial equipment will reach only four stories.

Attorneys for the country club, Marx, Marx, and Kaplan, requested an extension of 30 days from Wednesday's scheduled hearing date before presenting their preannexation petition.

STONEGATE Garden will include 64 one-bedroom and two-bedroom apartments with a rental range of $180 to $220 per month. The project will contain four two-story buildings and will feature air-conditioning, dishwashers, carpeting, and a heated swimming pool.

The apartment complex is scheduled for completion in two years.

In lieu of a land donation to the village, Moser has agreed to construct and install four village tennis courts at a cost not to exceed $12,000.

THE PLAN Commission will hold its first hearing on the condominium proposal April 16.

Meanwhile, the four-story Moser apartment development on the northwest corner of Buffalo Grove Road and St. Mary's Parkway was granted a long term, $800,000 mortgage by the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co.

VANDALISM WATCH at the Strathmore home construction site is under the direction of Buffalo Grove Police Chief Harold Smith. The valuable equipment stored in the vacant homes makes them a tempting target for vandals and thieves.

Northside Phones Coming—Swiftly

Telephone service to homes in the northern section of Buffalo Grove will arrive April 21.

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. is speeding work on the job as a result of complaints from irate new homeowners who have waited months for phone installation.

The delay is due to a work back-up resulting from the five month telephone strike in 1968 says Illinois Bell Rep. R. E. Montgomery.

June had been the target date for final installation but pressure from homeowners caused company Pres. James W. Cook to insist on a speed-up.

TELEPHONE company employees are working a 24-hour, three-shift day to finish the job on time, Montgomery said.

The telephone cable to serve the area in the northern part of the Strathmore development must come down Elmhurst Road to Checker Road and then go west toward the homes.

Workers must lay conduit, then pull cables through the conduit and interconnect the lines with those already connected to the homes.

In some areas in northern Strathmore the only telephone service available is an emergency pay phone installed by the telephone company at street intersections.

Plan Motorized Treasure Hunt

Jim Lenahan, candidate for election to the Buffalo Grove Village Board, is organizing a motorized treasure hunt to promote his campaign.

Registration for the treasure hunt starts at 7:30 p.m. Saturday night at the Ranch Mart Shopping Center. Dundee and Buffalo Grove Roads Cars are to leave at 8 p.m.

Participants must return to their final destination by 11:30 p.m. According to Lenahan, the final destination will be a restaurant serving both food and drinks.

A TROPHY will be presented to the winners.

The cost of the expedition will be $3 per car with a two couple maximum in each car. The treasure hunt will be limited to 15 cars.

Treasure hunters are instructed to dress casually and bring a flashlight, a "good" northwest suburban road map, a pen or pencil, boots, and enthusiasm.

Information may be obtained by calling 537-7372 or 537-9078.

Quick Action

Our sports writers really get involved in the games they cover, though we hope they don't try this hard or we're likely to have one sports writer listed in the box score.

Fans and coaches, alike, expect Paddock sports writers to know more about what's going on in the local sports scene than anyone else. It's one of the things that makes our paper the best in the area (and the heaviest).

Sure, it takes time and talent to develop such an outstanding sports staff, but our readers expect the best in a Paddock paper, and we're determined to give it to them.

So next time you see sports writers covering a local event, smile at the one without the press card in his hat — he's our man.

Dialing Meadowbrook . . .

Shirley and Dick Missing have returned to 115 W. Manchester, after a week's holiday in the Caribbean. They flew via Miami to the Grand Bahama Island and stayed in Freeport. Though the weather was cool for swimming, they marvelled at the crystal clear water from their ride on a catamaran. Other highlights of their stay were guided tours around the island and evening visits to the gambling casinos.

Seer Irene Hughes fascinated Shirley Mihalek, 409 S. Meadowbrook, Gloria Nicholson, 248 W. Jeffrey, and Robie Johnson, 377 S. Meadowbrook, with her predictions of future happenings on Feb. 27, as guest speaker at the Republican Women's luncheon at Rolling Green Country Club.

HEARING Irene Hughes on Friday night were Alice and Bob Wargo, 401 S. Wolf Road, and Dee and Frank Connell, 376 S. Meadowbrook Lane, at a United Air Lines dinner at Itasca Country Club.

Ann and Harold Franklin, 377 S. Jeffrey, celebrated their 21st wedding anniversary Feb. 28, with dinner at Hapsburg Inn.

The five-year-old newcomer to 370 S. Meadowbrook Lane is Helen. She came last week to live with Elaine and Mike Witte. Neighbors rallied round the Don Wilson family, 379 S. Marvin, when Don and Mary were injured in an automobile accident Friday night. They were admitted to Lutheran General Hospital, where Don was treated for lacerations and a broken wrist and Mary for lacerations, a broken ankle and ribs. Don was released Sunday, but Mary will be confined for some time.

Another hospital resident last week was Gary, son of Florence and Hank Kean, 99 W. Jeffrey. The infant was admitted to Edgewater Hospital, Chicago, on Sunday night, with a severe case of flu.

Gloria and Vic Nicholson and their fellow dancers welcomed the Milk Pail Dancers from Harvard, Ill., to Heritage Park on Saturday night. In the guest group were Gloria's aunt and uncle, Ann and Joe Kupper of Harvard.

THE NICHOLSONS and the Tom Crosses proceeded to the Union Hotel and then back to the Nicholson's for an early morning breakfast. Regulars absent from the group were former Meadowbrookers, Tom and Lena Kozimor, as Lena recently broke her foot playing volleyball.

The Nicholson's recently were guests of former neighbors, Rae and Don Swanson, in their Libertyville home. With Tom and Joan Crose and Jean and George Valentine, they spent the evening playing cards.

Here from her home in Holyoke, Mass., is Mrs. Charles Lavelle, visiting her daughter, Helen Pattison and family at 101 E. Meadowbrook Lane.

A chorus of "Happy Birthday" to Tom Barry, 192 W. Jeffrey, adding another year Feb. 28; to Georgia Lasley, 401 S. Meadowbrook Lane, March 1, and to Frank Connell, 376 S. Meadowbrook, March 4.

Offer Picture Framing Course

Community School Services will offer a picture framing course for adults starting March 28 in the Art Room at Jack London Junior High.

The eight week class open to Dist. 21 residents will meet from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. A fee of $10 not including materials will be charged for the course taught by Len Swanson.

Registration is from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays by calling 537-8270.

Prepare for 'Footlights'

With final rehearsal dates set for the coming week, members of the Wheeling High School Community Scholarship Foundation are confident all will be in readiness for "Footlights to the Future-1969." Sub-titled: "Growing Pains," in observance of the Wheeling and Buffalo Grove anniversary dates, the foundation's third annual variety show will be held at 8 p.m., March 14 and 15, at the Wheeling High School Little Theatre.

Our participating groups have adopted their own individual heavy rehearsal schedules during recent weeks," advised Charles Mihalek, who will again serve as director of "Footlights."

His check on the individual acts indicated "everyone was busy sewing costumes, practicing, taping, or making last minute revisions."

THE ORGANIZATIONS contributing acts to the show include: Norill Choral Club, Wheeling Woman's Club, Buffalo Grove Woman's Club, Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, Wheeling Public Relations Commission, Knights of Columbus, Wheeling Woman's Club auxiliary, Eugene Field PTA, Buffalo Grove Jayceettes, Wheeling Athletic Association auxiliary, Joyce Kilmer PTA, American Field Service and the Cameo Players.

Funds raised will provide post high school scholarships and public recognition to Wheeling High students.

Scholarship assistance will be on the college and technical school level.

Tickets for the Friday or Saturday performances may be purchased at Wheeling High School, by contacting a Wheeling high student, or from members of participating organizations. In addition, those wishing to reserve a block of tickets may call ticket chairman, Mrs. Raymond Olson at LE 7-1753.

Groups Meet To Divide 'Growing Pains' —

The Wheeling Township Mental Health Board, elementary school districts and other groups interested in receiving a share of this year's surplus funds will meet with the township Board of Auditors during the week of March 17.

Township officials will scrutinize budget figures for 1969-70 tomorrow morning and officially approve the amount available to area groups this year.

Estimated figures show a projected balance of $270,000 it is expected, however, that residents attending the town meeting in April will vote $19,000 to the township general assistance and cemetery budgets, leaving $251,000 to be allocated to eligible groups.

THE MENTAL Health Board, appointed by the township last year to recommend grants, will suggest that a total of $63,760 be allotted for mental health needs.

Agencies named to share in the funds are Clearbrook Center for the Retarded, Northwest Mental Health Clinic, Countryside Center for the Retarded, Community Social Services of Wheeling and the Salvation Army's family service center in Des Plaines.

The Over 50 club for senior citizens plan to ask for $10,000 to be divided among the Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove and Wheeling groups.

A bill co-sponsored by State Rep Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, in 1967 allows township historical societies to receive a total of $10,000 in surplus funds. Both the Arlington Heights and Wheeling societies which shared the amount equally last year will again submit budgets to the Board of Auditors.

JOHN KOEPPEN, president of the Wheeling group, said that budget needs of the club are higher this year. Their financial statement for August, 1968 shows total expenditures of $4,122 for the preceding year.

The Arlington Heights society, which plans to remodel a recently-acquired second building, is still ironing out budgetary details.

The bulk of the township funds goes traditionally to the elementary schools, to be split according to assessed valuation. Last year school districts divided $165,000.

Estimated township expenses for the 1969-70 year total $151,000, an increase of $32,000 over

Municipal Building Land May Be Farmed

Wheeling's village board Monday directed Village Clerk Mrs. Evelyn Diens to write to Andrew Koepen concerning farming of the land behind the new municipal building.

Koepen had asked the board if it would be possible to lease the land for farming since it was not being used at present.

The board, after asking advice from Village Atty. Paul Hamer and from the architect for the new municipal center, S. Guy Fishman, decided that Koepen could lease the property. He was asked to present a lease agreement to the board for consideration.

MRS. DIENS was instructed to write to Koepen asking him to submit such an agreement to the board, and place consideration of the agreement on next week's agenda.

Library to Contact Searle Co. on Land

The Village of Wheeling had planned to contact the G. D. Searle Pharmaceutical Co. of Skokie for the Wheeling Library Dist., but the library board decided Tuesday that they should do it themselves.

The village board on Monday had directed its attorney, Paul Hamer, to contact the company to ask if they would negotiate with the library district on the sale of three or four acres of land directly to the west of the new municipal building on Dundee Road.

THE BOARD has refused a library district proposal to buy the remaining frontage belonging to the village on the 15 acre municipal building lot.

The library board decided that their own attorney, Roger Bjorvik, should contact the Searle Company rather than Hamer.

The board also decided to investigate the Searle property as a possibility before turning to other sites on a list recommended by their consultant Peter Bury.

News of North Wheeling

The christening of John Henry Molloy on Feb. 23 was a family affair, as Katie and Danny Molloy were godparents for their brother. Witnessing the baptism by Deacon Peter McNamara were the baby's parents, Mary and Bill, siblings, Maggie, Bobby and Billy, Jan D'Argo and her son and Pam Artese. Following the ceremony, the Molloy's celebrated with dinner at the grandparents' home in Evanston.

On March 2, John Molloy was introduced to maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kirsch from Valders, Wis., to uncle, Jack Molloy, and cousins at a family dinner party at 304 Walnut. The Kirsches remained for an extended visit.

For their birthday celebrations, Steven and Suzanne Bell accompanied their parents, Robert and Leah, and sister, Robin, 30 6th St., on a four-day winter holiday to Three Lakes. Wis. They stayed with Robert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Bell. In addition to festivities for Steven's first birthday, Feb. 22, and Suzanne's seventh, Feb. 23, the Bells enjoyed sledding and tobogganing.

ON SUNDAY, Michael Mudry received his First Holy Communion at St. Joseph the Worker Church. His brother, Jack, came home from North Central College in Naperville for the occasion. Michael was feted by his parents and six brothers and sisters at a dinner celebration that day.

Joan Shelk, 177 Sunrise, and Irene McIntyre, 383 S. Willie, were among the women peeking into the future at Rolling Green Country Club on Feb. 27. Guests at the Republican Women's Club luncheon, they heard Irene Hughes' predictions of things to come.

Terence David, son of Laurel and Terry Sroka, 444 Capri, was christened at St. Joseph the Worker Church on March 2 by Deacon Peter McNamara. Godparents were Denise Weiss and uncle, Tim Sroka, home from John Carroll University in Cleveland for the occasion.

Following the baptism, grandmother, Irene Sroka, was hostess at a buffet in honor of her first grandchild in her Highland Avenue home. The group included maternal grandmother, Laverne Krug, aunts, Cathy and Chris Krug and Maria Sroka,

Visual World Course Planned

Community School Services opening to Dist. 21 residents is offering an exploration of the visual world for boys and girls from 7 to 16 in a new basic drawing class.

Gilbert Gignac, from the Art Institute of Chicago, will instruct the class which will include the use of different media such as pencil, crayon, pastels, ink, gouache, and oil paints; a development of the awareness of texture, lines, shapes, and colors; plus talks about artists, their times, and their works.

THE COURSE will meet for eight Saturday's beginning March 22 with classes meeting in the art room of Jack London Junior High School.

Class times will be set after registrations. A fee of $15 exclusive of materials is charged.

Registration for the class can be made by calling 537-9270 from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., or 537-4969 after 5 p.m. and on Saturday.

PTA Will Meet Board Hopefuls

Dist. 23 PTA will meet Tuesday in the MacArthur Junior High School gym at 8 p.m.

Three school board candidates will be on hand to conduct a question and answer period. They are Arthur S. Kester, of 201 S. Maple Lane, Prospect Heights; Alan Krusky, of 2027 Rosehill Drive, Arlington Heights; and John B. Stull, of 309 Viola Lane, Prospect Heights.

Ronald Greenberg from the Prospect Heights Park Dist. is also on the agenda to explain the spring and summer programs.

uncle, Frankie Sroka, Lynn and Doug Moore and Tom Cassidy.

JOINING THE grandparents' group for the first time are the Nickolas Millers, 11th Street. Their daughter, and son-in-law, Carolyn and William Grams, of Fox Lake, presented them with a granddaughter, Lisa Marie, on Feb. 19.

The younger set gathered at 245 Edgewood Drive on Feb. 23, to fete Robin Lynn Garard on her fourth birthday. Parents Sandra and James helped Robin welcome Susan and Annmarie Atchison, Sandy Peavey, Mike Taylor, Susan Manago, Billy Klapproth, Angie and Michelle Bertrath, Lynn Stacey and Chris Leimetter.

Machines Stolen

Wheeling police are investigating the theft of two soft-drink machines recently from the K-Mart store in Wheeling.

The machines were taken from a K-Mart loading dock where they had been placed for pickup by distributing companies. The machines were being removed from the store because they lacked proper licenses from the village.

Police say the machines were taken sometime between Feb. 17 and 20. They are valued at $546 each.

Ryan 3rd Candidate For Dist. 214 Board

James T. Ryan, of 2006 Rosehill, Arlington Heights, today announced he will be a candidate for the 214 board.

Free Lance

by MARY DRESSER

It is ridiculous to prohibit bingo when people want to gamble and the state could make a buck from it.

Current legislation says the little old lady who wants to pay 25 cents for a bingo card in hope she will win $50 is a law breaker.

However, the gas station chain is allowed to offer a "football" bingo card that pays off in new cars.

The local super market can legally sponsor a weekly horserace derby as a promotional come-on.

THE GAMBLING instinct is present equally in the housewife washing her magic numbers under the tap and sticking them on her bingo card and the old lady at the church social with her bingo cards.

The super markets and gas stations make a profit on their games of chance by bringing customers into their stores to pick up the cards.

However, churches are prohibited from making a profit on the gambling instinct.

A bill introduced into the Illinois House of Representatives by John Fary, D-Chicago would allow non-profit organizations such as churches, hospitals and charitable groups to operate bingo games.

The operators would pay the state $100 a year for a license to operate the game. The bill sets a top prize limit of $1,500 and limits the games to one a week.

The bingo bill provides that 10 per cent of the money spent on the game would go to the state. Fary estimates this would yield $30 million to be used for education and aid to the mentally ill.

THE BALANCE OF the bingo money is clear profit for the churches, hospitals, etc.

Parochial schools are screaming for financial aid and threatening to dump their students into the public school system. State aid to parochial education is remote because, right now, the state doesn't have enough money to subsidize the public schools adequately.

Why not allow the parochial schools to use bingo to help keep themselves solvent. The state can certainly use $30 million.

It private enterprises such as supermarkets can use gambling to fill the shopping carts, why not let the church schools use it to keep themselves in business?

Bingo has provided revenue for churches in the past and the fact that some individuals consider it a vice should not prohibit it, if its use can be beneficial to the community.

Opponents of gambling say it opens the door to syndicate control, and they may well be right. It's hard to keep the syndicate out of anything profitable as anybody who uses a cigarette machine or wipes his hands on a restaurant towel should know.

GAMBLING IS THE syndicate's soft spot because syndicate profits are based on illegal wagers such as football parlays, numbers and off-track betting. Legalize such gambling and put it under state control and the syndicate has no more reason to sell its services.

The state would be in better shape to fight "juice" loans and infiltration of semi-legitimate operations if it were not burdened with the job of restricting the instinct to gamble.

Rather than sales tax, which hurts the little man in his food bill, I'd like to see the state gorge itself on taxes on liquor, cigarettes, bingo and other forms of gambling.

I'd even be for a tax on private vice if anyone could figure out a way to collect it.

Ryan, who had been one of five persons weighed for two school board appointments made last month, said he was encouraged to run and had considered the matter for a long time before deciding to take out candidate petitions.

He said he wanted to assure himself that he could give the school board the proper time and without shorting the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, on which he serves.

In a statement released to the papers he explained, "I specifically announce my candidacy for the one-year term so that each and every voter . . . will have the opportunity to review my record in one year."

RYAN ALSO made these points in his statement:

—That it is "vitally important" to achieve close cooperation between the various plan commissions and the high school districts.

—That the main prerequisites for a school board member are "a willingness to serve and a sense of objectivity . . . I believe I have sufficient objectivity to serve the students, the parents of the students and the taxpayer at-large. A board member must have a feeling of responsibility to each."

—That he would do his best to insure "that, dollar for dollar, this district will have the best educational system that it collectively cares to afford."

RYAN TOLD Paddock Publications he felt he could serve as a bridge between the Arlington Heights Plan Commission and the high school district. He pointed out that board member Mrs. Leah Cummins holds a similar position with the Elk Grove Village Plan Commission while board member Frank Bergen serves on the Mount Prospect Plan Commission.

Ryan called for using "leadership, direction and a willingness to listen to legitimate, legally presented student proposals" as the answer to the trend of student "rebellion for rebellion's sake."

Ryan, when he files his petition, will become the third name on the list, a list of candidates for the one-year term. The others are Don McGlothlin of Wheeling and John M. Costello of Mount Prospect, now holding a seat on the board by appointment.

RYAN, A LAWYER, is a partner in the Chicago law firm of Morgan, Halligan, Lanoff and Cook.

He is a former director of the Arlington Heights Jaycees, former president of the Arlington Vista Home Owners Association and general counsel for the Illinois Young Republicans.

The death sentence, as it is applied in Illinois, is arbitrary, rare, haphazard and useless as a deterrent to capital offenses. So concludes a survey released last week by Eugene S. Zemans, executive director of Chicago's John Howard Association.

The study was made in connection with a proposal in the Illinois legislature to establish a six-year moratorium on the use of the death sentence.

THE ACCEPTED INFLUENCE IN THE NORTHWEST SUBURBS

Road Problem

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission backed itself into a complex thoroughfare problem Wednesday night and found a dead-end.

The problem is the intersection which Arlington Heights Road makes with Dundee Road on the northern edge of Arlington Heights and the southern edge of Buffalo Grove.

The commission agreed that some way should be found to straighten the road (the village would like to connect the two portions of the road with a graceful curve) but that it could not find the answer.

So, it sent the problem to the village board, to permit the six trustees and the village president to try to find a solution.

TWO GENERAL alternatives are possible. First, Arlington Heights Road could be looped northwest of Dundee Road to link up with the present road near the Lake County line.

However, High School Dist. 214 is not anxious to lose part of a school site, and Kenney Builders is not pleased with a loss of traffic near a planned shopping center in Buffalo Grove.

Second, the road could be looped southeast of Dundee Road to connect with the present route, which runs just east of the Arlington Industrial and Research Center.

If that pattern is followed, however, several homes would have to be demolished to clear a path for the road.

JOHN BEST, a planning engineer for Arlington Heights, and Comr. James Ryan, who has served as a committee of one to seek a solution, agreed that some answer — even if it must come from the state or the county — should come as soon as possible.

Each existing intersection, however, is partially in Buffalo Grove. Both villages lack specific jurisdiction on the two intersections, although a plan for the road has been on the Buffalo Grove thoroughfare plan for the past three years.

The village board will try to resolve the problem of a revised route for the road, which will become a heavily-traveled thoroughfare, on March 17.

Reject Re-zoning

Fear of increasing traffic problems by Winston Park homeowners in Palatine was removed Wednesday night when re-zoning for one of the largest proposed apartment developments in the area was rejected.

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission overwhelmingly voted to recommend denial of Miller Builders' petition that would have paved the way for construction of more than 600 apartments on the 45-acre tract northeast of the Palatine Road-expressway, Palatine Road.

Route 53 interchange.

Approval of such a project undoubtedly would have increased traffic flow along Anderson, Williams and Winston Drives in Palatine.

PROPOSAL to close either the Winston or Williams Drive intersection with Palatine Road were made last fall. But residents of Winston Park subdivision strongly objected since it would leave only one road connecting the area with the junior expressway, Palatine Road.

GI EXTENDS VIET STAY AND DIES

A purple heart winner, who requested a three-month extension to stay in Vietnam until May 10, is the first soldier from Prospect Heights to be killed in the Vietnam war.

Pfc. James M. Kalter, 21, of 211 Wolf Road, died Monday in a hospital at Long Binh after being wounded in the head by shrapnel from an enemy grenade.

Private Kalter was among the first graduating class in 1965 at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights. He attended St. Alphonsus grammar school in Prospect Heights.

At St. Viator, Private Kalter was a member of the school paper, and participated in the senior play, "Stalag 17." He was also a member of the chess club and book club and won a certificate and medal for his outstanding knowledge of Latin.

PRIVATE KALTER was drafted into the army in 1966 and would have been eligible for release last month.

"He felt he was needed over there more than stateside," said Private Kalter's sister, Gloria, 25. "He was assigned to the infantry division but wanted to become a machine gunner on a helicopter. He was granted a three-month extension because there were no immediate openings in the aviation department."

Private Kalter was on bunker guard duty in Cu Chi, 18 miles northwest of Saigon, when he was wounded by the enemy. Doctors notified the family Saturday that he was in critical condition. He died two days later.

PRIVATE KALTER received the purple heart after being wounded in the back by shrapnel from a mortar attack in August. Last May he was one of three men of a group of 18 who survived a bitter enemy ambush near Tay Ninh. In a letter home he said he and the two other soldiers were holed up for four hours, cut off from any radio contact, and praying to get out safely. He was awarded the Combat Infantry Badge following the Tay Ninh ambush.

Funeral arrangements have not been made pending the return of Private Kalter's body in a week to 10 days.

Private Kalter is survived by his mother, Mrs. Florence Kalter; two brothers, Willard, 33, and Lawrence 31; and his sister, Gloria.

Northside Phones Coming—Swiftly

Telephone service to homes in the northern section of Buffalo Grove will arrive April 21.

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. is speeding work on the job as a result of complaints from irate new homeowners who have waited months for phone installation.

The delay is due to a work back-up resulting from the five month telephone strike in 1968 says Illinois Bell Rep. R. E. Montgomery.

June had been the target date for final installation but pressure from homeowners caused company Pres. James W. Cook to insist on a speed-up.

TELEPHONE company employees are working a 24-hour, three-shift day to finish the job on time, Montgomery said.

The telephone cable to serve the area in the northern part of the Strathmore development must come down Elmhurst Road to Checker Road and then go west toward the homes. Workers must lay conduit, then pull cables through the conduit and interconnect the lines with those already connected to the homes.

In some areas in northern Strathmore the only telephone service available is an emergency pay phone installed by the telephone company at street intersections.

Auto Accident Charges Wrong

A STORY in Wednesday's Wheeling Herald incorrectly reported charges filed in a three car accident in the 700 block of S. Elmhurst in Wheeling on Friday.

Bruno Dispenza, 26, of 1104 N. Harding, Chicago was charged with failure to reduce speed in the accident.

The other drivers in the accident, John M. Rowley, 48, of 508 S. Stewart, Lombard, and Carol A. Torrens, 23, of 703 S. Ioka, Mount Prospect, were not charged in connection with the accident.

Car's Driver Was Juvenile File Hit-Run Charges

Charges were filed against a 16-year-old boy yesterday in connection with the Feb. 15 hit and run accident which critically injured a Jack London High School student.

The injured boy was Daniel Osmon, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Osmon, 406 Buffalo Grove Road, Buffalo Grove.

Wheeling Police questioned four teenagers for six hours before filing the charges.

The juvenile driver of the car was booked for unlicensed driving, leaving the scene of an accident involving personal injury, failure to stop and render aid to an injured person and give information, failure to report a personal injury accident to an authorized police agency within 48 hours, and failure to yield the right of way to a pedestrian in the roadway.

AN APRIL 22 court hearing in Arlington Heights Dist. Court was set.

Police brought the juveniles, two boys and two girls, in for questioning after an anonymous tip. Police identified the person as a "civic-minded citizen."

Osmon was struck on Highway 83 near S. Merle Lane as he was crossing the road near Wheeling High School. He was struck by the north bound car at 6:32 p.m. after he was dropped off by a south bound car.

The car which police say struck Osmon is a 1963 Oldsmobile owned by Mrs. Frances Koneski, of 811 C. Valley Stream Drive, Wheeling. Wheeling police believe the vehicle was taken without her knowledge or permission.

PAINT SAMPLES from the car match those taken from Osmon's clothing according to a Chicago crime lab study. Police planned Thursday to impound the car as evidence.

The juvenile driver of the car told police that Osmond appeared suddenly in front of the car, was struck and thrown through the air before the driver had a chance to hit the brakes. Osmond was dressed in dark clothing at the time of the accident.

The boy told police he slowed the car down but did not stop after the accident because he was frightened. The young passengers told police they weren't supposed to have the car. The driver had a learner's permit, but no valid driver's license.

Three of the four teenagers who were in the car, including the driver, gave voluntary statements to the police after being informed of their legal rights. A young child who was also a passenger in the car at the time of the accident was not questioned by police.

POLICE SAID statements made by the three youths agreed with those given by witnesses to the accident. Charges filed were based on the advice of the state's attorney, they noted.

The Herald learned Thursday that Mrs. Koneski was told by the youths the damage to the car was a result of hitting a stop sign. She reportedly told the juvenile driver that he had to pay for the damage or she would report the incident to her insurance company and the police would become involved.

Parents of all the youths involved were notified by the police before the questioning of the teenagers.

Osmond was in good condition Thursday according to officials at Holy Family Hospital. He had been moved from the intensive care unit to the pediatric ward. Hospital authorities would not reveal whether injuries to the boy would leave permanent damage, but said his initial injuries were fractures of the left shoulder, right hip and left leg.

Critics State Case Against Crystal Ship

Strong objections to the operation of the Crystal Ship, Mount Prospect's church-sponsored coffee house, have been raised by several church members.

Despite earlier reports this week that the controversy over the teen center is dying down, at least one church member has said that an increasing number of families are either dropping out of the church or withholding contributions in protest to the Crystal Ship.

In a letter to The Herald, Mr. Collin, 825 S. George, Mount Prospect, denied earlier comments by Frank Auwater, a member of the session, that families were not leaving the church.

COLLIN SAID "The group of people who are for a clean, Christian youth program are very much active and as long as the Crystal Ship remains in operation, especially that type of operation... there will be objections."

The full text of the Collin letter will appear in the Monday issue of The Herald.

Objections to the operation of the coffee house center around the display of allegedly Communist literature in the Crystal Ship and the general decor of the basement meeting place.

Collin said there was no doubt in his mind or in the minds of many others that much of the graffiti on the walls was Communist oriented.

He further claimed that he saw a young girl burn a dollar bill in the Crystal Ship as a protest to this country's economic system.

"WE ARE worried about this," Collin said, "and there are many church families and residents around the church that are worried as well."

Collin said he did not object to youth programs sponsored by the church and did not object to the music or the entertainment provided at the Crystal Ship.

"But I do object to a dark, crowded room where smoking is excessive and where kids can neck in the corners. These things happen, but do they have to happen under the sponsorship of the church?"

The Mount Prospect resident said the church families who are dissatisfied with the Crystal Ship are trying to decide whether to leave the church or to act for change. Collin said several meetings have taken place among objectors to the coffee house and further meetings are planned.

"I BELIEVE in a good youth program," Collin stated in his letter, "but it must be morally clean and Christian throughout its operation."

Crystal Ship is not that kind of operation, nor do we want it on church property or for that matter in Mount Prospect."

4 Stories OK; 6 Too High

Apparently a four-story apartment building is okay in Buffalo Grove, but a six-story condominium is too high.

Comments made at Monday night's Plan Commission meeting indicate going will be rough for the proposed six-story condominium development planned for the Arlington Country Club on Dundee Road in Buffalo Grove.

The Plan Commission is cool to the prospect of allowing six-story buildings in Buffalo Grove.

One of the reasons given is that the new fire department aerial equipment will reach only four stories.

Attorneys for the country club, Marx, Marx, and Kaplan, requested an extension of 30 days from Wednesday's scheduled hearing date before presenting their preannexation petition.

Meanwhile, the four-story Moser apartment development on the northwest corner of Buffalo Grove Road and St. Mary's Parkway was granted a long term, $800,000 mortgage by the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co.

Moser's development, the Stonegate Garden apartments, will be the tallest residential buildings in Buffalo Grove, so far.

STONEGATE Garden will include 64 one-bedroom and two-bedroom apartments with a rental range of $180 to $220 per month. The project will contain four two-story buildings and will feature air-conditioning, dishwashers, carpeting, and a heated swimming pool.

The apartment complex is scheduled for completion in two years.

In lieu of a land donation to the village, Moser has agreed to construct and install four village tennis courts at a cost not to exceed $12,000.

Fire Dept. Notes Some Flaws, Too

The Crystal Ship, a local coffee house run by youths of the Community Presbyterian Church in Mount Prospect, was found to have violated the village's fire safety code last week.

Fire Chief Edwin Haberkamp said the Ship violated about six fire code regulations. "All of them were housekeeping violations and the Ship said they would correct them," he said.

The fire chief, however, said he wouldn't make public exactly what those violations were. "It's a hot potato today," he said, in reference to the Ship.

Fact Carries Battle for 'Pros'

Debate Old School's Sale

The pros played the cons at the Dist 57 public hearing on Central School Wednesday night and the pros won.

While the cons were loud in their rejection of the school board's plan to sell Central School and make Lincoln the only junior high in the district, they were few in number and seemed more intent on arguing generally rather than offering concrete objections.

The pros on the other hand, seemed to be more familiar with school policies and backed their statements with applause and promises to work for the referendum tentatively scheduled for March 29.

Dist 57 board members presented their case for the sale of Central speaking easily back their statements with fact. They told of the hours needed to reach their decision on the school and the plans to improve Gregory and Sunset Park as well as add to Lincoln.

WHILE THE three building program will cost more than $12 million the district hopes to offset some of this cost with the proceeds from the Central sale.

Sealed bids on Central are to be opened March 15 and the board has reserved 21 days in which to accept a bid or reject all of them.

During that 21 days the referendum for the building funds is scheduled. Board members hope the referendum will be for no more than approximately $750,000 they told the audience Wednesday.

According to Harry Hanson, board president, this would add 45 cents per $100 assessed value to the tax bill for the first year. Following the first year this will drop, Hanson said, because bonds for an older issue will be retired.

ONE CRITIC of the plan said he didn't mind paying $450 more a year and was willing to pay more in order to have two junior highs. He said he was willing to pay an additional $16 a year so that the children of the district could have "anything that exists in any school anywhere I don't want this 10 years from now, but now when my kids are in school."

Another man said all the schools in the district are "totally inadequate" and criticized the district for a lack of kindergarten. At this the audience shouted him down, telling him he must be in the wrong district, because Dist 57 has kindergarten in its curriculum.

Three women in the audience who were seated together objected to the loss of foreign language last year and to the idea of one junior high.

Board members, in their answer, emphasized the increased flexibility they hoped to get when 18 staff members from Central are combined with the 23 now at Lincoln.

"WE CAN DO so much more with a staff of 46 than we can with one of 18 or 23," said Ralph Walberg, chairman of the facilities committee.

Board members said that junior high schools are being built to accommodate 1,600-1,800 students throughout the nation in order to offer more to the students.

They said the building at Lincoln would house a projected peak of 985 which would eventually drop to approximately 850 students, according to pre-school census.

Supt. Eric Sahlberg said the census in past years had proved amazingly accurate and said the kindergarten enrollment had been exactly correct this year.

meeting the projection made three years ago.

SAHLBERG WAS questioned by Richard Bachhuber, a Dist 214 board member, on the capacity of the building and plans for practical arts and home economics.

He told the elementary school board that if they did not plan for these things in the building they would never be included later.

Landon Ruteen, a parent who served as co-chairman during the last successful tax referendum, complimented the board on the hours they had spent on the plans.

"I don't have the hours needed to study this and I accept the findings of my elected representatives," Ruteen said.

Mrs. Joseph Vavra scolded the audience for "sectionalism" and asked "Don't we all live in Mount Prospect? Why must there be a north side school and a south side school? Why can't these children cross the railroad when St. Raymond's kids have done it for years?"

Her remarks were met with applause.

Spoonful of Music Lets Kids Have Fun

(Second in a series on ancillary education programs in Mount Prospect's Dist. 57 schools)

by EDITH FREUND

The spoonful of sugar that makes the medicine of school go down for many primary children is vocal music. For one period a week they use the instrument every child is born with — his voice — and they produce their own version of everything from service songs to contemporary tunes.

Hopefully their version will approximate the original but Robert Rothwell, music teacher at Busse and Fairview in Dist. 57 says, "I want them to know we don't expect operatic stars. Primarily it's supposed to be fun to sing."

Rothwell enters a class and puts a musical staff with notes on the blackboard. By reading the notes correctly the children learn the "mystery word" for the day. A covey of hands shot up in a third grade class visited by The Herald.

The secret was out — it was "red barn."

IT IS HARDLY a secret that Robert Henry, chairman of the music department, favors the instrumental portion of his program. Henry is bandmaster for Dist. 57. Last week he told his students to go home and tell their parents to write letters to the school board in order to "save the band program."

There are five vocal music teachers and three instrumental teachers in the schools. In a presentation before the school board at a recent meeting, Henry said he felt that any further cuts in the music program should come in the vocal music portion. Instrumental music was cut by one teacher last year and Henry told board members that any further cuts in the instrumental program would "emasculate it."

Henry's point of view has been challenged by board member Jack Ronchetto, who noted that all children except those in kindergarten receive some vocal music, while 440 students take instrumental work.

A few instruments are owned by the school and loaned to students, but most students must buy their instruments. The high investment makes parents very protective toward the program.

A band fee of $7.50 is charged, but this does not cover the cost of the program. Under a new Illinois legal opinion fees may not be charged for courses offered by the district and this could eliminate the band fee, although parents have indicated they would not object to paying more.

WHILE BAND parents suggest dropping art teachers and vocal music teachers in the K-6 buildings to retain the

LIBRARY, VILLAGE EYE TO EYE

The library board and village board have finally come to a meeting of the minds," said Gil Liebenow, library board president last night.

The library board has made its point as to what it takes to run a library and the village will provide the funds.

We now have funds to complete the projection of the original appropriation request, and the village understands there may have to be an advancement of money until the taxes come in in July."

The tax monies are being collected and distributed at least one month late this year.

"THIS IS A reading community," said Liebenow, "with over 23,000 card-carrying residents. Books are our stock and trade and we hope to continue to see books circulating among citizens."

The library is purchasing books to catch up with what we ought to have for a library in a community this size. With over 50,000 books, the stock should be twice this number," Liebenow said.

The library board has tentative plans for moving the children's section upstairs and adding shelving and seating to the adult section on the ground floor.

"We're fortunate that the village board understood our need and took the necessary steps to start the project," Liebenow said.

Candidates To Appear At Forum

Dist 57 Caucus Nominees will join village and library candidates in a public forum to be held April 9 at Lions Park school. Candidates this year are Alex Casper, Leo Flores and Jerrold Shutt.

The forum will be conducted by the League and will give the public a chance to hear school candidates who will be elected April 12 to the two terms of three years open on the board.

Robert Novy, chairman of the Caucus, said the candidates also will appear at PTA meeting throughout the district during the month of March.

Their schedule included Sunset Park on March 6, Gregory school March 13, Fairview and Westbrook March 18, Lincoln March 26 and Central, March 27. A special meeting has been scheduled by Busse on April 10.

At the present time no independent candidates have filed.

4-Wing School Plan Is Unveiled

High School Dist 214 board members last night saw plans for the new Rolling Meadows high school that call for putting the new public school building directly across Central Road from Sacred Heart of Mary High School.

Alden Orput of Orput, Orput and Associates, architects, said the location of the Rolling Meadows school had been shifted somewhat to the west of earlier site plans so that physical education space for the new school can be consolidated on the eastern edge of the 40-acre property.

Plans shown the board call for a building with four wings, three of them two stories high.

The fourth, on the south side of the site, will have what only will look like a second story opening on-grade where the property slopes up at the south. Orput said the designs now call for three entrances to the building via road, two of them onto Central and the third at the southwest corner of the site onto Barker Street "when it goes in."

An exit onto Barker will require a bridge over Salt Creek. Orput estimated cost of the bridge — at some later date — to be $25,000.

The Rolling Meadows school will have an 800-seat auditorium with a balcony and a physical education wing with as much space as Hersey High School's gymnasium and fieldhouse together.

Township officials will scrutinize budget figures for 1969-70 tomorrow morning and officially approve the amount available to area groups this year.

Estimated figures show a projected balance of $270,000. It is expected, however, that residents attending the town meeting in April will vote $19,000 to the township general assistance and cemetery budgets, leaving $251,000 to be allocated to eligible groups.

THE MENTAL Health Board, appointed by the township last year to recommend grants, will suggest that a total of $83,760 be allotted for mental health needs.

Agencies named to share in the funds are Clearbrook Center for the Retarded, Northwest Mental Health Clinic, Community Center for the Retarded, Community Social Services of Wheeling and the Salvation Army's family service center in Des Plaines.

The Over 50 clubs for senior citizens plan to ask for $10,000 to be divided among the Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove and Wheeling groups.

A bill co-sponsored by State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, in 1967 allows township historical societies to receive a total of $10,000 in surplus funds. Both the Arlington Heights and Wheeling societies which shared the amount equally last year will again submit budgets to the Board of Auditors.

JOHN KOEPPEN, president of the Wheeling group, said that budget needs of the club are higher this year. Their financial statement for August, 1968 shows total expenditures of $4,122 for the preceding year.

The Arlington Heights society, which plans to remodel a recently-acquired second building, is still ironing out budgetary details.

The bulk of the township funds goes traditionally to the elementary schools, to be split according to assessed valuation. Last year school districts divided $165,000.

Estimated township expenses for the 1969-70 year total $151,000, an increase of $32,000 over last year's figures. Costs of this year's election, $15,500, is included in the projections. The township slate is elected once every four years.

Cemetery funds, also up this year from $3,000 to $9,000 include a water main installation charge of $4,000 and increased money for new trees and sod.

THE TOWNSHIP Committee on Youth, granted $5,000 two years ago, still maintains an unexpended balance of $3,500.

The budget for the township highway department is $235,000, part of which must be rebated to the villages for their road improvements.

'The Shroud' Good Reading for Lent

by LAURIE ROSSI

Probably no one has given up reading for Lent. With this in mind, the Mount Prospect Public Library has collected books with a religious, moral, and inspirational tone to comprise a Lenten reading shelf.

These books are available and interesting year-round, but many of them come to our attention more obviously now, as we approach the Easter season.

I chose several of these books to scan, and ended up reading one of them from cover to cover, in one sitting. "The Shroud," by John Walsh, is a fascinating book about one of the most amazing historical objects preserved today, or one that constitutes the largest hoax.

This object which is so debated over is the cloth preserved at Turin, Italy, believed by many to be the actual winding sheet of Christ.

THE CLOTH bears body and facial imprints which appear to be identical with those Christ would have left. Many scholars have assumed much about the stature and details of Jesus solely from the evidence of the shroud.

The book has pictures of the shroud, showing these details as well as blood stains in appropriate places. Skeptics have volunteered the idea that years ago someone could have traced the outlines on the shroud with a thin mixture of paint, thus emphasizing the details which show up so clearly now.

However, it was pointed out that the people of those times would have known about the fresh paint and protested, and any paint used at the time would have cracked when the shroud was folded.

The question has also been raised about whether or not the shroud could simply be an imprint of someone else. Scholars maintain that Christ's body was in the cloth too short a time for putrefaction to occur, and if corruption had set in, any impression made would have been destroyed. There is no sign of corruption on this linen shroud.

AUTHOR JOHN Walsh won't satisfy the reader with an opinion of his own. He begins and confronts with the question of it is either one or the other—miracle or gigantic hoax.

With increased efforts in space, we are more and more confronted with the question of the reality of God. Just recently we heard excerpts from Genesis read from outer space.

The experience of the astronauts near the moon prompted them to select these passages from the Bible as their most appropriate message to earth.

The book, "God in the Space Age" explores the relationship of science and religion, and discusses controversial subjects like life on other planets, and whose property the moon is.

YOU CAN SECURE a pamphlet in the library which lists over 500 books to read during Lent. They cover a wide range of subjects and interests.

You can choose from inspirational biographies, books on the morality of our times, and religious books for moderns, like "Is the Last Supper Finished?" and "Religion: Out or Way Out."

A Warning To Glue Sniffers

Reports indicate that curious teenagers are putting the modern highly volatile glues into a paper bag and trying for a kick out of inhaling the fumes. This exposes the sniffer to the highly concentrated, intoxicating and poisonous fumes.

Permanent damage to the liver, blood and brain often results. Many accidents have been traced to "glue drunks." Do not take the chance of ruining your health by glue sniffing. Empty glue containers are a warning to parents.

Spoonful of Music—

(Continued from Page 1) band program, the board has indicated the answer might be more efficient use of the vocal music staff in the junior highs.

Superintendent Eric Sahlborg says the district has attempted to bring special enrichment subjects down through the grades to the primary level through greater staff use.

"These younger students are entitled to some of these subjects, too," Sahlborg told The Herald.

Music students in the K-6 schools are given instruction according to the level of their understanding. The course includes musical history, theory, identification and study of instruments, in addition to singing and listening to music.

Though this may be a tall order, music is a subject that is attractive to children. They enjoy the time they spend with it and teachers like Rothwell encourage their enjoyment.

HE TEACHES rhythm with a hand-clapping, thigh-thumping game similar to Simon Says. But while they clap, he reinforces the action by quickly erasing and adding notes and rests to the count on the blackboard.

"In studying composers and musicians I like to eliminate the idea that musicians are sissies," Rothwell said. "I want the children to realize that music isn't stuffy — it's fun."

His success can be measured by the third grader who had never before carried a tune. After his mother overheard him singing his way through an intricate contemporary song, she asked where he had learned it.

"Oh, that's just something that Mr. Rothwell ran off on the ditto for our own use," said the newly-hatched virtuoso.

Ryan 3rd Candidate For Dist. 214 Board

James T. Ryan, of 2006 Roshill Arlington Heights, today announced he will be a candidate April 12 for a one-year term on the High School Dist. 214 board.

Ryan, who had been one of five persons weighed for two school board appointments made last month, said he was encouraged to run and had considered the matter for a long time before deciding to take out candidate petitions.

He said he wanted to assure himself that he could give the school board the proper time and without shorting the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, on which he serves.

In a statement released to the papers he explained, "I specifically announce my candidacy for the one-year term so that each and every voter will have the opportunity to review my record in one year."

RYAN ALSO made these points in his statement:

—That it is "vitally important" to achieve close cooperation between the various plan commissions and the high school districts.

—That the main prerequisites for a school board member are "a willingness to serve and a sense of objectivity . . . I believe I have sufficient objectivity to serve the students, the parents of the students and the taxpayer at-large. A board member must have a feeling of responsibility to each."

—That he would do his best to insure "that, dollar for dollar, this district will have the best educational system that it collectively cares to afford."

RYAN TOLD Paddock Publications he felt he could serve as a bridge between the Arlington Heights Plan Commission and the high school district. He pointed out that board member Mrs. Leah Cummins holds a similar position with the Elk Grove Village Plan Commission while board member Frank Bergen serves on the Mount Prospect Plan Commission.

Ryan called for using "leadership, direction and a willingness to listen to legitimate, legally presented student proposals" as the answer to the trend of student "rebellion for rebellion's sake."

Ryan, when he files his petition, will become the third name on the list, a list of candidates for the one-year term. The others are Don McGlothlin of Wheeling and John M. Costello of Mount Prospect, now holding a seat on the board by appointment.

RYAN, A LAWYER, is a partner in the Chicago law firm of Morgan, Halligan, Lanoff and Cook.

He is a former director of the Arlington Heights Jaycees, former president of the Arlington Vista Home Owners Association and general counsel for the Illinois Young Republicans.

Howard Cooper Appeals Again for Liquor License

Howard Cooper, owner of Farmer Cooper's restaurant, is expected to make his fourth appeal for a liquor license today.

Previous applications for a beer license at the restaurant, located at 303 E. Kensington Road, have been denied.

Cooper's restaurant was the subject of heated debate within village government when the owner claimed that he needed a beer license in order to survive as a businessman in the village.

Today's application before the Board of Appeals will request that the beer license be issued in the name of Howard Cooper instead of the name of the corporation.

VILLAGE officials had objected to the issuance of a beer permit to the corporation because, they said, it would leave the village open to condoning a beer permit which would be transferred with the sale of the corporation.

Cooper said Thursday he had made application to the village's Economic Development Commission in an effort to get the village commission to undertake a study of the value of increased business to the village as a whole. Cooper said his request was denied.

Critics of the Farmer Cooper application have said that the business is in such poor shape now that granting a license to the restaurant would mean that Farmer Cooper would have to sell more beer in the one restaurant than is sold in the whole of the village.

TO THIS Cooper replied: "I've suffered a substantial loss of business as a result of the village hearings. I admit I made an honest business mistake in not seeking a beer license sooner, but what harm could come to the village for them to issue me a beer license and let me try it for six months or so?"

Fred Himbaugh, head of the village's Economic Development Commission, acknowledged that Cooper had asked help from the commission but refused to comment on the matter before speaking about it to Village Mgr. Robert Moore. Himbaugh said he would bring the matter to the manager's attention "in the near future."

Dist. 57 Salary Talks Saturday

The Mount Prospect Dist. 57 salary committee will meet with the Mount Prospect Education Assn. to negotiate teacher salary schedules for next year this Saturday at 8:30 a.m. in the district administration building, 701 W. Gregory St. The meeting is a closed session.

SIX PERSONS were injured in a chain accident on Algonquin Road in Rolling Meadows Wednesday afternoon. Bernard Gerstein, Hoffman Estates, and his wife, Paulette, suffered face and head injuries when the car Gerstein was driving plowed into the rear of a stopped westbound car, driven by Ronald Lucarz who lives in the nearby Three Fountains apartments. Lucarz told police he was waiting to make a left turn onto Newport Ave. and his wheels were turned, so the impact pushed his car into the path of an eastbound cement mixer truck. Lucarz suffered leg injuries, his wife, Dorothy, head injuries, and his mother, Mrs. Florence Tomusiak, a broken leg and head injuries. The driver of the Vulcan Material Co. truck, Peter Christensen of Chicago, complained of chest pains when he climbed out of his vehicle, which rolled over in the ditch as he swerved in an attempt to avoid the crash. Gerstein was cited by Rolling Meadows police for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, although he claimed he did not see brake lights or flashing turn signals on Lucarz' car. Firemen hosed down spilled gasoline until all the cars were removed. (Staff Photos)

Reappoint Mosquito Abatement Trustees

Three trustees of the Northwest Mosquito Abatement Dist. will be re-appointed to three-year terms in spite of questions posed by Palatine's mosquito investigating committee since last July.

Although Judge Harry Comerford delayed the re-appointments since December so he could meet with trustees and the committee, he said the present board will continue as policy makers of the district after the meeting on Tuesday afternoon.

The meeting was called by the judge "to promote an exchange of ideas and intelligent co-operation between the committee from Palatine and trustees," he said.

"I hope we accomplished CHAIRMAN OF the mosquito investigating committee appointed by Village Pres. John Moodie last summer is Mrs. Clayton Brown, who said, "The judge had to arrive at the decision to re-appoint trustees based on the information presented."

After attending several NMAD meetings and gathering information about the district and mosquito control, the committee submitted the names of four residents to be considered for trustee positions.

"The committee thought that men with technical knowledge applicable to mosquito control should be considered for the job," Mrs. Brown explained.

"But the judge's only recourse was to re-appoint the trustees because we deliberately did not present all the information we have compiled," she said.

"TO PRESENT all of it on Tuesday would not have accomplished anything. However, it will accomplish something when we include it in a report to our board along with our recommendations," she said.

The committee hopes to have its report ready within two weeks for village trustees to study. A basic conclusion of the committee's study has been that more permanent control methods and less temporary control techniques should be started by the mosquito district.

"I have no way of knowing if this is the correct approach to mosquito abatement," Judge Comerford admitted.

After the meeting on Tuesday, NMAD trustees and the director, Wilbur Mitchell will be willing to listen to suggestions from the Palatine group, according to the judge.

"TAXPAYERS are entitled to be heard, if they have a complaint — that's why I called the meeting this week," he said.

Asked if the Palatine committee's only method of complaint was through the appointing judge, he said, "I wouldn't like to think a meeting like this was necessary to do that."

"But there was an apparent communication breakdown between the trustees and the group from Palatine," he admitted.

Since the committee was formed, it has experienced problems in collecting all the information necessary for a thorough study of why Palatine was swarming with mosquitoes last summer.

THE JUDGE said he was aware of the problem, but thinks the meeting was solved at Tuesday's meeting.

At the meeting, NMAD Trustee Richard David of Hoffman Estates said the district's tax rate is an insignificant amount on the average tax bill, according to Mrs. Brown.

"But it's not insignificant when you look at the district's total budget which comes to more than $300,000," she said.

"This is taxation without representation because we have no control over the board of trustees," she added.

Palatine committee include Richard Dawson, village director of environmental health, Mrs. Martha Lawson, School Dist. 15 director of health services, Earl Dailey, research chemist for Chas. Bruning Co. and Howard I. Olsen, township supervisor.

Trustees to be re-appointed by the judge include president of the board, Richard Crandall, Palatine, Walter J. Wells, Mount Prospect and Jacob Goldman, Barrington.

Prospectus Street Names No Mistake—Honest

by JAMES VESELY

One of the most puzzling things about Mount Prospect is the rather curious names given to some of the streets in town.

New residents of the village are often perplexed by the odd names of the avenues and lanes of the community, not realizing that each street name is steeped in the lore of the area and rich in the traditions of Mount Prospect.

So, for the new residents of Mount Prospect, here is the first of a series of guides to the streets in your village:

NALBERT ST.: Named after an early founder of Mount Prospect, Albert Nalbert, who first cleared virgin timber from the area in 1837. Nalbert, whose fate is clouded in legend, is believed to have been the first Mount Prospect resident to pledge flood control to the area. He disappeared the following spring when early rains caught him laying pipe in what was later called Weller Creek.

SHABONEE TRAIL: A street which commemorates the obscure Indian tribe which once inhabited this region. The Shabonees had their campsite on what is now Randhurst and some say they are still in the vicinity. One habit of the Shabonees is to wander over their old campgrounds and take baubles and trinkets from unlocked cars in the Randhurst lot.

MANAWA: Named after the famous cry of Mount Prospect's first taxi cab driver, Rudolfo (Che) Kreanero, a Cuban exile who first drove a cab in town shortly after the Spanish-American War. Rudolfo's cry became well known in the village each Saturday when he would get caught in Mount Prospect traffic and shout "Manawanagetoutahere!"

HI LUSI: Actually the nickname of one of the early architects in Mount Prospect, Johnathan (Hi Lusi) Zimmerman, who came to this country from Belgium. Zimmerman won his nickname shortly after the cyclone of '96. Half of the buildings in town blew away causing local residents to call Zimmerman's construction methods "high and loose." The architect was run out of town just after completing what is now known as Central school. He is known to have created an active business in San Francisco shortly before the quake.

NA WAT TA AVE.: As its name suggests, this is an Indian phrase.

Although various sources differ on the exact meaning of the words, early settlers were quick to pick up the phrase. When the early property-owners were faced with a drought in summer, village officials would smile and quote the Indians, "Na Wa Ta" (no water). One village official suggested that a huge gold water tower be built in the village to store the water but it was commonly acknowledged that the thing would be so ugly that no one would put up with it.

Sitter Hero in Blaze

A basement fire caused damage estimated at approximately $400 to the Thomas Grossman home, 3108 Starling Lane, Rolling Meadows, Wednesday night.

More extensive damage was avoided through the correct action by a teenage baby-sitter, according to Fire Chief Tom Fogarty.

Dorothy Johnson, of 3805 Holly, smelled smoke, opened the basement door and saw flames, closed the door tightly and phoned the fire department, taking the two small children to a neighbor's home.

SHE HAD BEEN trained in one of the classes for baby-sitters sponsored by Rolling Church in River Grove, for 11 a.m. mass. Interment will be at St. Joseph Cemetery, River Grove. Surviving are her husband, Louis J.; two daughters, Mrs. Marion Bedore of Ohio, and Mrs. Florence Williams of Texas; two sons, Richard J. of Mount Prospect, and Robert J. of Chicago; 19 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Fact Carries Battle for 'Pros'

Debate Old School's Sale

The pros played the cons at the Dist. 57 public hearing on Central School Wednesday night and the pros won.

While the cons were loud in their rejection of the school board's plan to sell Central School and make Lincoln the only junior high in the district, they were few in number and seemed more intent on arguing generally rather than offering concrete objections.

The pros, on the other hand, seemed to be more familiar with school policies and backed their statements with applause and promises to work for the referendum tentatively scheduled for March 28.

Dist. 57 board members presented their case for the sale of Central, speaking easily, backing their statements with fact. They told of the hours needed to reach their decision on the school and the plans to improve Gregory and Sunset Park as well as add to Lincoln.

WHILE THE three-building program will cost more than $12 million, the district hopes to offset some of this cost with the proceeds from the Central sale.

Sealed bids on Central are to be opened March 15 and the board has reserved 21 days in which to accept a bid or reject all of them.

During that 21 days the referendum for the building funds is scheduled. Board members hope the referendum will be for no more than approximately $750,000 they told the audience Wednesday.

According to Harry Hanson, board president, this would add 4.5 cents per $100 assessed value to the tax bill for the first year. Following the first year, this will drop, Hanson said, because bonds for an older issue will be retired.

ONE CRITIC of the plan said he didn't mind paying $4.50 more a year and was willing to pay more in order to have two junior highs. He said he was willing to pay an additional $16 a year so that the children of the district could have "anything that exists in any school anywhere. I don't want this 10 years from now, but now when my kids are in school."

Another man said all the schools in the district are "totally inadequate" and criticized the district for a lack of kindergarten. At this the audience shouted him down, telling him he must be in the wrong district, because Dist. 57 has kindergarten in its curriculum.

Three women in the audience who were seated together objected to the loss of foreign language last year and to the idea of one junior high.

Board members, in their answer, emphasized the increased flexibility they hoped to get when 18 staff members from Central are combined with the 28 now at Lincoln.

"WE CAN DO so much more with a staff of 46 than we can with one of 18 or 28," said Ralph Walberg, chairman of the facilities committee.

Board members said that junior high schools are being built to accommodate 1,000-1,200 students throughout the nation in order to offer more to the students.

They said the building at Lincoln would house a projected peak of 985 which would eventually drop to approximately 850 students, according to pre-school census.

Supt. Eric Sahlberg said the census in past years had proved amazingly accurate and said the kindergarten enrollment had been exactly correct this year, meeting the projection made three years ago.

SAHLBERG WAS questioned by Richard Bachhuber, a Dist. 214 board member, on the capacity of the building and plans for practical arts and home economics.

He told the elementary school board that if they did not plan for these things in the building they would never be included later.

Landon Risteen, a parent who served as co-chairman during the last successful tax referendum, complimented the board on the hours they had spent on the plans.

"I don't have the hours needed to study this and I accept the findings of my elected representatives," Risteen said.

Mrs. Joseph Vavra scolded the audience for "sectionalism" and asked, "Don't we all live in Mount Prospect? Why must there be a north side school and a south side school? Why can't these children cross the railroad when St. Raymond's kids have done it for years?"

Her remarks were met with applause.

LIBRARY, VILLAGE EYE TO EYE

"The library board and village board have finally come to a meeting of the minds," said Gil Liebenow, library board president, last night.

"The library board has made its point as to what it takes to run a library and the village will provide the funds."

"We now have funds to complete the projection of the original appropriation request, and the village understands there may have to be an advancement of money until the taxes come in in July."

The tax monies are being collected and distributed at least one month late this year.

"THIS IS A reading community," said Liebenow, "with over 23,000 card-carrying residents. Books are our stock and trade and we hope to continue to see books circulating among citizens."

"The library is purchasing books to catch up with what we ought to have for a library in a community this size. With over 50,000 books, the stock should be twice this number," Liebenow said.

The library board has tentative plans for moving the children's section upstairs and adding shelving and seating to the adult section on the ground floor.

"We're fortunate that the village board understood our need and took the necessary steps to start the project," Liebenow said.

'Ship' Has Its Critics

Candidates To Appear At Forum

Dist. 57 Caucus Nominees will join village and library candidates in a public forum to be held April 9 at Lions Park school. Candidates this year are Alex Casper, Leo Floros and Jerrold Shutt.

The forum will be conducted by the League and will give the public a chance to hear school candidates who will be elected April 12 to the two terms of three years open on the board. Robert Novy, chairman of the Caucus, said the candidates also will appear at PTA meeting throughout the district during the month of March.

Their schedule included Sunset Park on March 6, Gregory school, March 13, Fairview and Westbrook, March 18; Lincoln, March 26 and Central, March 27. A special meeting has been scheduled by Busse on April 10.

At the present time no independent candidates have filed.

Strong objections to the operation of the Crystal Ship, Mount Prospect's church-sponsored coffee house, have been raised by several church members.

Despite earlier reports this week that the controversy over the teen center is dying down, at least one church member has said that an increasing number of families are either dropping out of the church or withholding contributions in protest to the Crystal Ship.

In a letter to The Herald, Er Collin, 625 S. George, Mount Prospect, denied earlier comments by Frank Auwater, a member of the session, that families were not leaving the church.

COLLIN SAID "The group of people who are for a clean, Christian youth program are very much active and as long as the Crystal Ship remains in operation, especially that type of operation . . . there will be objections."

The full text of the Collin letter will appear in the Monday issue of The Herald.

Objections to the operation of the coffee house center around the display of allegedly Communist literature in the Crystal Ship and the general decor of the basement meeting place.

Collin said there was no doubt in his mind or in the minds of many others that much of the graffiti on the walls was Communist oriented.

He further claimed that he saw a young girl burn a dollar bill in the Crystal Ship as a protest to this country's economic system.

"WE ARE worried about this," Collin said, "and there are many church families and residents around the church that are worried as well."

Collin said he did not object to youth programs sponsored by the church and did not object to the music or the entertainment provided at the Crystal Ship. "But I do object to a dark, crowded room where smoking is excessive and where kids can neck in the corners. These things happen, but do they have to happen under the sponsorship of the church?"

The Mount Prospect resident said the church families who are dissatisfied with the Crystal Ship are trying to decide whether to leave the church or to act for change. Collin said several meetings have taken place among objectors to the coffee house and further meetings are planned.

"I BELIEVE in a good youth program," Collin stated in his letter, "but it must be morally clean and Christian throughout its operation."

Crystal Ship is not that kind of operation, nor do we want it on church property or for that matter in Mount Prospect."

★ ★ Fire Dept. Notes Some Flaws, Too

The Crystal Ship, a local coffee house run by youths of the Community Presbyterian Church in Mount Prospect, was found to have violated the village's fire safety code last week.

Fire Chief Edwin Haberkamp said the Ship violated about six fire code regulations. "All of them were housekeeping violations and the Ship said they would correct them," he said.

The fire chief, however, said he wouldn't make public exactly what those violations were. "It's a hot potato today," he said, in reference to the Ship.

Spoonful of Music Lets Kids Have Fun

(Second in a Series on ancillary education programs in Mount Prospect's Dist. 57 schools)

by EDITH FREUND
The spoonful of sugar that makes the medicine of school go down for many primary children is vocal music. For one period a week they use the instrument every child is born with — his voice — and they produce their own version of everything from service songs to contemporary tunes.

Hopefully, their version will approximate the original, but Robert Rothwell, music teacher at Busse and Fairview in Dist. 57 says, "I want them to know we don't expect operatic stars. Primarily it's supposed to be fun to sing."

Rothwell enters a class and puts a musical staff with notes on the blackboard. By reading the notes correctly the children learn the "mystery word" for the day. A covey of hands shot up in a third grade class visited by The Herald.

The secret was out — it was "red barn."

IT IS HARDLY a secret that Robert Henry, chairman of the music department, favors the instrumental portion of his program. Henry is bandmaster for Dist. 57. Last week he told his students to go home and tell their parents to write letters to the school board in order to "save the band program."

There are five vocal music teachers and three instrumental teachers in the schools. In a presentation before the school board at a recent meeting, Henry said he felt that any further cuts from the music program should come in the vocal music portion. Instrumental music was cut by one teacher last year and Henry told board members that any further cuts in the instrumental program would "emasculate it."

Henry's point of view has been challenged by board member Jack Ronchetto, who noted that all children except those in kindergarten receive some vocal music, while 440 students take instrumental work.

A few instruments are owned by the school and loaned to students, but most students must buy their instruments. The high investment makes parents very protective toward the program.

A band fee of $7.50 is charged, but this does not cover the cost of the program. Under a new Illinois legal opinion, fees may not be charged for courses offered by the district and this could eliminate the band fee, although parents have indicated they would not object to paying more.

WHILE BAND parents suggest dropping art teachers and vocal music teachers in the K-6 buildings to retain the

4-Wing School Plan Is Unveiled

High School Dist. 214 board members last night saw plans for the new Rolling Meadows high school that call for putting the new public school building directly across Central Road from Sacred Heart of Mary High School.

Alden Orput of Orput, Orput and Associates, architects, said the location of the Rolling Meadows school had been shifted somewhat to the west of earlier site plans so that physical education space for the new school can be consolidated on the eastern edge of the 40-acre property.

Plans shown the board call for a building with four wings, three of them two stories high. The fourth, on the south side of the site, will have what only will look like a second story opening on-grade where the property slopes up at the south. Orput said the designs now call for three entrances to the building via road, two of them onto Central and the third at the southwest corner of the site onto Barker Street "when it goes in."

An exit onto Barker will require a bridge over Salt Creek. Orput estimated cost of the bridge — at some later date — to be $25,000.

The Rolling Meadows school will have an 800-seat auditorium with a balcony and a physical education wing with as much space as Hersey High School's gymnasium and fieldhouse together.

Sports Finals:
Call 394-1700

VIATOR 1st: BERTH IN FINALS, 59-45

by CHUCK WILLOUR

For the first time since the school opened its doors in October, 1961, St. Viator has claimed a berth in the finals of a regional basketball tournament.

The Lions earned a spot in the finals of the Palatine regional tonight against Wheeling by soundly whipping cross-town rival Arlington, 59-45, last night at Palatine.

For the Lions of the Chicago-land Prep League, it was the third straight triumph recorded against Mid-Suburban League opponents. Early in the season, Coach Ed Wasielewski's charges took a decision over Palatine, and Tuesday they edged Fremd in the tourney's opening round.

Tonight, starting at 7:30, the Lions will be out to grab their fourth straight win over a Mid-Suburban foe when they challenge Wheeling, the MSL's championship squad.

For the Arlington Cardinals, the basketball season ends. On the year, the Cards compiled an 18-6 record, one of the best in the area.

Viator was headed by the Cards only in the game's opening minutes. And after Lion forward Dave Erfort popped in a base-line drive, Arlington was never again to own a lead over St. Viator.

Erfort's shot made it 6-4 in favor of the Lions, and that lead was upped to four points when teammate Terry Cullen dumped in a free throw, and then Erfort added another of his own.

From there the Lions went on reel off six more points in the quarter, while holding the Cards to five, and the period ended just after Cullen dropped through a short jumper to give the Lions a 14-9 advantage.

For the first three minutes of the second period, it looked as if the Cards were about to pull themselves back into the game, when four quick buckets by Jim Baumgartner, Ken Jorgensen and Chris Buttenob plus a pair of gift shots by Jorgensen brought the Cards a tie at 18-18.

But then Jack Doyle and Dave Kaskie combined for four more Viator two-pointers, and the squads went into intermission with the Lions enjoying a seven point lead, 25-21.

In the third period, the Lions increased that margin to ten, as a cold spell for Arlington and some deft ballhandling by the Lions enjoyed a 17 point lead, 40-23, before the Cards fought back to close the margin to 41-31 at the buzzer.

And in the final stanza, the Lions kept pouring it on the frustrated Cards, hitting six baskets and seven charity tosses to increase their total to the final 59, while the Cards picked up 14 to give them 45.

Donning the hero's mantle for St. Viator were Don Reising and Greg Doyle. Reising's rebounding and sharp-shooting helped break open the Card defenses in the first half. Then, with Reising pretty well kept under wraps by the Card defense in the second half, Doyle rose to the occasion and took up the slack.

Doyle finished the game with a big 17 points, ten of those coming in the fourth period when he was unstoppable. Next high was Reising with 13, and then came Kaskie with an even dozen.

Pacing the Cards were Baumgartner and Buttenob, each with 13.

At the end of the game — with little more than a minute to go — the Lion fans laid title to basketball supremacy in Arlington. The Palatine gymnasium shook to their thunderous roar.

"We're Number One! We're Number One!" they cried. Indeed they are.

Falcons Win, 55-48; Victory's a Comeback

by PAUL LOGAN

Forest View, trailing by 13 points late in the third quarter, pulled off its greatest comeback of the season, knocking off Maine West last night, 55-48, in the Maine South regional tournament.

The Falcons will now take on the hosting Hawks today at 8 p.m.

Coach Ken Arneson's boys began their surge with two minutes remaining in the third period on a basket by Rich Olson which made the score 38-27.

As Olson was scoring, the Warrior crowd was chanting, "We want South."

All they got was a barrage of Falcon points.

Wayne Meier put through the last points of the quarter for either side on a three-point play and a foul shot with no time remaining.

The Warriors got the tip in the final stanza but failed to score. Maine West's six-five center, George Horn, registered his fifth foul following the miss-shot. Dave Long fired home the free-throw and the Falcons began one of the most spectacular charity exhibitions in their history.

In this final quarter, they cashed in on 19 of 22 chances from the line; this decided the issue.

Forest View outscored the Warriors 11-2 in the first four minutes of the period with Steven Brown, who replaced Olson after he fouled out, hitting a clutch pair of gifters to give Forest View the lead for the first time since the opening quarter.

The Warriors tied it up, but Mike Kinneman gave the Falcons the lead for good with two more free throws making the score 44-42. The rest of the way Forest View outscored Maine West 11-6.

Olson led his team with 14 points followed by Long's 10 and Kinneman's nine. Brown played a vital role in the surge by coming off the bench to make six for six from the foul line.

4-Wing School Plan Is Unveiled

Architects last night told the High School Dist. 214 school board that the new Rolling Meadows High School will cost $9.2 million compared to Hersey High School at $7.1 million.

They said the increase comes primarily from increased building costs, up an estimated 25 per cent since Hersey was bid in January, 1967.

They said this places cost of the Rolling Meadows school at an estimated $23.39 per square foot. Hersey, opened this fall, cost $18.70.

The plans call for putting the new public school building directly across Central Road from Sacred Heart of Mary High School.

Alden Orput of Orput, Orput and Associates, architects, said the location of the Rolling Meadows school had been shifted somewhat to the west of earlier site plans so that physical education space for the new school can be consolidated on the eastern edge of the 40-acre property.

Plans shown the board call for a building with four wings, three of them two stories high. The fourth, on the south side of the site, will have what only will look like a second story opening on-grade where the property slopes up at the south.

Orput said the designs now call for three entrances to the building via road, two of them onto Central and the third at the southwest corner of the site onto Barker Street "when it goes in."

An exit onto Barker will require a bridge over Salt Creek. Orput estimated cost of the bridge — at some later date — to be $25,000.

The Rolling Meadows school will have an 800-seat auditorium with a balcony and a physical education wing with as much space as Hersey High School's gymnasium and fieldhouse together.

For the Inner-City Youngsters Ready 'Friendly Town'

Machinery is being set in gear to arrange for this summer's Friendly Town visitors to Arlington Heights.

The program, which sends youngsters from the inner-city to suburbs and farms for two weeks, is undergoing a change of format this season.

Applications were formerly cleared through Community Renewal Service offices in Chicago, but this year churches in the village will be put in direct contact with a Chicago social agency or church, and arrangements will be personally ironed out by the two groups.

Mrs. Mary Ann Reiter, 1015 N. Illinois Ave. will be responsible for requests made by parishioners of St. James Catholic Church and for families not currently affiliated with any church.

HER CONTACT in Chicago, Faith Community Church, 3458 W. Flournoy St., has not yet completed the guidelines affecting the children's visits, but the pastor suggests that students will be picked up at the church building following a special service for inner-city parents.

He recommended the procedure so that both "sending" and "receiving" families would have an opportunity to meet and talk with one another prior to the visit.

The West Side church also plans to change the starting day of the two-week holidays to Sunday.

Mrs. Reiter said the church will contact her again this week regarding other details of the program and she will then contact families who have participated in the sessions in the past.

LAST YEAR St. James processed 29 applications (15 from parishioners and 14 from other sources) and Mrs. Reiter is aiming for a total of 40 this year.

She is planning a meeting for families interested in the Friendly Town concept and said she will have a parent of one of the inner-city children who has visited in the past explain why families are willing to send the kids away to "strangers" for the two-week period.

Other churches in Arlington Heights wishing to participate in the program will be referred to other Chicago agencies by the Community Renewal Service.

Each local organization is free to set its own regulations and will be in charge of physical examinations for the children prior to their leaving the city.

THE RENEWAL Service said that some agencies plan to ask interested suburban families to take two children this year and that all agencies will attempt to make appropriate arrangements for families desiring a particular child who has visited them in the past.

Park Bids Stay Within Budget

Bids opened this week for site development and building construction for Arlington Heights' proposed nine parks are low enough so the park district probably won't have to sacrifice any planned facilities.

Arlington Heights voters approved a $2.8-million park district referendum last July after turning down two consecutive referendums in previous years.

Although the combined bids are almost $700,000 over the $2.8 million, Park Director Thomas Thornton said he thinks the district won't have to eliminate any major facilities to keep within its budget.

THE BIDS included several alternatives. By eliminating some facets of the projects, the board will keep within the budgeted amounts.

"There is a lot which can be done to reduce the costs," Thornton said. The landscaping designer, architects, Novak Carlson and Associates of Rolling Meadows, and the building architect, Joe L. Bennett of Arlington Heights, will present recommendations to the park board at its next meeting Tuesday night.

Thornton said the board will have to decide what revisions will be made in the plans to bring the costs down.

LOW BIDDER for site development was Milburn Brothers, Mount Prospect, with a bid of $470,900.

W. R. Shields Co. of Waukegan was the low bidder at $1,714,479.39 as general contractor for buildings and pools. The lowest plumbing contractor bid of $503,000 was submitted by Frank Saville Plumbing Co. of Park Ridge.

The lowest combined bid of $238,000 for heating and ventilation was submitted by United Piping Contractors of Broadview. Klorek and Sullivan of Chicago submitted the low bid of $196,241 for electrical contracting.

The total of the lowest bids for all nine park sites is $3,122,620.39, almost $700,000 over the $2.8-million referendum price tag.

PARK SITES included in the bidding were as follows:

—Frontier Park (Greenbrier subdivision), swimming, diving and wading pools, deck area, bathhouse, meeting rooms, all-purpose room and maintenance building.

—Heritage Park (Surrey Ridge), swimming, diving and wading pools, deck areas, bathhouse and meeting rooms.

—Camelot Park (Ivy Hill subdivision on Brighton Place and Suffield Drive), swimming, diving and wading pools and outdoor wading pools, deck areas, administration offices and youth center.

—Camelot Park (Ivy Hill subdivision on Brighton Place and Suffield Drive), swimming, diving and outdoor diving pools, deck areas, bathhouse, meeting rooms and all purpose room.

—Olympic Pool Park (adjacent to Arlington High School), indoor swimming, diving and outdoor wading pools, deck areas, administration offices and youth center.

—PATRIOT PARK (adjacent to MacArthur Junior High School near Palatine and Schoenbeck Roads), shelter building.

—Carefree Park (Pinehurst subdivision, near Belmont, White Oaks and Douglass), shelter building.

—Evergreen Park (Grove, Forrest and Gibbons), shelter building.

—Hickory Meadows retention basin (Hickory and Marion), shelter building.

Groups Meet To Divide Surplus Twp. Funds

The Wheeling Township Men-share of this year's surplus tal Health Board, elementary funds will meet with the town- school district, and other ship Board of Auditors during groups interested in receiving a the week of March 17

Township officials will scruti- nize budget figures for 1969-70 tomorrow morning and official- ly approve the amount available to area groups this year.

Estimated figures show a projected balance of $270,000. It is expected, however, that residents attending the town meet- ing in April will vote $15,000 to the township general assistance and cemetery budgets, leaving $255,000 to be allocated to el- igible groups.

THE MENTAL Health Board, appointed by the township last year to recommend grants, will suggest that a total of $83,750 be allotted for mental health needs.

Agencies named to share in the funds are Clearbrook Center for the Retarded, Northwest Mental Health Clinic, Coun- tryside Center for the Retarded, Community Social Services of Wheeling and the Salvation Army's family service center in Des Plaines.

The Over 50 clubs for senior citizens plan to ask for $10,000 to be divided among the Arling- ton Heights, Buffalo Grove and Wheeling groups.

A bill co-sponsored by State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, in 1967 al- lows township historical so- cieties to receive a total of $10,000 in surplus funds. Both the Arlington Heights and Wheeling societies which shared the amount equally last year will again submit budgets to the Board of Auditors.

JOHN KOEPPEN, president of the Wheeling group, said that budget needs of the club are higher this year. Their financial statement for August, 1968 shows total expenditures of $4,122 for the preceding year.

The Arlington Heights society, which plans to remodel a recently-acquired second build- ing, is still ironing out budg- etary details.

The bulk of the township funds goes traditionally to the elementary schools, to be split according to assessed valuation. Last year school districts di- vided $165,000.

Estimated township expenses for the 1968-70 year total $151,000, an increase of $32,000 over last year's figures. Costs of this spring's election, $15,500, is in- cluded in the projections. The township slate is elected once every four years.

Cemetery funds, also up this year from $3,000 to $9,000 in- clude a water main installation charge of $4,000 and increased money for new trees and sod.

THE TOWNSHIP Committee on Youth, granted $5,000 two years ago, still maintains an unexpended balance of $3,600.

The budget for the township highway department is $235,000, part of which must be rebated to the villages for their road im- provements.

Synagogue Will Receive Eight Holy Scrolls

Eight Sacred Scrolls of the Prophets will be presented to Maine Township Jewish Congre- gation in a ceremony March 14, 8:30 p.m., as part of the regular Family Sabbath services, in the Synagogue Auditorium, 8800 Ballard Road, Des Plaines.

The Ateres Zion Synagogue of Chicago, formerly one of the city's most prominent congrega- tions, has seen fit to present the Des Plaines Synagogue with these holy scrolls and other rit- ual furnishings, including the Menorah for the pulpit and Ark curtain.

Rabbi Jay Karzen has pre- pared a special ceremony of welcome for these gifts. Stu- dents of the religious school will participate in the program, as well as officers of the Ateres Zion Synagogue and the MTJC.

The presidents of both congrega- tions — Harry X. Richman of Ateres Zion, and Dr. Norman Meltzer, of the host congrega- tion, will be honored in the pro- ceSSION.

The traditional Chupah (can- opy) will accompany the scrolls to their new home in the Holy Ark.

From the Library 'The Shroud' Good Reading for Lent

by LAURIE ROSSI

Probably no one has given up reading for Lent. With this in mind, the Mount Prospect Pub- lic Library has collected books with a religious, moral, and in- spirational tone to comprise a Lenten reading shelf.

These books are available and interesting year-round, but many of them come to our at- tention more obviously now, as we approach the Easter season.

I chose several of these books to scan, and ended up reading one of them from cover to cover, in one sitting. "The Shroud," by John Walsh, is a fascinating book about one of the most amazing historical ob- jects preserved today, or one that constitutes the largest hoax.

This object which is so de- bated over is the cloth pre- served at Turin, Italy, believed by many to be the actual wind- ing sheet of Christ.

THE CLOTH bears body and facial imprints which appear to be identical with those Christ would have left. Many scholars have assumed much about the stature and details of Jesus solely from the evidence of the shroud.

The book has pictures of the shroud, showing these details as well as blood stains in ap- propriate places. Skeptics have vol- unteered the idea that years ago someone could have traced the outlines on the shroud with a thin mixture of paint, thus emphasizing the details which show up so clearly now.

However, it was pointed out that the people of those times would have known about the fresh paint and protested, and any paint used at the time would have cracked when the shroud was folded.

The question has also been raised about whether or not the shroud could simply be an imprint of someone else. Schol- ars maintain that Christ's body was in the cloth too short a time for putrefaction to occur, and if corruption had set in, any impression made would have been destroyed. There is no sign of corruption on this linen shroud.

A Warning To Glue Sniffers

Reports indicate that curious teenagers are putting the modern highly volatile glues into a paper bag and trying for a kick out of inhaling the fumes. This exposes the sniffer to the highly concentrated, intoxicating and poisonous fumes.

Permanent damage to the liver, blood and brain often results. Many accidents have been traced to "glue drunks." Do not take the chance of ruining your health by glue sniffing. Empty glue containers are a warning to parents.

John Woods retires as village president April 31. And you are (most of you) the people who live in the houses that were built in the subdivisions that were passed by the boards John Woods ruled. And

You will drive onto the Tollway by using the ramp that came from the push that Woods made. And

You will applaud in the cultural center that was bought with the money that came from the builders who wanted to build houses that would make lots of money in the town that Woods ruled. And

You will have flowers downtown because of the efforts that came from the group that came from an idea that Woods had. And

Your tax bills may be less because of the industry that came from the zoning that came from the annexation that came from the dream that Woods had. And

You will ski on a hill and swim in a lake (and maybe play golf) because of the land that was bought by the village that Woods built.

HOYT What had to be done for Arlington Heights in the past eight years Woods did very well. And this column is in the nature of a salute. Not a bow, mind: Woods hates fulsome praise.

The man is an excellent planner. He and others had a clear appreciation in 1961 that a good deal would have to be done to attract industry to Arlington Heights or homeowners would stagger under the tax load.

He was not in the least unique in recognizing the problem, but his handling of it set him apart. He went after the land that the village needed to make available to industrial developers.

In fact a good deal of the success of Kenroy's northside industrial park can be attributed to the efforts of the board and to Woods in particular.

The hours he has spent explaining, arguing, reasoning (his ego will not permit him to plead) with contractors, developers, industrial clients, is awesome.

The time he took from family and job was awesome. His performance is not likely to be repeated. There are few men so fortunately situated that they can take huge bouts of time away from their employment. High up at Universal Oil Products in Des Plaines, Woods could and will continue to have his own way, time wise.

HE IS A tremendously able manipulator of events and people. Watching him control is a real education. An emotionally loaded, complex issue comes before the board and Woods does a masterful job of setting the stage, dressing the actors (sometimes in costumes definitely not of their own choosing) and opening and closing the curtain to suit his own sense of propriety and logic.

One of his most useful tactics might be best described as the analytical monologue. It used to drive his fellow board members right up the walls because it sounded like no more than a rehearsal of the matter at hand.

But it was more. It was a detailed account of just how the matter had evolved and what the logical courses of action were. The issue was stripped of all emotion, robbed of its potential for overwhelming those concerned.

These little monologues used to take up to a half hour and Woods would insist that the problem be approached only after all parties had agreed that he had correctly recounted what the problem was and had set forth the only logical paths for solution.

Because of this arid approach to the wrath of the righteous, such stumbling blocks as fair housing, night racing, tollway access, and the Park Manor Apartments project were resolved.

NOT EVERY ISSUE was resolved to Woods liking, but the fact that some of them were resolved at all was due primarily to the set of rules he patiently enforced during debate.

The job that faced the village eight years ago was one of structure. The village walls were fragile, the foundations shaky, and much of the structure was yet to be laid out and built.

To this task Woods applied himself. And he is the major architect of this house we live in. The walls are up, the roof is on, the furnace is in, the driveway is surfaced.

What faces the next village president is the inside of the house, the part that Woods apparently hadn't the inclination nor the time for.

Because, in his haste to get the job done, Woods bruised a lot of feelings, turned a deaf ear to many a reasonable plea, ridiculed a few too many who didn't understand or appreciate the issues as well as he.

And so we find communication the key plank in the platform of so many candidates for the village board this April. We find a desire to establish a closer contact with the residents. We find independent candidates making hay of the cool, impersonal efficiency of the Woods board.

SO IT'S TIME for the warm. And it is very likely that the board that will convene in May under the presidency of present Trustee John Walsh will be more polite, more deferential, less firmly controlled and less efficient. It can afford to be.

It was up to Woods to build the village, and he did. It is up to Walsh to tie it together. The legacy and the challenge are equally impressive.

Road Problem Hits Deadend

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission backed itself into a complex thoroughfare problem Wednesday night and found a deadend.

The problem is the intersection sections which Arlington Heights Road makes with Dundee Road on the northern edge of Arlington Heights and the southern edge of Buffalo Grove.

The commission agreed that some way should be found to straighten the road (the village would like to connect the two portions of the road with a graceful curve), but that it could not find the answer.

So, it sent the problem to the village board, to permit the six trustees and the village president to try to find a solution.

TWO GENERAL alternatives are possible. First, Arlington Heights Road could be looped northwest of Dundee Road to link up with the present road near the Lake County line.

However, High School Dist. 214 is not anxious to lose part of a school site, and Kenroy Builders is not pleased with a loss of traffic near a planned shopping center in Buffalo Grove.

Second, the road could be looped southeast of Dundee Road to connect with the present route, which runs just east of the Arlington Industrial and Research Center.

If that pattern is followed, however, several homes would have to be demolished to clear a path for the road.

JOHN BEST, a planning engineer for Arlington Heights, and Comr. James Ryan, who has served as a committee of one to seek a solution, agreed that some answer — even if it must come from the state or the county — should come as soon as possible.

Each existing intersection, however, is partially in Buffalo Grove. Both villages lack specific jurisdiction on the two intersections, although a plan for the road has been on the Buffalo Grove thoroughfare plan for the past three years.

The village board will try to resolve the problem of a revised route for the road, which will become a heavily-traveled thoroughfare, on March 17. (WFP.4)

Persons attending the March 19 meeting of the Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee will learn of a new inner-city program designed to raise income levels and improve the quality of health and education in the area.

John D. Purdy, director of development for the Community Renewal Society in Chicago, will speak on "What white suburbanians can do — and can't do — for the black ghetto."

The 8 p.m. program will take place at the First United Methodist Church, 1903 E. Euclid St.

PURDY WILL describe the initial work done in a $3.5 million, self-help program in the Kenwood-Oakland community on Chicago's south side.

Called "Toward Responsible Freedom," the format will be more widely applied if successful in its present location.

A graduate of St. Paul's school and Yale University, Purdy was midwest district manager for Dravo Corp. before he joined the staff of the renewal society in 1962. He previously worked part-time for the organization for several years and describes himself as "a businessman-volunteer who went overboard" because of the pressing need for help among the poor.

Members of other human relations committees in the area have been invited to the session, which is open to the public.

Resale Prices Up on Homes

Resale prices of houses in Arlington Heights showed strong gains during the last half of 1968.

In a recently issued report by the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association, Arlington Heights' increase in resale prices was up 29.7 per cent compared with the base period of 1962 to 1964.

The three towns covered by the report, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine, indicated the largest increases in resale prices for any six month period since the selected base period of 1962 to 1964.

Palatine showed the largest average increase in resale prices, 11.5 per cent over last year. Mount Prospect's average was a gain of 9.8 per cent and Arlington Heights' average was 8.9 per cent.

The previous report, covering the first six months of 1968, showed average increases of 20.2 per cent for Palatine, 19.8 per cent for Arlington Heights, and 17.2 per cent for Mount Prospect. The last half of the year clearly shows an even stronger rate of gain in resale prices.

The increase is also shown in a comparison of resale of houses which sold in 1967 and again in 1968.

Arlington Heights led the list with 39 in number of homes resold during the last half of 1968. Mount Prospect's record was 14 and Palatine's record was 15.

HAPLESS HOWARD Borde, attorney for Miller Builders presented every reason he could muster for putting apartments on 46 acres of land adjacent to Greenbrier subdivision in northwest Arlington Heights. The plan commission watched, along with some 150 Greenbrier residents, and then pounded Borde and Miller into the sod with an 8-1 negative vote.

Greenbrier Project Is Emphatically Rejected

Rezoning for the $12 million Greenbrier West apartment was emphatically rejected Wednesday night by the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, despite Miller Builders' attempts to include 30 single family homes in the development.

With about 100 persons from Greenbrier subdivision attending the meeting, and loudly opposing the project, which would be directly west of their subdivision, the commission rejected the plan by an 8 to 1 vote.

Before the meeting, Miller had decided to revise plans for the development. It had included space for 30 single-family homes to shelter the Greenbrier subdivisions from the apartment

In addition to facing the subdivision, the 45-acre tract is east of Highway 53. Access to the property would be provided partially by a frontage road off Palatine Road on the south.

MILLER HAD reduced the number of apartment units from 620 to 600 — and cut the number of buildings from 18 to 15.

The commissioners, however, were concerned that 600 apartments were far too many for the property. Halfway through the meeting, Cmr. James Ryan asked Atty. Howard Borde if Miller wanted to increase the proportion of single family homes.

"Do you want to take another crack at it?" Borde stared at his shoes, shuffled a bit, then looked back at Herman Soifer, a vice president of real estate for Miller. Borde then said quietly to Ryan, "No, sir."

Several minutes later, Borde huddled with the Miller executives. Borde then told the commission that Miller would accept consideration of the project in two pieces — apartment and single-family zoning.

HOWEVER, IT became evident later that both the audience and the commission were opposed to any project on that location that even approached 600 apartment units.

Cmr. Alice Harms said that the village has not had enough experience with this type of large size development to warrant approval.

Reject Re-zoning

Fear of increasing traffic problems by Winston Park homeowners in Palatine was removed Wednesday night when rezoning for one of the largest proposed apartment developments in the area was rejected.

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission overwhelmingly voted to recommend denial of Miller Builders' petition that would have paved the way for construction of the 45-acre tract northeast of the Palatine Road.

Approval of such a project undoubtedly would have increased traffic flow along Anderson, Williams and Winston Drives in Palatine.

PROPOSAL to close either the Winston or Williams Drive intersection with Palatine Road were made last fall. But residents of Winston Park subdivision strongly objected since it would leave only one road connecting the area with the junior expressway, Palatine Road.

Over $2,000,000,000 will be poured into the pockets of the people of the United States because of the war between Russia and Japan. Of the sum, over half will go into the pockets of the farmer. The man behind the plow in the Middle West now stands as dictator to Russia and Japan. The wheat he raised, the corn he plowed, the cattle he owns are needed in the Far East and when the victor comes to figure up the war indemnity, he will find that the bulk of the expense has gone to the American farmer.

The regular meeting of the Arlington Heights Village Board was held Monday, March 3, 1919.

The finance committee reported favorably on bills and pay roll amounting to $232.80 which were ordered to be paid.

A petition signed by property owners abutting North Dunton Avenue from the end of the paving to the village limits pledging $200 to have the road fixed up by putting on crushed stone, was referred to the street committee.

The treasurer's report, showing a balance of $467.74 was read and referred to the finance committee.

Other food prices included three pounds of coffee for 59 cents, four pounds of cabbage for 10 cents, a pound of fresh peas for 15 cents, and two bunches of fresh beets for 11 cents.

The death sentence, as it is applied in Illinois, is arbitrary, rare, haphazard and useless as a deterrent to capital offenses. So concludes a survey released last week by Eugene S. Zemans, executive director of Chicago's John Howard Association.

The study was made in connection with a proposal in the Illinois legislature to establish a six-year moratorium on the use of the death sentence.

Answer Criticism On Water Funds

Long-standing criticism from Mrs. Barbara Vidmar, repeated during her current independent campaign for village trustee, on transfer of funds from the water system account to the general fund were answered at length yesterday by Frank Palmatier.

Palmatier, an incumbent trustee on the caucus slate for re-election, said the fund transfer is simply a matter of proper cost accounting reflecting a charge to the water system for shared use of village facilities. "Many village employees engage in the operation of the water system," he pointed out. "The village manager is in charge of it, engineers render services to it and Public Works Dept. personnel perform maintenance work."

He added that if salaries for individuals working with the water system were not paid from the water fund, they would have to be paid by taxpayers and constitute a tax subsidy to the water system.

Sitter Hero in Blaze

A basement fire caused damage estimated at approximately $400 to the Thomas Grossman home, 3108 Starling Lane, Rolling Meadows, Wednesday night.

More extensive damage was avoided through the correct action by a teenaged baby-sitter, according to Fire Chief Tom Fogarty.

Dorothy Johnson, of 3905 Holly, smelled smoke, opened the basement door and saw flames, closed the door tightly and phoned the fire department, taking the two small children to a neighbor's home.

SHE HAD BEEN trained in one of the classes for baby-sitters sponsored by Rolling Meadows Park District and the local schools.

Each course includes training by Fireman Charles Sellards on correct action in case of a fire. "It paid off," remarked the chief.

The fire apparently started in a corner where toys were stored. Chief Fogarty said ceiling beams and subflooring of the first floor were charred, and the house was smoke-filled.

Natural Resource

Southern forests supply an estimated 60 per cent of the nation's pulpwood.

A STUDY IN VALUES: Property values were at stake in the deliberations on Greenbrier West apartments. So naturally property owners turned out. With catcall and argument they presented their clear consensus that Miller Builders should not be permitted to build anything except single family homes in the area Miller had proposed for apartments. It was another example of the suburban maxim, "Nobody gives a damn for anything except the things he owns."

Graduate of Viator Dies in Viet War

A purple heart winner, who requested a three-month extension to stay in Vietnam until May 10, is the first soldier from Prospect Heights to be killed in the Vietnam war.

Pfc. James M. Kalter, 21, of 211 Wolf Road, died Monday in a hospital at Long Binh after being wounded in the head by shrapnel from an enemy grenade.

Private Kalter was among the first graduating class in 1965 at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights. He attended St. Alphonsus grammar school in Prospect Heights.

At St. Viator, Private Kalter was a member of the school paper, and participated in the senior play, "Stalag 17." He was also a member of the chess club and book club and won a certificate and medal for his outstanding knowledge of Latin.

PRIVATE KALTER was drafted into the army in 1966 and would have been eligible for release last month. "He felt he was needed over there more than stateside," said

Pfc. JAMES M. KALTER

Private Kalter's sister, Gloria, 25. "He was assigned to the infantry division but wanted to become a machine gunner on a helicopter. He was granted a three-month extension because there were no immediate openings in the aviation department."

Private Kalter was on bunker guard duty in Cu Chi, 18 miles northwest of Saigon, when he was wounded by the enemy. Doctors notified the family Saturday that he was in critical condition. He died two days later.

PRIVATE KALTER received the purple heart after being wounded in the back by shrapnel from a mortar attack in August. Last May he was one of three men of a group of 18 who survived a bitter enemy ambush near Tay Ninh. In a letter home he said he and the two other soldiers were holed up for four hours, cut off from any radio contact, and praying to get out safely. He was awarded the Combat Infantry Badge following the Tay Ninh ambush.

Funeral arrangements have not been made pending the return of Private Kalter's body in a week to 10 days.

Private Kalter is survived by his mother, Mrs. Florence Kalter; two brothers, Willard, 33, and Lawrence 31; and his sister, Gloria.

Ryan 3rd Candidate For Dist. 214 Board

James T. Ryan, of 2006 Rosehill, Arlington Heights, today announced he will be a candidate April 12 for a one-year term on the High School Dist. 214 board.

Ryan, who had been one of five persons weighed for two school board appointments made last month, said he was encouraged to run and had encouraged the matter for a long time before deciding to take out candidate petitions.

He said he wanted to assure himself that he could give the school board the proper time and without shoring the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, on which he serves.

In a statement released to the papers he explained, "I specifically announce my candidacy for the one-year term so that each and every voter will have the opportunity to review my record in one year."

RYAN ALSO made these points in his statement: "That it is 'vitally important' to achieve close cooperation between the various plan commissions and the high school districts."

"That the main prerequisites for a school board member are 'a willingness to serve and a sense of objectivity. . . I believe I have sufficient objectivity to serve the students, the parents of the students and the taxpayer at-large. A board member must have a feeling of responsibility to each.'"

"That he would do his best to insure 'that, dollar for dollar, this district will have the best educational system that it collectively cares to afford."

RYAN TOLD Paddock Publications he felt he could serve as a bridge between the Arlington Heights Plan Commission and the high school district. He pointed out that board member Mrs. Leah Cummins holds a similar position with the Elk Grove Village Plan Commission while board member Frank Bergen serves on the Mount Prospect Plan Commission.

Ryan called for using "leadership, direction and a willingness to listen to legitimate, legally presented student proposals" as the answer to the trend of student "rebellion for rebellion's sake."

Ryan, when he files his petition, will become the third name on the list, a list of candidates for the one-year term. The others are Don McGlothlin of Wheeling and John M. Costello of Mount Prospect, now holding a seat on the board by appointment.

RYAN, A LAWYER, is a partner in the Chicago law firm of Morgan, Halligan, Lanoff and Cook.

He is a former director of the Arlington Heights Jaycees, former president of the Arlington Vista Home Owners Association and general counsel for the Illinois Young Republicans.

Wilson School Orientation Set

Wilson School in Arlington Heights will hold Parent Orientation night on Tuesday. The meeting will begin at 8:00 p.m. in the school's multi-purpose room, 13 E. Palatine Rd.

The purpose of the meeting is to introduce parents of kindergartners for the 1969-70 school year to teachers Mrs. Jean Baughmann and Mrs. Ruth Cornier, principal Robert Parsons, and the school.

PARENTS WILL have an opportunity to ask questions about the May 15 registration of their children and will also receive pamphlets informing them of school procedure.

ACH, YA! Der little ol' German lawyer Aribert Wild from Palatine has done some fancy convincing to get the little old shoe-maker on South Evergreen to close shop and move to Palatine. Wild now joins the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan, Nicholas Lattot, and Walter Krause in the decision and profit making to be done on the block just north of Sigwalt between Evergreen and N. MANY CONTRACTORS attended Arlington Heights Park Dist. bid openings for construction of buildings and pools on Wednesday. As Park Director Thomas Thornton read one bid, a contractor groaned, "How can the bid be that low? It cuts me out." As Thornton read another bid which was rather high, someone commented, "They must have put the decimal point in the wrong place."

MAKE WEIGH — Local food store managers may find themselves besieged with women who want to weigh their produce with truth in packaging. The Arlington Heights Woman's Club was told the plight of one woman in a popular store who couldn't find a five pound sack of potatoes that weighed more than 4 1/2 pounds.

WHERE, OH WHERE, will Arlington Heights find a building to replace Juliette Low in the upcoming village elections? The school was to be used as a polling place; however, even though the building is still standing after the disastrous February fire, it can't be used for voters.

WHOA, THERE! With giddy municipal visions of high-rise development over the air rights of the Chicago and North Western RR, there comes a note of reality added by a downtown banker. He figures that property in the central business district will have to be hitting $25,000 per square foot, before it will be worth while to build over the tracks. Current price of downtown land finished buildings is about $6,000 per square foot.

MORE WHOA THERE — Village Theatre had an idea. Get hold of the old Evangelical Free Church on the property purchased by the village for a cultural center and use the building as a theatre and youth center. Theatre people were excited, youth lovers were excited (youth might have been excited too, had it been informed), but the village administration is not. Watch for it not to happen.

More Than 500 At Smorgasbord

A community smorgasbord, sponsored by the Elk Grove Village Teen Council to raise funds for decoration and operation of a proposed youth center, was attended by more than 500 persons Sunday.

The afternoon event, held in Elk Grove High School's cafeteria, netted a profit of more than $300, according to Suzanne Olson, superintendent of recreation for the Elk Grove Park District.

THE PARK district is the agency sponsoring the youth center.

Miss Olson said that the council appreciated the support of the community.

The unexpected popularity of the event forced an early closing, as the food supply had run out nearly two hours before the scheduled end of the affair.

Plan Center For Shopping

The Northwest suburb's largest shopping center is expected to be under construction in Schaumburg by July 1.

Underground improvements for the long awaited Sears (Woodfield) shopping center are now underway. Promoters say it will be the largest shopping center in the nation.

The shopping center is expected to include three and possibly four large-size department stores including a Sears-Roebuck, a J. C. Penney and a Marshall Field store.

VILLAGE Pres. Robert O. Atcher said Thursday an announcement with details about the center is expected to be made by the Taubman Co., builders, within 30 days.

Taubman, which was formerly headquartered in the Chicago area, has built several large centers throughout the country. The firm is now headquartered in Southfield, Mich.

The first phase of the shopping center will include 1,844,000 square feet of retail space. At the end of the second stage there will be 2.10 million square feet and the final stage will bring the size to 2.5 million.

Atcher and Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel spent several days last week meeting with shopping center officials and engineers working out details.

School Group Goal Is Local Chapters

Citizens for Education Freedom, a national group representing private school interests, is targeting in on the Northwest suburbs.

District chairman G. Michael Mokate of Mount Prospect says he wants to see chapters formed in every private school in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Palatine townships.

Mokate is chairman of Lake-Cook Chapter, Dist. 3 of the CEF.

He was in charge of a private CEF planning meeting last Wednesday in St. Raymond's rectory, Mount Prospect.

The CEF group will meet again in private this week and then will hold a public planning conference Thursday, March 13, in the St. Raymond's rectory.

Invitations to attend have gone out to school board, principals and pastors of area parochial schools.

THE CEF's goal in Illinois is to put public pressure on the state legislature to pass a bill allotting a $50 grant for each elementary pupil and $100 for each high school child, no matter whether the school he attends is public or private.

Mokate calls this obtaining "a proper share of the state tax funds being appropriated for secular subject education."

In a statement released to the press, he noted, "Our private schools individually face extinction because of economic pressure. We can no longer tolerate the burdens of double payment for secular education. CEF in union with concerned parents and supporters seek an equitable and just solution to this nationally recognized social problem of our modern society."

St. Raymond CEF Chairman David Mann and Sacred Heart of Mary CEF chairman Frank O'Malley are expected to announce their plans for CEF meetings following the March 13 conference.

"THE SHOPPING center will use more water per day than the village presently bills," Atcher said.

Public improvements for the center will be made through special assessment bonds issued by the village, Siegel said. The special assessment will be against the 245-acres owned by the center.

"This will not cost the taxpayers of Schaumburg anything," Siegel said. The developers will pay for the improvement bonds over a 10-year period.

Atcher said much site preparation must be completed before actual construction of the center can begin. "They hope to be under way by July 1," he said.

STORM SEWERS are now being laid along the shopping center property and what will be the future location of Interstate 90 south of Golf Road. Other work for adequate drainage includes cutting a channel to Salt Creek.

The storm sewer is being paid for by Pure Oil Co. and the shopping center. It meets state highway department standards, Atcher said.

PTA Will Meet Board Hopefuls

Dist. 23 PTA will meet Tuesday in the MacArthur Junior High School gym at 8 p.m.

Three school board candidates will be on hand to conduct a question and answer period. They are Arthur S. Kester, of 201 S. Maple Lane, Prospect Heights; Alan Krinsky, of 2077 Rosehill Drive, Arlington Heights; and John B. Stull, of 309 Viola Lane, Prospect Heights.

Ronald Greenberg from the Prospect Heights Park Dist. is also on the agenda to explain the spring and summer programs.

AESOP SAYS:

The Boar and the Fox

A wild Boar was whetting his tusks against the stump of a tree when a Fox happened by. Thinking to make fun of his neighbor, he made a great show of looking anxiously about, as if in fear of some sudden enemy. But the Boar kept right on with his work.

"Why are you doing that?" asked the Fox at last with a grin. "I see no reason for it; there is neither hunter nor hound in sight nor any other danger."

"True," replied the Boar. "But when that danger does arise, I shall have something else to do than to sharpen my weapons."

It is too late to whet the sword when the trumpet sounds to draw it.

Every generation since Aesop 2,500 years ago has known the wisdom of his lesson of preparedness. Today, as we enjoy increased financial income, is the time to put some of it away — for old age, illness, or emergency.

Another sage put it this way: "It wasn't raining when Noah built the ark."

Dist. 214 to Preview Plans for High School

Some imaginative approaches to design of the new Rolling Meadows High School will be previewed by the high school Dist. 214 board of education Thursday night.

Alden Orput, of Orput, Orput and Associates will show board members possible building plans for the district's seventh high school.

Orput will also have some tentative estimates for cost of the new building which is expected to contain about 300,000 square feet.

Orput has been working for about six weeks with district administrators. He took his plans to a central office staff meeting Tuesday afternoon and was barraged with questions.

AT THE END of the meeting, Supt. Edward H. Gilbert suggested that Orput give the board two alternatives on design of an auditorium for the building: one, an 800 seat theater capable of being subdivided into four sections by movable walls; two, a smaller theater, probably seating 500 with two large instruction rooms planned for in divisional wings of the building.

The staff's preference is for the latter.

The most imaginative feature of the Rolling Meadows High School shown Tuesday is the field house which may be circular in design and domed. Orput said he was "toying with that concept and may still suggest a square sided building."

Orput has planned the building with the auditorium in the center surrounded by a foyer, a wide corridor and two 300-seat cafeterias. On the side of the building facing Central Road would be built a two story wing housing art, music, and fine arts on the first floor, and science and math classes on the second floor.

The classrooms would be built around a resource room somewhat like a library but containing audio-visual equipment in addition.

A SECOND two story wing to the west would house foreign language and social studies, on the second floor would be administrative offices and an instructional materials center.

The architects are encouraging strong use of movable walls with the support of the administration. The idea is to make it possible for new approaches to teaching to be adopted 10 years from now without having to completely renovate the building.

Date of the school referendum to finance the building is set for April 12. Voters will also be asked to approve a tax rate increase totalling 33 1/2 cents.

The referendum are being presented at the same time to underscore the fact that the district will need the extra tax money to staff the building when it is ready for use in 1971.

The board will meet as a committee of the whole at 8 p.m. in Slickemeyer Administration Center, 799 W. Kensington, Mount Prospect. The meeting is open to the public.

Backers Increase For Mrs. Novotny

Mrs. Gerald I. Brask, campaign co-chairman for Village Clerk Jeanne Novotny, has announced additional names of Arlington Heights residents supporting Mrs. Novotny's candidacy.

Included are Frederick C. Leydig, former United Fund chairman and past president of the Illinois Young Republicans; Theodore H. Seiler, School Dist. 25 school board member; and John Kirkland, Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals.

Also on the list are Mrs. Thomas Grisell, Northwest Suburban Interfaith Council; Robert Clark, past president of the Wheeling Township Republican Workshop; Mrs. Donald Marquis, past president, Wheeling Township Women's Republican Club; and Mrs. John Davis, also active in Republican work.

MRS. WILLIAM Kelly, who works part-time in the village clerk's office volunteered her services in the campaign and Thomas Novotny will serve as finance chairman for his wife. Novotny served as western district campaign manager for Congressman Donald Rumsfeld in his first election.

Village trustee Roy A. Bressler is Mrs. Novotny's other chairman. Supporters previously named include Robert Bukowski, Mrs. Alan MacDonald, Thomas Grisell, Mrs. George Hauff, Harold F. Bunnelle and Mrs. George Ireland. Others are Mrs. Harry J. Jenkins and Roland A. Franzen.

Arlington Turnabout Dance This Saturday

Arlington High School will hold its annual turnabout dance Saturday from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. in the Grace Gym.

Decorations reflecting an Old Town atmosphere will include special lighting effects. Music for the freshman-class sponsored dance will be provided by the Blue Tailfox.

Committees for the dance are headed by chairman Bob Givens, decoration; Donna Skoglund, refreshments; Patti Miller, music; Pam Gatzberg, theme, and Sue Collins, publicity.

THE DANCE attire is informal and refreshments will be served in the cafeteria.

John Hicks and Mrs. Howett Clancy, of the guidance department of the high school, are the sponsors for the freshman class.

Tickets will be $1.50 per couple and may be purchased at the door.

Valparaiso U. Names Alumni

Two residents of Arlington Heights have been named to the current support committee of the national 16,000 member Valparaiso University Alumni Association, according to Arthur T. Wellman, River Forest, president of the association.

Louis S. Morgan, 210 E. Maude, and Clarence R. Strutz, 1718 S. Chesterfield, are serving on the committee headed by Paul F. Dickmeyer, Fort Wayne, Ind., vice-president for current support.
